HIS WIFE ALARMED.

Fears Wilson May Break Down.

Will Accompany President-elect on Birthday Trip to Staunton Today.

Change of Climate from Bermuda to New Jersey Begins to Tell.

As an Invalid in Bed the Governor Discusses Reform With His Callers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Dec. 26.—Propped up in bed, President-elect Wilson sat for two hours today talking about currency reform with Representative Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the Subcommittee on Banking and Currency Reform, and H. P. Willis, a New York financial writer.

Mr. Glass said afterwards: "The Governor has some positive ideas about currency reform and expressed them more decisively and clearly than anyone else I have ever met.

"That's what he talked about," he said as he exhibited with a smile a handful of $5 gold pieces. He refused, however, that none of the bills supposed to be before his committee in Congress were authentic or the committee had not yet acted any measure. He added that the hearings would begin in January.

Wilson will leave at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow for Staunton, his birthplace, there to celebrate with the family his fifty-sixth birthday on Monday. The train will reach Washington at 3:15 o'clock p.m. and will be held for fifteen minutes. It will be the first time that the President-elect will have stopped in the national capital since election.

A coincidence of the journey is that Richard H. Taylor, one of the secret service men detailed with the Governor since election, also hails from Staunton, from which place as a boy he ran away to sea and won a medal of honor from Congress for safely navigating an American war vessel and saving it from destruction in a hurricane off the Samoan islands in 1889.

Mrs. Wilson will go with the President-elect. She said tonight that while his health had improved, she had thought it a bit risky for him to make the trip to Staunton on account of cold weather. It is unlikely that the Governor will make any more automobile trips to and from Trenton in the cold weather, though his indisposition is believed to be as much the result of the quick change from the warm Bermuda climate to frigid latitudes as to exposure. His digestion has not been of the best, either, since his return, and coupled with the effect of his long hours at the Statehouse, it was feared at first that he was on the road to a severe breakdown.

WIRES FIGURE IN ROMANCE.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Telegraph wires figure prominently in the romance of Miss Rose Hackett, an operator of Western Union wires at the Union Stock Yards, and John R. Fleming, a stockman of Minco, Okla.

John fell in love at first sight with Rose six years ago, when, attending the stock show, he walked into the office to send a message.

"You are a pretty girl," John said, simply. Rose had heard this before, but this time it sounded as if the speaker was in earnest. He took her to dinner that evening and asked her to be his wife after a commission merchant had introduced them. She demurred. He insisted.

"In about six years," she finally agreed.

On Christmas Day, 1908, she received this message: "Five more years. Don't forget me."

"Merry Christmas. Yes," the answer went back.

They are to be married at Easter time.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The Admiral Bucknam, who is mentioned in London dispatches as a retired American naval officer directing the naval campaign of the Turks, is said at the Navy Department to be a retired skipper whose last service in this country was as one of the experts at the Crampship building concern specially charged with the conduct of trial trips of the naval vessels.

It is known, however, that a Capt. Logbetter, a graduate of the Annapolis Academy, has been connected with the Turkish navy for the last ten years. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1888 and was for a number of years in charge of the tug service at Panama.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Washington is thoroughly aroused over the assault committed in a residence section and almost within the shadow of the Capitol dome, last night, upon Mrs. Adelaide Grant, by a negro. Nathaniel Green, arrested as the assailant, is confronted with the extreme sentence, if convicted, of capital punishment. Responding to public sentiment the police and prosecuting officers announce they will direct every possible effort to obtain the maximum penalty that the case may be made an example. There is, however, no danger of lynch law.

Mrs. Grant, who was on her way to a Christmas party at the home of relatives when attacked, is resting in the hospital to which she was taken. She is suffering from a broken jawbone, the fracture being caused by the blow which felled her and rendered her the helpless prey of the negro. The shock was so great that she may suffer nervous prostration.

Mrs. Grant had only recently recovered from an attack of nervousness which had incapacitated her for work in the municipal building where she has been employed for several years since the death of her husband, who was an engineer in the district government and was asphyxiated while examining a trunk sewer.

Never in the annals of the local police has a more daring attack occurred. After knocking Mrs. Grant to the sidewalk the assailant dragged her into the areaway of an occupied house and so bold was he that he made no attempt to escape until a policeman and a citizen, summoned by an aroused neighbor, responded to the cries of the victim, who was choked and beaten, although she fought valiantly.

Beauty Recipe.

STOPS EATING CANDIES AND BECOMES A VENUS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ITHACA (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An abstainer from candy, tea and coffee, Miss Elsie Scheel of Brooklyn, N. Y., is declared to be the most perfect woman at Cornell University, where she is specializing in horticulture. She is the nearest approach to the proportions of Venus de Milo ever measured at the institution by Dr. Esther Parker, the medical examiner. She is rosy cheeked, has never been ill and eats only about three meals every two days. She seldom has breakfast.

Miss Scheel, who is a graduate of the Packer Collegiate Institute of Brooklyn, is twenty-four years old, weighs 171 pounds, is 5 feet 7 inches tall, has a normal chest measurement of 34.6 inches, waist 30.3 inches and hips 40.4 inches.

Miss Scheel dotes on beefsteak. She considers that it contains the best body building substances. Miss Scheel has little taste for delicacies. Cakes, pies and candy have never appealed to her. She has yet to taste tea and coffee. She does not believe either is good for any woman. She likes fruit, however, and eats a great deal of it.

The "perfect-woman" is a cold water enthusiast, fond of boating, basketball, walking, motoring and all forms of out-door life. Most women, she believes remain indoors too much their health, especially in winter. If they dressed warmly and took a long walk in the bracing air instead of breathing the heated air of an apartment, she says, they would be much stronger and rosy cheeked.

A WIFE IS A FAMILY, NEW YORK JUDGE RULES.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] A husband and wife constitute a family; a childless widow is included in the term family; having a wife is having a family.

Supreme Court Justice Platzek stands sponsor for the foregoing definition of "a family."

As the appellate division has reversed him, however, it is now up to the Court of Appeals to determine the question which has figured in the courts many years.

Justice Platzek's definition was rendered three years ago in the suit of Mrs. William D. Oberndorf against her husband for an income of $1000 a year. The Oberndorfs had separated by mutual agreement two years previously.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Atty.-Gen. Chairman William Alden Smith and Senator Fall of the committee laid much of the testimony they had gathered before the President and called attention, it is understood, to the fact that arms and ammunition were permitted to go to the Mexican Federals and denied to the rebels.

BIG SHAKE-UP IS UNDER WAY.

Changes in Southern Pacific Auditing Offices.

A. D. McDonald to Succeed C. B. Seger.

Ordered from San Francisco to New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. D. McDonald, auditor of the Southern Pacific Company since December, 1909, has left for New York City in response to a wire calling upon him to report there immediately, and it is persistently reported in Southern Pacific circles that his departure is a forerunner of a big shake-up in the entire auditing department of the railroad.

The most important changes to be made in the department according to various Southern Pacific officials, are these:

C. B. Seger, formerly auditor of the company, with headquarters in this city, will succeed Mahl by appointment from the Harriman board of directors.

A. D. McDonald, present auditor, will succeed Seger as chief deputy controller and general auditor.

G. E. Bissonett, formerly auditor of passenger accounts, with headquarters in this city, present auditor of the company's lines in Texas and Mexico, will succeed McDonald as auditor of the Southern Pacific, with offices in this city.

These four changes, say the company officials, will be announced within a short time, and are planned by the New York officials of the company at present.

That there will be many other changes of a minor nature in the auditing department of the Southern Pacific is without question, they say.

McDonald came here in 1909, from Los Angeles, where he was secretary and auditor of the Pacific Electric Railway. He had also been chief clerk and confidential assistant to Seger at one time. He succeeded Seger here when Seger was appointed chief deputy controller of the Harriman lines, with the additional title of general auditor. Seger at that time succeeded Erastus Young, who completed fifty years of railroad service on January 1, 1910.

Vice-President Mahl is understood to be about to resign because of failing health. He is well advanced in years and has been with the Harriman lines for many years.

McDonald's first work in New York, it was said yesterday, will be to aid in directing the segregation of Union and Southern Pacific accounts, a step which is said to be the first on the part of either railroad to begin the dissolution ordered by the Supreme Court.

ALL RAILROADS SHOW GAINS.

November Earnings of Union, Southern and Northern Pacific and Santa Fe Greatly Increased.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Chief in the budget for railroad earnings for November that came out today were the statements of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, both of which exhibited large gains in comparison with the figures for November, 1911.

Union Pacific Gross was $8,721,119, an increase of $1,053,196. Net was $5,442,452, an increase of $540,096. In October gross increased $975,100 and net $365,700.

Southern Pacific showed a total for gross, in November, of $12,651,413, an increase of $694,505; net, $4,055,-930, an increase of $305,674. In October, Southern Pacific gained $1,-990,500 in gross, and $815,500 in net. Earnings of each road for the year so far constitute a new high record.

The earnings of the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe for November showed $10,818,886 gross, which was an increase of $830,465 over November, 1911, and $4,110,725 net, an increase of $293,595. Operating income increased $307,524. In the five months ended with November, Atchison's gross totalled $50,808,115, an increase of $5,070,208, and operating income was $15,977,418, an increase of $2,189,234.

Northern Pacific's equipment order for locomotives and cars, which will aggregate about $10,000,000, is said to cover the requirements for 1913 and 1913. Gross earnings of Northern Pacific continue to show exceedingly satisfactory gains for the present fiscal year. Through the first two weeks in December, the increase in gross earnings over the similar period of last year was approximately $3,-750,000. The first two weeks in December showed gains of almost $250,-000.

Philadelphia Woman Five Years Older Than Century Finds Christmas Not So Simple as of Yore.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Although Mrs. Anne Elizabeth Magill is only 104 years and eight months old, she celebrated her 105th Christmas yesterday at the home of her son, William. She walked from her room on the second floor to the dining-room, where was a Christmas tree.

"Merry Christmas everybody," said Mrs. Magill, and from that moment she was kept busy throughout the day responding to greetings of friends who called.

"I am feeling pretty good," she declared to her friends. "I am glad to be here for another Christmas. Things are different from what they were when I was a child. Everything was more simple then."

She says that she feels so well that she believes she will continue for several years to greet Santa Claus.

Their Fate With Jury.

geles Times Building, where twenty people were killed, now rests with the jury.

Federal Judge Anderson, a few minutes after 5 o'clock tonight, instructed the jury and ordered it to retire. The court then adjourned until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, thus precluding the return of the verdicts before that time, should they be found. All the verdicts, while separate as to each defendant, are to be returned at one time.

"How long will the jury be out?" was the question asked as the jurors filed out. A basis for a belief that verdicts would not be reached when court opens tomorrow was found in the court's instructions, "Carefully to weigh all the evidence in the case." It has required almost twelve weeks to introduce the evidence.

THE DEFENDANTS.

The defendants who await the outcome include Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, of which John J. McNamara, the confessed dynamiter, was once secretary; various executive board members of that union; Herbert S. Hockin, accused as an accomplice of Ortie E. McManigal, another confessed dynamiter; Olaf A. Tveitmoe, secretary of the California Building Trades Council; E. A. Clancy, San Francisco, and J. E. Munsey, Salt Lake City, Utah. The three last named are charged with promoting the Los Angeles explosion.

These men are not charged under the Federal laws with personally causing any explosion. They are charged with conspiracy to violate Federal laws and with aiding in the illegal transportation of dynamite and nitroglycerine on passenger trains.

CLOSING ARGUMENT.

In closing his argument to the jury Dist.-Atty. Miller again referred to the argument of United States Senator Kern, counsel for the defendants. Senator Kern had left the city, saying he was going to Washington.

"The Los Angeles Times Building explosion was called 'the crime of the century,'" Mr. Miller said, "but the real crime of the century was this damnable conspiracy. It will be an everlasting disgrace to our country and to our civilization if these forty conspirators are not convicted. Gentlemen of the jury, a United States Senator, sworn to uphold the laws of his country, has dared to stand before you in defense of these enemies of the republic. You should find these conspirators guilty and put your seal of condemnation upon such conduct by a United States Senator."

Nearing the close of his argument, Dist.-Atty. Miller charged that "all the officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers on trial here knowingly entered into this nefarious conspiracy.

"Attended by riots, assaults and even by attempts to kill, this great conspiracy against employers who refused to recognize the union grew until it reached the murder stage at Los Angeles," said the District Attorney.

"At the head of the conspiracy was McNamara, but behind him was President Frank M. Ryan, directing explosions by writing letters from New York and other cities. On the Pacific Coast was Olaf A. Tveitmoe and Eugene A. Clancy, directing the work of destruction from San Francisco, and showing by their letters and movements that they had full knowledge of the Los Angeles explosion. At Salt Lake City was J. E. Munsey, alias Jack Bright. At New Orleans was Phillip A. Cooley, clamoring that the dynamite campaign be carried to southern States, but disappointed because the men he had retained to do the work got frightened.

"At New York was Frank C. Webb, who would not take the witness stand here in his own behalf, and at Boston was Michael J. Young, a member of the union's executive board, who personally pointed out the jobs to be blown up in New England. At Buffalo was John T. Butler, the vice-president.

"At Cleveland were the sluggers, Peter J. Smith and George Anderson, carrying on a reign of terror. And, so, throughout the length and breadth of this land there was carried on between the international officers and local business agents a conspiracy which was a disgrace to organized labor. It was a conspiracy of which John J. and James B. McNamara, Ortie E. McManigal, and Edward C. Clark, all confessed dynamiters, were only a part."

"These men, against whom the prosecution asks you to return verdicts of guilty, were the men who allowed J. J. McNamara $1000 a month to carry on dynamiting, and by which he was enabled to send his brother to Los Angeles at the behest of Tveitmoe and Clancy, and there with one infernal machine kill twenty persons," said Miller. "Clancy once was vice-president of the union. He was familiar with what was going on. On August 21, 1910, there was an explosion at Seattle and Clancy was there. Clancy was in Boston with M. J. Young when the Los Angeles explosion occurred. But he hurried back to San Francisco after telegraphing that evidence should be destroyed.

"'Clean house,' he said. This Clancy, who assisted in planning the Los Angeles Times explosion, who went to Salt Lake City to help James B. McNamara, the murderer, flee from the scene of his crime, ought now to be on trial for murder instead of being here. Frank C. Webb of New York wrote to McNamara that Clancy's mind seemed to wander to the Golden West. Is there any questions as to why Clancy's mind wandered to the Golden West when he read of the killing of twenty people? Whose mind wouldn't wander to the Golden West?

"Yet a United States Senator, paid by the public to perform duties in the greatest law-making body in the world, has dared to stand here and defend Clancy. Will that Senator or any lawyer explain to this jury what Clancy meant in his telegram to 'clean house?'"

THE INSTRUCTIONS.

After stating the substance of the various offenses charged and mentioning the nation-wide strike of the Ironworkers' Union, which the government charged was the motive for 100 explosions on the work of contractors who refused to recognize the union, Judge Anderson in his instructions said:

"It was not unlawful for the structural ironworkers to organize the union to which they belong. It is not unlawful for the defendants to be members of that or any other labor organization. Men have the right to use their combined power through such organizations to advance their interests in any lawful way; but they have no right to use this power in the violation of the law. Organized labor is not on trial here, nor is the right of labor to organize an issue, but members of labor organizations owe the same obedience to the law and are liable to the same punishment for its violation as persons who are not members of such organizations.

"The defendants are not on trial for causing the various explosions and the consequent loss of life and property throughout the United States shown by the evidence; they are on trial for the offenses charged in the indictment. Evidence of these explosions, together with the facts and circumstances surrounding them, were permitted to go in evidence before you because they tend to show the community of purpose, the concert of mind and action, which is an essential ingredient of the offenses charged, and they should be considered by you upon that issue alone.

"The evidence in this case shows that in August, 1905, there was a controversy between the International Association of Bridge ad Structural Ironworkers and the American Bridge Company over the open and closed-shop question; that in August, 1905, the International declared a general strike against the American Bridge Company, and that this strike has never been settled.

"If you find from the evidence that in order to carry out the purposes of the International, the defendants or two or more of them, entered into a conspiracy to destroy with dynamite and nitroglycerin the property of the American Bridge Company, and other open-shop concerns, or the structures which they were erecting in various States of the Union, and if you find that such conspiracy to destroy such property included as a necessary step in the accomplishment of such destruction the unlawful transportation of dynamite and nitroglycerin upon the vehicles of common carriers engaged at the time in the transportation of passengers from a place in one State to a place or places in another or other States of the United States, and if you further find that such destruction of property was accomplished by explosions of dynamite or nitroglycerin in various places throughout the United States, and that the dynamite and nitroglycerin with which such explosions were produced were as a matter of fact transported from State to State in suit-cases and carrying cases upon the vehicle of common carriers engaged at the time in carrying of passengers as averred, then you will be authorized to find that a conspiracy was formed to transport dynamite and nitroglycerin unlawfully, as charged in the indictment.

Calling attention to the charges of illegal transportation, the court stated:

"You may find the defendants guilty upon all counts of the indictment upon which they are now on trial, if you are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that proofs justify it, or you may find the defendants guilty upon any one or more of the counts of the indictment and not guilty upon others. You may find any defendant guilty or not guilty, or you may find one or more of them guilty, and the others not guilty. Before you can find any of the defendants guilty you must be satisfied of his guilt in manner and form as charged in some one of the indictments upon which they are on trial, beyond a reasonable doubt."

Of McManigal and Edward Clark, Cincinnati, both of whom pleaded guilty and testified for the government, the court said their testimony should be received with caution and scrutinized with care," and added:

"The witness, William J. Burns, while on the witness stand, detailed a conversation that he had with the defendant, Hockin, in which he made statements to Hockin about the defendant, Tveitmoe, having been in prison and having a prison record. Such statements made by Burns are not to be considered by you in any way in determining the guilt or innocence of the defendant, Tveitmoe, as to the charges in this indictment."

THE COURT'S CONCLUSIONS.

Judge Anderson concluded:

"Carefully weigh all the evidence in the case and from it under the rules of law which I have given you to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendants. With you and not with the court rests the responsibility of finding and determining the facts. The views of the court on questions of fact are not controlling upon you. You have nothing to do with the case except to determine the single question of the guilt or innocence of the defendants. If you should return a verdict of guilty, the measure of punishment to be inflicted upon the defendants is committed to the court."

The testimony of Burns about Tveitmoe referred to by the court was that Burns had numerous conversations with Hockin shortly after the Los Angeles Times explosion, and that Burns related to Hockin how he expected Tveitmoe "would blow up," because he (Burns) had obtained a photograph of Tveitmoe in the garb of a Minnesota Penitentiary prisoner, and had published it in a San Francisco paper.

Josephus Daniels Doesn't Know What to Do With Baby Turtles Sent Him by Commoner.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

RALEIGH, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] To eat or not to eat? That's the question. Whether 'tis better in the end to keep 'em as pets and so let 'em amuse the kiddies, or by taking knives against their throats and killing 'em.

This might readily be adapted as a chorus, for Democratic National Committeeman Joseph Daniels and family. Their Christmas gift from William Jennings Bryan was a box containing two baby terrapins. Now the Daniels family is in a quandary whether to eat 'em or whether to turn 'em over to the boys as pets.

TRIES TO BLOW UP POSTOFFICE.

Man Armed With Nitroglycerin Demands Ten Thousand Dollars He Says Government Owes Him.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JAMESTOWN (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—A well-dressed man entered the Westfield (N. Y.) postoffice early tonight and demanded of Assistant Postmaster James Douglass $10,000 he said the government owed him.

"Wait until I see if the order has come," Douglass said.

The stranger pulled a bottle from his pocket.

"If you move from that chair I'll drop this bottle," he announced.

J. B. Lennox, who was in the postoffice, slipped out quietly and notified two constables, who arrested the man. The bottle contained enough nitroglycerin to blow the building up. The man said he was Edward Paine of Chicago, but refused to give more information about himself.

TURKS DERIDE ALLIES' TERMS.

Both Sides Declare They Will Not Recede.

Reply of Ottomans Will Be Delivered Saturday.

Peace Thought More Likely Than Further War.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Both the Turks and the Balkan allies are standing by their guns on the peace terms. Both say it is impossible to recede from their positions.

Nevertheless those who think they know what is going on behind the scenes still believe the probabilities of the conclusion of peace are greater than of the resumption of the conflict.

The exchange of cipher dispatches between the administration at Constantinople and Rechad Pasha continues, but the chief of the Turkish plenipotentiaries declines to divulge the nature of the reply he will present to the allies Saturday, when the conference reassembles. It is understood this will be as already outlined, with the additional promise that Turkey will apply to the European territories remaining to her the reforms which Count von Bearchthold, the Austro-Hungary Foreign Minister, proposed before the war.

CALLS TERMS ABSURD.

"While I cannot discuss the reply of the Ottoman government," said Rechad Pasha tonight, "nothing prevents me from saying that the terms the allies have proposed are simply absurd. They have produced this impression wherever heard, even outside Turkish circles. It was never known that after the conclusion of an armistice one belligerent party could ask the other to concede territories bravely defended and still resisting with heroism.

"Why should we do this, especially when the Bulgarians had three reverses at our hands just before the armistice, while the Greeks, who continued to fight, were defeated both on land around Janina and at sea off the Dardanelles?

"Turkey was induced to accept an armistice only on the advice of the powers in order to avoid useless carnage on both sides. The same humanitarian considerations led the Ottoman government to ask for the revictualling of the besieged towns, and might induce the government to yield certain conditions for the sake of peace. But there is a limit which the allies have far surpassed."

THE ALLIES' POSITION.

The allies, on the other hand, say that the armistice was arranged to give Turkey an opportunity of making peace terms without suffering further losses in the field, and they characterized Turkey's talk of keeping Adrianople, Janina and Scutari, and regaining Salonika, as laughable. Gen. Dangils, the Greek chief of the general staff, said:

"Let them come and take Salonika if they can. Even the dust of our ancient heroes would rise up to defend our rights."

The most optimistic of the Turkish military party profess confidence that the Bulgarians never will be able to force the Tchataldja lines, but that, on the contrary, with her present powerful army Turkey will free Adrianople in a fortnight, and, adding that garrison to the main body, will take the offensive toward Philippolis and Salonika.

TURKISH PROPOSALS.

MAY DECLINE INDEMNITY.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 26.—According to the Constantinople newspapers, the Turkish counter-proposals, which were forwarded by telegraph yesterday to the plenipotentiaries at London, comprise the maintenance of an effective sovereignty over the territory east of the line of demarcation, between the Maritza River and the Black Sea, including Adrianople, while west of the line the government would be content with the recognition of Turkish sovereignty with an autonomous regime. The government, however, refuses to entertain any idea of pecuniary indemnity.

TURKS TO CONTROL MOSQUE.

BULGARIA'S CONCESSION.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Bulgarian delegates have authorized the Morning Post to state that Bulgaria is prepared to vest the control of the Sultan Selim Mosque at Adrianople permanently in the hands of the Sultan's representatives and to make all possible concessions to Turkish religious feelings associated with Adrianople.

NEIGHBORS WILSON'S ESCORT.

Townsfolk to Ride With President-Elect in Inaugural and Crack Princeton Company May Be Chosen.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Dec. 26.—Down Pennsylvania avenue, as he rides with President Taft, President-elect Wilson probably will be escorted in the inaugural parade by sixty of his fellow townsfolk and neighbors. Members of Co. L, Second Regiment of the New Jersey National Guard, already are getting new uniforms and preparing to participate in the inaugural parade as the personal escort of Mr. Wilson.

This company was founded here by Col. William Libbey, Princeton, '77, now a member of the Governor's staff. In the parade two years ago, when Mr. Wilson became Governor, they served as his personal escort.

Marcus Farr, Princeton, '92, and a professor of geology in the university, is captain of the company, and it is composed for the most part of men of the town whom Mr. Wilson has known for the last twenty years. Though the President-elect has not yet made any announcement, the boys of Co. L feel sure they will be chosen.

The Governor also has not yet decided what organization will lead the inaugural parade. He has had requests from crack troops of a dozen or more military schools throughout the country.

BLANCO ATTACKS HIMSELF.

WINS A GLORIOUS VICTORY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 26.—"A house divided" resulted in Federal fighting Federal at Colonia Juarez, in the Casas Grandes district, last Sunday. Persons arriving here tonight from the American colony relate how the Federal column of Gen. Jose Blanco attacked itself last Sunday while seeking rebels.

In the meantime Salazar was evacuating Ascencion and moving toward Casas Grandes, neatly avoiding Colonia Juarez. The reported victory of Blanco against the rebels may have been the attack on Colonia Juarez. Official advices insist that Casas Grandes remains in Federal hands.

SHOP EMPLOYEES STRIKE.

NATIONAL RAILWAY TIED UP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Dec. 26.—Two thousand shop employees of the National Railways of Mexico struck today because of the refusal of the management to grant an eight-hour day and an increase in wages. The strike was called simultaneously at Nuevo Laredo, San Luis Potosi, Mexico City and Aguas Calientes. At Nuevo Laredo 100 skilled mechanics and 100 other employees walked out. The shops are closed.

GEN. VILLA AT LARGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—Gen. Francisco Villa, known as "the fox," who was arrested on the charge of looting while serving as a colonel with Gen. Huerta, in his campaign against the rebel leader, Orozco, has made his escape from the military prison here. Villa, who was awaiting trial, sawed through the bars of his cell window.

REBELS SLAY GARRISON.

AMERICANS ROBBED ON TRAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—Refugees reaching Durango today report that a government garrison of 100 men, stationed between Panuco and Avino, thirty miles northeast of Durango, has been annihilated by a strong force of rebels commanded by Pedro Ortis.

After slaughtering the soldiers, the rebels are said to have entered the two towns, sacking and burning a number of houses. A train was stopped December 24 near San Juan del Rio, in the State of Durango, by rebels who robbed the passengers, among whom were a few Americans. The whereabouts of the train is not known, and a military train has been sent to locate it.

Father Saves Five Children from Christmas-Tree Fire, But Baby Perishes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIO BONITO (Cal.) Dec. 26.—The body of 3-year-old Nels Larson was found today cradled in the charred remains of his Christmas toys, in the ruins of his father's home. Henry E. Larson, the father, saved five children when a Christmas-tree blaze set fire to his home last night, but the flames barred the way to the sixth. Nels had been sent to bed last night with his toys piled about him in the crib.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Ditpatch.] Mrs. A. Metz of Los Angeles is made the chief beneficiary in the will of her uncle, (Bill) W. H. Dixon, the oldest saloon-keeper in Kansas City in service, who died Christmas night at Miami, Fla., from a combined attack of gout and pneumonia.

Dixon's fortune is estimated at $300,000 and he attributed the bulk of it to the fact that he never used a cash register and trusted his employees entirely. He never drank anything but water. Dixon was born in New York City in 1854 and was 3. years in the saloon business in Kansas City.

ASTORIA (Or.) Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Mary Ellen Carnahan, mother of Mrs. E. C. Mercer and Miss Florence Carnahan of Los Angeles, died in this city Christmas night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Taylor, at the age of 79 years.

She was a daughter of R. W. Morrison, one of the earliest Oregon pioneers, who came to the State from Missouri in 1844 with his family, traveling by ox team across the plains and settling on Clatsop Plains in this county.

ATTACK ON PRICE FIXERS.

New Application of Sherman Law to Destroy Business Methods Tending to Retail Monopoly.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The result of the anti-trust suit today against the Kellogg Toasted Cornflake Company, if the government's allegations are proved, will determine the legality of the business methods of many manufacturers who dictate the price at which their product shall be sold to the public, according to government officials.

The Department of Justice has received many complaints against manufacturing concerns which control retail prices by stipulating that the commodity they place on the market shall be sold at a specified figure. The principle involved is regarded by the department as among the most important questions ever dealt with under the Sherman law.

man from his stepson. Newman says
Davis fired three shots at him with a gun and missed him and that he (Newman) then opened fire with a rifle, one bullet going through the man's stomach and two through his back. The only other witness of the tragedy was Newman's mother,

Newman, who is in jail at Shelton, says he and his stepfather had a row over money due to the old man for his stepson. Newman says Davis fired shots at him with a rifle and that he then fired in self-defense. Davis fell, opened fire with a revolver, a bullet going through the prisoner's stomach and two through the floor. The only other witness of the shooting was Newman's mother, wife of Davis.

MOTHER SAVE FIFTH CHILD.

Fire Chief at Gridley Rescues Four Children, But Last One Is Burned to Death.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GRIDLEY (Cal.) Dec. 26.—The 3-months-old son of H. E. Larsen, a rancher living at Hamar, on the Northern Electric Railway, near here, was burned to death this morning by a fire which laid waste the Larsen home. The father had saved four children from the blaze and made several efforts to again enter the house in the hope of saving the rest of his children, but was driven back by the fire's progress that proved futile. The fire may have resulted from candles on a Christmas tree.

CENSORS FOR SACRAMENTO.

Woman Education Commission Plans to Control Theater Performances as Result of Fracas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sacramento will have a board of theatrical censors to pass upon all performances, as the result of the Dolly Bunch-James Post episode, if the ideas of Mrs. Luella B. Johnston, City Commissioner of Education, are carried out. Under the charter the Commissioner of Education is clothed with authority to act in all matters pertaining to the moral as well as intellectual welfare of the community.

The ordinance will provide for a secret and flexible board of censors, whose duty it will be to visit the theaters and pass upon the moral nature of the shows. Membership on the board will be at the pleasure of the Commissioner of Education.

The ordinance will be forthcoming after the first of the year.

Mrs. Johnston today summoned all participants in the Dolly Bunch fracas at the Pantages Theater to appear before her and tell their stories.

BOOK AGENTS MUST EXPLAIN.

LIGHT WANTED ON ROYALTIES PAID BY STATE.

Methods of So-called Trust Subject of Investigation by Senate Committee Which Will Report to Legislature Next Month—Educators Summoned as Witnesses.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—Agents and former agents of the so-called book trust, educators, school officials and State officials have been subpoenaed to appear late this afternoon before the special Text-book Investigating Committee of the State Senate to testify concerning the methods of the so-called book trust in its dealings with the State.

This session, which will continue for two or three days, is called for the purpose of finishing the investigation started more than a year ago, and which already has resulted in the resignation of former State Printer W. W. Shannon and the uncovering of irregularities in connection with the purchase of paper and supplies for the State.

Following the conclusion of the hearings the Senate committee—consisting of Senators Strobridge, Shanahan, Estudillo, Thompson and Avey—will prepare its report to be submitted to the Legislature when it convenes at the capital January 6 next.

The principal line of investigation will be in relation to the royalties collected by book concerns from the State for use of texts as State school series. Another interesting subject will be the attitude of the book agents toward school teachers and how these agents induced or persuaded teachers in the elementary schools to use the texts and supplementary books in school work, supplied only by the trust. State Printer Richardson has been called to testify.

Leroy Armstrong, formerly connected with the Sierra Journal of Education, now on the staff of agents for the American Book Company, which concern is alleged to be the head company in the trust in this State, has been called as a witness.

Others summoned are: F. Browne, formerly State Superintendent of Schools in the State of Washington, now principal of the Boulder Creek High School, Santa Cruz county; Dr. Frederick Burk, president of the San Francisco State Normal; H. Edwards, now employed as an engineer by the Southern Pacific at Colusa, formerly an agent for the American Book Company; G. H. Chilocathe of San Francisco, agent of the D. C. Heath Company book concern for the Pacific Coast; S. C. Smith, manager of the Gunn & Co. book concern for the Pacific Coast, at San Francisco; Herr Wagner, proprietor and editor of the Western Educational Journal; Allison Ware, president of the Chico State Normal.

CAPITAL CITY TO BUY SALOONS

Sacramento Eager to Reduce Number of Licenses.

Proposes to Purchase at One-half Valuation.

Devises Other Restrictions for Liquor Traffic.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is one way to reduce the number of saloons and Sacramento has found it. The city proposes to buy some of them out as fast as the opportunity presents.

Several years ago, an ordinance was passed intended to reduce the number of saloons in the city by providing that no license could be issued for premises not already occupied by a saloon. Commissioner Bliss believes this law has not had the desired effect and the new saloon elimination clause provides that the city can buy a saloon license, when any owner desires to sell, for half the price asked the proposed purchaser. The license will then be cancelled.

Commissioner Bliss says on his announcement: "After April 1, 1913, any person desiring to transfer his license must fix a valuation on the same and the city has the privilege of accepting one-half of such valuation as a consideration for the issuance of a new license, or of itself buying such license at one-half of such valuation for the purpose of cancellation.

NEW AND NOVEL FEATURE.

"This is a new and novel feature, and has been evolved with the idea of decreasing the number of saloons in this city. Saloon men themselves admit there are too many saloons here, but experience has shown that the number of saloons has reduced very slowly since the first limiting ordinance was passed. The old ordinance prohibiting the issuance of new licenses except in lieu of existing ones until the number had reduced to the limit, and permitting their transfer from place to place, has given all existing licenses a cash value.

"These licenses were given by the city without charge, therefore the city should be entitled either to one-half their value when the license is sold or to the privilege of buying the license for the purpose of cancellation at one-half such valuation. In other words, the city gave the license and created a value for it, and should have benefit to at least one-half its value when it is being transferred for commercial purposes."

RESTRICTIONS.

Women are not permitted in saloons, social clubs are required to obtain licenses if they wish to have liquor dispensed in their quarters, and the operations of restaurants in the sale of liquor are curtailed under the new ordinance.

The retail license is raised from $300 a year to $420 a year. All other classes of licenses will also be raised.

BRAG OF HOLIDAY TRADE.

Sacramento Merchants Declare Solid Prosperity Is Shown by Luxuries Bought and Paid in Cash.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The financial and commercial barometer, as indicated by the holiday trade, is exceptionally favorable. Sacramento merchants are a unit in declaring that this season has established a new high-water mark in both volume of business transacted and quality of goods sold.

That this great prosperity is based on solid development and increased population in the territory tributary to this city is the opinion of the merchants. They point to the fact that country residents, in particular, are paying cash as an evidence that general conditions have never been on a sounder basis.

From practically every city and town of the Sacramento Valley merchants and business men generally report more apparent prosperity than at any previous Christmas season. Larger sales are reported from the various retail stores and luxuries are notably among the things which the trade demanded this year and seemed able to pay for.

French Premier a Candidate for the Presidency.

Chill Keeps King George Away from Church.

Three Vessels Wrecked in the English Channel.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Premier Raymond Poincare, yielding to the insistence of friends in the Senate and chamber, has consented to be a candidate for the Presidency of the republic.

The members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, meeting as the national assembly at Versailles January 17, will choose a successor to President Fallieres. The Republicans recently have been bringing pressure to bear on Leon Bourgeois, the former Premier, to stand as a candidate, and only a week ago Premier Poincare made a last effort to overcome the objections of M. Bourgeois, but the latter declared that it was against his conscience to accept an office, the duties of which his ill-health would not permit him to fulfill. M. Poincare himself had several times refused to accept the candidacy.

TAFT SAILS FROM COLON.

Will Arrive at Key West on Sunday, Accompanied by Col. Goethals, on the Delaware.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLON, Dec. 26.—The United States battleship Arkansas, with President Taft aboard, sailed from Colon at 7 o'clock this evening for Key West.

The Presidential party went aboard the Arkansas about an hour prior to her departure. Col. Goethals, the chief engineer, boarded the battleship Delaware, which accompanied the Arkansas.

The warships are expected to reach Key West Sunday, and the President is due at Washington Tuesday.

President Taft expressed great pleasure over his visit to Panama, and said he would appoint the civil governor and subordinate officials on his return to Washington.

HOLD-UP BUNCHES HITS.

Undeterred by Bullet Sent After Him in One Place He Robs Two Other Stores at Oakland.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND (Cal.) Dec. 26.—A trio of hold-ups occurred in the western end of this city within an hour and a quarter early tonight. The first hold-up resulted in a failure, but the others netted the bandit $45 and some plunder.

The grocery store of George T. Spilman was entered by a masked man who demanded the contents of the cash register. Spilman replied by reaching for his revolver under the counter and firing a bullet at his visitor. The bandit returned the fire and immediately made his escape. Both shots were ineffective.

Twenty minutes later Joseph Court, who conducts a shoe store in Peralta street, reported to the police having been held up in his store and robbed of $10.

While the police were listening to Court's story J. C. McCauley, who was alone in his grocery store in Myrtle street, was held up by a masked bandit and forced to part with $35, a gold watch and a revolver.

All three hold-ups, according to the police, were accomplished by the same man.

PRE-LEGISLATIVE CAUCUS TO BE CONVENED.

Plan of State House Coterie to Trap All Regardless of Past Affiliations in One Conference—Senator Tyrrell Predicts Former Leader Will Be Chosen.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND (Cal.) Dec. 26.—A pre-legislative caucus will be held for the organization of the Senate of the fortieth session of the State Legislature, which will convene next month. This disclosure, made here today, ended rumors that have persisted for weeks to the effect that no caucus would be held, or that the organization would be engineered by the Progressives of the Senate, excluding those who dissented from the legislative programme of the last session. State Senator Edward J. Tyrrell of Alameda county confirmed the information that a call had been prepared to be sent later to the members of the Senate, asking for the signatures of those in favor of holding an open caucus.

"The undersigned, who believe in continuing the general policies laid down by the California Legislature of 1911, agree to meet in caucus, at a time and place to be hereafter designated, for the purpose of considering the organization of the Senate."

It is understood here that the Governor has approved the plan, and that all the Republican Senators, regardless of their previous attitude toward the State administration, will have opportunity to participate. No date for the caucus has been set, but it is planned to hold it at Sacramento immediately before the convening of the Legislature.

The decision to hold the open caucus, which is understood to have received the sanction of the Progressive State Central Committee, provides the solution of a difficulty for State Senator A. E. Boynton of Oroville, president pro tem of the Senate at the last regular session, and now a hold-over Senator. Senator Boynton is known positively to have refused to attend a caucus made up exclusively of Progressive Senators, which event, it is believed, would have seriously endangered his chances of re-election to the leadership of the Senate.

"The holding of the open caucus will virtually insure Senator Boynton's re-election," said Senator Tyrrell tonight. "There is no other contender for the office, and, so far as I know, there will not be the slightest discussion among the Progressive Senators regarding his choice."

HOW CALUMNIES HURT ALASKA.

Gov. Clarke Says Slanders Keep Capital Out.

More Railroads and Cheaper Fuel Are Necessary.

Last Year's Commerce Broke All Past Records.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Alaska has prospered in many respects during the last year, according to Gov. Walter E. Clarke, in his annual report submitted today to Secretary of the Interior Fisher. Gov. Clarke deplores, however, the present lack of railroad construction and of cheap native fuel, declaring that proper development of the Territory's resources demands adequate means of transportation and the opening up of the fuel resources.

He asserts that the residents generally are willing to accept any measure which will cause the fuel resources to be opened to development, so much so that the advantages of a fee system, a leasing plan or government operation have almost ceased to be matters of discussion.

LITTLE PLACER MINING.

A moderate decline in the white population during the last two years he attributes to diminished activity in places mining in the interior valleys and inadequate land laws, to the remarkable public calumnies about Alaska which have kept capital without its borders, and to the failure of Congress to lend necessary means of encouragement to the development of a virgin region. As to commerce between Alaska and the United States and with foreign countries it was the largest last year in the history of the Territory, totaling almost $62,000,000. Of this amount $16,500,000 was of merchandise from the United States, $1,000,000 above the previous record in 1910. Alaska shipped to the States $18,200,000 worth of canned salmon and $1,140,000 worth of other fish; $5,000,000 worth of copper ore, $17,000,000 worth of gold, and other products to a total value of more than $38,000,000.

INDUSTRIES PROSPEROUS.

Except for gold these all are record figures, the gold exports to the United States to two years ago having exceeded $18,000,000. Never before was there such a great increase in the salmon industry, a total of eighty-seven canneries being in operation against sixty-four the year before. There were 14,000 persons engaged in the work, 19 per cent. more than in 1911. Altogether there were 15,000 persons in the fishing industry, of whom 7000 were white, the others Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Mexicans and others. More than 500 whales were killed during the season. Gov. Clarke fears no depletion of the fish provided the present protective laws are observed. He recommended "strict provisions to prevent aliens from fishing in Alaskan waters, the present statute being notoriously lacking."

RETIRES GEN. McCLERNAND, NOMINATION NOT CONFIRMED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Acting on the advice of the Attorney-General and the judge advocate-general of the army, the Secretary of War has directed that Gen. Edward J. McClernand, on his statutory retirement for age next Sunday, be retired with the status of brigadier-general of the line. Gen. McClernand is at present at the head of a board of cavalry officers which is inspecting foreign military establishments. He was appointed brigadier-general by President Taft, but owing to the failure of the Senate to act upon the nomination, must be retired December 28, before confirmation can be had.

Threatened Outbreak Along West Virginia Border Checked by Rigid Health Department Methods.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Rigid steps by the public health service have brought under control a threatened serious outbreak of smallpox along the West Virginia-Maryland border, Dr. B. S. Warren, detailed to investigate the situation, who returned to Washington today, reported eleven cases in the vicinity of Martinsburg, W. Va. These cases all within from three to ten miles of the city, are under proper control. All suspected persons in the region will be vaccinated and kept under observation for fifteen days if necessary.

Postmaster-General Deems Lack of Congestion a Good Test for Handling Parcels-Post.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Although the holiday mail was heavier in every section of the country than ever before, the work of handling it was performed with less congestion and confusion than in previous years, according to reports received today by Postmaster-General Hitchcock.

Slight interruptions were reported in a few sections of the country on account of weather conditions.

A larger force than usual was put on this year to handle the Christmas mail in order that the capacity of the service could be tested in anticipation of the establishment of the parcels-post system, which becomes operative throughout the service January 1.

BAD FIRE IN QUINCY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

QUINCY (Ill.) Dec. 26.—The town of Monroe City, in Monroe county, Missouri, is suffering from a most disastrous fire which broke out at 12:30 today. The fire began in the lumber yard of Conway & Proctor and was fanned by a strong northwest wind, which is driving it toward the residence section. It is believed that the business section of the city is safe. The Quincy fire department has sent several engines to Monroe.

STUPIDITY OF A ROBBER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—To obtain $50 worth of jewelry a robber early today climbed a fire escape to the roof of a building here, made a perilous passage down a greasy rope in an elevator shaft from the fifth floor, and squeezed himself through the transom of Ray Bengart's jewelry shop. In order to get away safely the robber returned the way he entered. Jeweler Moore's valuable stock, which was locked in a safe, was not molested.

CONFESSES TWO WAYS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Members of the investigating body which recently concluded hearing evidence of alleged political activity against Postmaster Daniel A. Campbell, declared today they intended to refer to the United States Attorney-General with a view to criminal prosecution, the confession of William E. Todd, negro investigator for the Civil Service Reform Association, that he had perjured himself. Todd testified that Campbell had paid money to political workers in his home ward during a late election but later testified that the charges were untrue.

The superintendent says he is faithful in his work and spends much of his time reading and writing and doing such work around the criminal ward as is required of patients there.

SALVATION BY ONIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—The use of plenty of onions will drive contagious diseases out of any city, Dr. Mary Walker, who is visiting with Chicago friends, said tonight. Here are Dr. Walker's directions for the use of onions. Eat plenty of them, stewed, boiled, fried, or raw. Keep the fumes of onions continually permeating the atmosphere. Spread onions in the alleys, on the lawns and any other place where it might appear they would do good. Dr. Walker said onions were particularly effective against smallpox. The use of the vegetable in two cities, at least, has proved her contention, she said.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Between $325,000,000 and $350,000,000 will have to be raised by the tariff legislation of the next congress. This is the basis on which the Ways and Means Committee is figuring.

The committee will provide in the tariff revision plans whether there shall be an excise or income tax to meet part of the revenue necessities. A number of the members of the House Committee on Ways and Means were at the capitol today preparing for the coming hearings.

Representative Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the committee, who is to confer with President-elect Wilson next Tuesday in response to an invitation from Mr. Wilson which he accepted today, was at the capitol, still suffering somewhat from the grippe. The tariff hearings begin with the chemical schedule January 6.

CHECKED DOMINICAN REVOLT. BATTLESHIPS' "MORAL EFFECT."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The battleship New Hampshire which was hurried to Santo Domingo City, when it appeared that the lately-quelled revolution might break out anew, is now en route to Norfolk, her presence in Dominican waters having had the expected "moral effect."

CORN FLAKE CONCERN SUED. PATENT LAWS INVOLVED.

DETROIT, Dec. 26.—The Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Company is alleged to be violating the Sherman law in a petition in equity filed in the United States District Court here today by order of Atty.-Gen. Wickersham to settle, for all time, the extent to which a manufacturer may control retail prices.

The company and its officers are charged with fixing prices at which the flakes are sold to retailer and consumer, preventing competition which would reduce the price to the public, and creating a monopoly by concentrating the entire interstate traffic in this commodity in the hands of jobbers and retailers who abide by price agreements exacted by the defendants.

It is alleged that the defendants have invoked the patent laws through the use of a patented carton in which the flakes are packed, as a "mere subterfuge and device," to escape the provisions of the Sherman law.

St. Louis Physician Diagnoses Trouble Opposite to that Caused by Too Much Walking.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Dr. Alexander Block says the automobile is causing many cases of "automobile foot." The cause of the newest ill is the opposite to that of the policeman's "flat foot." Too much walking, he says, caused the "flat foot" and too much riding causes the "automobile foot."

COURTSHIP AMONG CANNIBALS.

Inhabitants of New Guinea Use Love Charms and the Bride-to-Be Receives Many Presents.

[London Standard:] The interior of the huge island of New Guinea, if it were only possible to get there, and incidentally if it were possible to get back again, would seem to be the happiest of all happy hunting grounds for the anthropologist. One of the tribes that hide themselves in the impassable forest land between the southern shore and the mountains, dimly seen from the sea, but never explored, has been described as consisting of the most expert smotherers and the gentlest cannibals on earth.

"Love takes its share in their lives just as much as it does in the lives of the civilized peoples of the West," said B. W. Williamson of the Royal Anthropological Institute in speaking of one of the tribes of New Guinea known as the Mekeo people.

"Courtship and marriage ceremonies are perhaps rather imitative of what the simple folk see among the forest brutes and birds, especially the birds. They are rough and uncouth, but they should appeal to modern western feelings, for the woman has an exceedingly high value.

"A girl's wooing provides employment for certain worthy men of the medicine craft, for love charms and philtres are extensively used. Both boys and girls appeal to the rising sun for help.

"The negotiations for the marriage involve substantial gifts by the boy's family to that of the girl, including ornaments. These are paid in advance, but they are only a sort of refresher to the memories of the girl's parents and friends. Her value is not counted in jewelry, but in 'pigs.' A beautiful girl is worth many pigs, but it is not etiquette to say so. The girl's family, therefore, after the negotiations have been completed, makes a mock hostile raid on the boy's clan and secures the exact number of pigs required. The pigs being duly stolen, ceremonial dances follow."

Mr. Williamson described these and said that he believed them to have their origin in an imitation of the dancing movements during the courting season of the goura pigeon. He further described elaborate ceremonial performances at which much coveted decorations are bestowed upon warriors who have slain an enemy in battle; also funeral and mourning ceremonies, the former of which includes a comic feast and a game of "bob apple"—the apple being the leg of a pig or kangaroo.

OXY GLEE CLUB HEROES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEAUMONT, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Had it not been for the prompt action of the members of the Occidental College Glee Club in going on with their performance while part of the members extinguished a fire in another room, serious consequences might have resulted from the blaze. One of the members of the club discovered the fire, three members of the club went on with funny stunts while the other fifteen formed an impromptu fire brigade and after about ten minutes' work put out the flames, which threatened to spread.

The audience was kept in ignorance of the trouble and did not know that anything was amiss until after the programme was over. The strong wind and the fact that the building was of wood made the fire especially dangerous. After the concert was completed the faculty of the High School gave the members of the club a vote of thanks for their cool action.

DOGS HIS FOOTSTEPS.

Hold-Up Man Follows Check-Cashier for Forty Miles, Then Sings Him Over the Road.

The most persistent hold-up man yet known to Los Angeles has his description on the police records. He followed his victim for more than forty miles about the city before he finally ambushed him.

Frank Tromler, employed on the aqueduct, cashed a check at the United States Bar early in the afternoon. When he left with $50 he was followed by a man who witnessed the check transaction. Tromler started to take long car rides about Los Angeles.

About 9 o'clock he boarded a car out Vermont avenue, got off at Fiftieth street and Vermont avenue, and started for a short walk. The man who had been following him throughout his trips, also got off, walked behind Tromler until a dark place in the street was reached, hit him over the head and took the money. Tromler reported the robbery to the police.

The Best Vacation Ever.

[Harper's Bazaar:] When, after the holidays, my family reduced itself to two, I decided to have a rest and a change; and I decided, furthermore, that the very best place for both was right at home, where I had all the comforts that would be lacking elsewhere. Everyone needs both rest and change, and many need them much oftener than they can get them, but I was convinced that they were largely a matter of mental attitude.

The only preparation for the mental trip was to set the house in perfect order and lay in a supply of simple eatables. I made no engagements for a week, so that there would be no obligations. Then I sat down with a good book, shut my eyes, and was off on the best of imagination, sailing to the land of dolce far niente. It took only a minute to reach there, and what a glorious time I had!

I read for hours at a time, with never a twinge of conscience; I wrote long letters; I spent half-days in the library, browsing; I sewed if I wanted to; I took naps in the daytime, and in the evening I went early to bed or else I coaxed the other one—who, unfortunately, wasn't on a vacation—to play a game with me.

I had a delightful week, and woke up one morning home again, rested, with happy memories and ready to take up responsibilities once more.

The Neal Treatment for Drink Habit

Men Who Drink Regularly Need Medical Treatment.

It is the only sure way to help them, and if they do not realize it themselves, relatives, friends and business associates should act for them—send them to the Neal Institute, where in three days the Neal Treatment will eliminate all alcohol from the system, and neutralize its functional effect upon the body tissues, thus removing all craving and necessity for drink.

This is accomplished without the use of painful, dangerous hypodermic injections and is the only rational solution of the drink habit question.

If further information is desired, call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 946 South Olive street, or write or phone G. U. Neal, Manager for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone Broadway 4602; A4072. —[Advertisement.]

OFFERS TO HELP CHICAGO POLICE.

Anti-Salooners Would Watch on New Year's Eve.

Wide-open Programme Stirs Up the Opposition.

Chief McWeeny Not Inclined to Accept Proffer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Special officers will be provided to aid the police in enforcing the 1 o'clock closing ordinance on New Year's Eve, if there are not enough regular members of the force to prevent violations, E. J. Davis, superintendent of the Chicago department of the Anti-Saloon League, informed Chief McWeeny in a letter today.

The letter was prompted by a statement by Chief McWeeny in which he declared there were not enough policemen to watch every saloon in Chicago for possible closing ordinance violations and at the same time keep other crime in check.

"Crooks are smart; they are looking for just such plays on the part of the police," the Chief said. "If you are short of police to enforce the city ordinances," the letter said, "and will issue an order that the ordinance must be strictly enforced and that any saloon that violates the ordinance will lose its license, this organization—co-operating with the Chicago Law and Order League, will undertake to supply the men to see that evidence of any violations of your order is furnished."

Mr. Davis said the saloons understood that police would "wink at any violations up to 3 o'clock."

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Following editorial comments on topics of the hour are printed in eastern newspapers:

NURSERIES ON WHEELS. LUXURIES OF TRAVEL.

[Boston Globe, Dec. 26:] To the smokers for men and the parlor cars for women on the limited trains of a big western railroad system will be added special coaches for babies.

Congratulations to the traffic manager who conceived the bright idea. His nurseries on wheels, in charge of white-capped maids and plentifully supplied with toys, picture books and rocking horses, will make transcontinental travel much pleasanter and easier for the infants, their parents and the other passengers.

SULZER AND SUFFRAGETTES. GETTYSBURG OF EQUAL RIGHTS.

[Washington Post, Dec. 26:] All the tact and diplomacy of William Sulzer will be called into play shortly after his inauguration as Governor of New York, when the suffragettes demand that he commit himself to the cause of equal rights for women. New York is to be the Gettysburg of the women's suffrage movement in the United States. Battles have been fought and won elsewhere, but upon the result in New York will depend the success of the suffrage movement in the East. Let the women win New York and the war is over. Let them lose and they will be set back ten years.

CHINA, ENGLAND AND THIBET. COURTEOUS BUT FIRM REFUSAL.

[New York Herald, Dec. 26:] China's refusal to agree to Great Britain's demand with regard to Thibet is fully justified.

The government of Peking declines to be stuffed. Its reply to the demands by the British Minister is a courteous, but firm refusal. Veiledly it suggest that non-recognition may induce Britain quite as much as it will China.

British merchants doing business in China realize what that means. Those gentlemen have a pretty good understanding of China's ability in the boycott line.

THOUGHTS OF SOME PEOPLE. GRUDGE AGAINST BRYAN.

[New York Sun, Dec. 26:] A good many people are beginning to believe that Col. Bryan, granted that he did prevent the Hon. Champ Clerk's nomination for President, performed a public service of considerable importance for which he deserves thanks. All the other men who contended for the nomination at the Democratic convention hid their natural disappointment under their good manners.

Recovered From Severe Lung Trouble

While we all know that plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble, something more is needed to bring about full health. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for throat and lung troubles, and so many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in a number of cases which were declared hopeless, that all sufferers who are not benefiting otherwise should at least investigate what it has done for others. It may be the means of restoring you to health. Investigate this case:

Madison Lake, Minn.

"Gentlemen: In December, 1908, and March, 1909, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. These left me very weak and I coughed at nights and could not sleep. My appetite also failed me. My doctor advised me to go West. So, in September, 1909, I planned to go. But I had four more hemorrhages, which put me in bed for three weeks.

"In November I started for Denver, Colo. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who, upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alterative. In about two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1910, I returned home. I think I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 130 pounds. I now weigh 165, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alterative for my health. If I can help any other person suffering from Tuberculosis, I will gladly do so."

(Sworn Affidavit) PAUL L. FASNACHT.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Company and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence

DELICATESSEN CLERK WOULD MORTGAGE HER SOUL.

If She Realizes on This Security Then She Will See the World and Publish Her Book of Verse Dedicated to a Cigarette—Yes, She Uses Them.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Miss Maude Le Page, who writes poetry when not busy clerking behind a counter in a delicatessen store, today explained her offer to "mortgage her soul for $1000" that she might have her poems published.

"One with the artistic temperament has no place at such a sordid task of slicing cheese, wrapping butter or weighing lard, pickles or measuring potatoes," she began. "I must have my dreams of fame and fortune and seeing the world realized as I hit upon this scheme—mortgaging my soul for $1000. I want to get my poems published and the publishers won't publish them. Some one will accept my mortgage offer and—well, the rest of the climb up the ladder will be easy.

"My book will be dedicated to a cigarette—Oh, my, yes, I smoke them."

Here is a sample of her poetry:

Many friends I may forget
Many ties may sever;
But, sweet little cigarette,
I'll forsake you never.
To my lip
Press your tip
Then I'll forsake you never.
Cigarette, you seem to know
Life is but a token
Of a promise long ago
Made by God and broken.
All but smoke
Is a joke
If truth were ever spoken.

"My poems," she went on, "are too good to be lost."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Frank Fishler, once stable boy to Sysonby, the great race horse, killed himself in his little hall room by cutting his throat. On the wall above his body when it was found was a picture of the racer. On a table near by lay a bit of doggerel—the last thing Fishler wrote—bemoaning Sysonby's death.

"No wonder then that full grown men,
Like owner and trainer and I,
Turned with eyes to the wall,
And stood in the stall,
And saw the great Sysonby die."

There were five others extolling the racer's virtue and setting forth the adoration in which the one-time stable boy held him. There were no letters or anything explaining the suicide.

The verses were addressed to James R. Keene, Sysonby's owner.

HELD OUT AS BUYING STOCK FOR MILLIONAIRES.

Witness Tells How He Was Persuaded to Invest in Mine Holdings in Canada Promoted by Julian Hawthorne and Associates—Two Teacupfuls of Silver.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Fifty thousand shares of Canadian mining stock promoted by Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, Dr. William J. Morton and Albert Freeman, on trial in the Federal court on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails, were purchased by "the organist of a millionaire's church in this city," according to alleged representations made to a stockholder who testified today.

Millionaires were purported to be operating through this organist to acquire control of blocks of iron stock. Eugene C. Mowry testified in telling of alleged inducements held out to him by Hawthorne and Freeman. Mowry said he asked Freeman what he meant by a "millionaires' church," and that Freeman replied:

"Mr. Rockefeller's church."

Mowry declared the representations of Hawthorne and Freeman prompted him to buy silver and iron stocks. It was Freeman, he said, that told him of the "organist" buying stock.

"Do you think a mere church organist has got enough money for that?" Freeman said to Mowry, the latter testified. "Doesn't it look to you as if millionaires were trying to break into this iron mine of ours and were operating through their church organist because they are afraid we'll shut them out if they try and get in openly?"

Hawthorne, according to the witness, said he made a personal investigation of the mines and knew they were valuable properties.

H. C. Smith, a mining engineer, testified he examined the silver mines of the Canadian Exploration Syndicate, a Hawthorne property, and found native silver in only five places.

"If all the silver I saw in those five places was taken out of the mines and collected together, it would make about two teacupfuls," declared the witness.

BROTHER'S FAMILY LIBERATED FROM DETENTION.

Sorrow Turned Into Joy on Christmas Day by Arrival of Californian Who Prevented Deportation of Mother and Children, Victims of a Series of Misfortunes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Christmas was happier for Mrs. Catherine Gehringer and her two children when it was announced yesterday that they would be liberated from the detention home at the immigration station today.

Misfortune followed the family since they started on their trip across the ocean, and it was only the battle put up by Frank A. Gehringer, who is prominent in Fresno, that saved the family from deportation. When the family boarded the ship it was found the husband, brother of the Fresno man, was suffering from trachoma, and the European authorities refused to let him make the trip on account of being held upon the other side. No one was there to meet them, the brother-in-law having returned home.

Then the authorities placed them in detention pen. A week later the eldest child was stricken with pneumonia. Several days later the mother was taken to the hospital and gave birth to a daughter. The brother-in-law arrived this afternoon and the authorities withdrew their order.

MARTIAL PARADE TO BE FEATURE.

Maj.-Gen. Wood Preparing for Inauguration.

May Have to Ask Congress for Appropriation.

Navy and Militia to Be Well Represented.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, who has just been named as chief marshal of the approaching inauguration parade, has begun to outline his plans for a military, naval and cavalry demonstration.

The selection of Gen. Wood to undertake this task is in line with precedents, which for the last several administrations tend to the selection of senior army officers on the civil list in Washington regardless of political affiliations. Thus it happened that the military features of President Taft's inauguration were in charge of Maj.-Gen. J. Franklin Bell, while the late Lieut.-Gen. Henry Corbin performed a similar function at the last inauguration of Roosevelt.

Gen. Wood's purpose is to make the Wilson inauguration parade as well balanced as possible in the matter of representation of cavalry, infantry and artillery of the army, the bluejackets and marines of the navy and adequate and liberal representation of the National Guard and a well-proportioned civic display.

Consultations began today between Gen. Wood and the ranking officers of the army and navy now in Washington and correspondence has been begun between the chief marshal and the Governors and adjutants-general of the various States and the Territories in regard to the participation of the militia in the inauguration. One of the features of the plan is to gather in Washington several thousand troops from various army posts as far west as Chicago and south to Atlanta, as well as the entire cadet corps and midshipmen battalion from their respective academies.

This will involve the War Department in considerable expense on account of transportation, and, as the particular appropriation has been reduced, owing to recent extensive changes of station of officers and troops, it may be necessary to apply to Congress immediately upon its reconvening next week for a deficiency appropriation.

THRONGS TO GREET WILSON.

Staunton and Old Dominion Ready for Home-Coming of President-elect Tonight.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STAUNTON (Va.) Dec. 26.—Visitors from various parts of the country began to arrive here today for the celebration in honor of the home-coming of President-elect Wilson, which will begin on his arrival in Staunton tomorrow night and conclude Saturday night.

Every precaution has been taken to safeguard the President-elect. A large detective force is here and policemen from other cities will assist in maintaining order. In order to prevent the Governor from catching cold during the big parade which he will review on Saturday the reviewing stand will be enclosed with glass and heated. Mrs. Wilson will be tendered a reception Saturday by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Plans were completed at Alexandria, Va., today which will be the first stop made by the President-elect on his way to Staunton, for tendering him a big reception.

All along the route from Alexandria to Staunton, Mr. Wilson will be greeted by the glare of bonfires.

SOP TO CONSERVATIVES.

President-elect Wilson to Confer With Senator Simmons, Who Is Opposed to Radicals.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] An indication that President-elect Wilson does not intend to devote himself entirely to the radical wing of the Democratic party was given today, when it was learned that Senator Simmons of North Carolina had been invited to confer with Wilson at Trenton.

Senator Simmons is in line for the chairmanship of the Finance Committee of the Senate after March 4, and is entitled to the place if the rule of seniority is followed. Some of the Democrats in the Senate, however, have been disposed to smash the rule, arguing that the nomination and election of Wilson was a victory for the radicals and that the radicals now should have all the spoils.

The fact that Wilson has conferred with Bryan and the coterie of radicals who brought about his nomination has been cited as an instance of the fact that his whole administration would be of radical character. More recently, however, the President-elect has conferred with Champ Clark, whose tendencies outside the tariff are rather conservative, and it becomes known that he has invited Senator Simmons, one of the leading conservatives in the Senate, to advise him with reference to tariff legislation.

The proposed conference between Wilson and Simmons has lightened the hearts of the conservatives in the Senate. They take it as an indication that he is not going to confine himself merely to the advice of the radicals.

In connection with the Simmons report it was learned that Senator Bailey of Texas, one of the best debaters and orators the Senate has ever known, would sing his swan song on January 2, when he will hand his resignation to the President pro tem. Bailey will rap the new leadership in the Democratic party and will take a fall out of the initiative and referendum. The speech is expected to be in the nature of a sensation.

GUM CHEWING AND TRUTH.

The Faster the Jaws Go the Greater the Likelihood to Lie.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—United States Judge Carpenter today revealed one method he had of judging whether a person is testifying truthfully. If the witness chews gum and talks rapidly the chances are no great weight should be attached to his statements, the court said. This developed when the court told Joseph Bruns, a witness chewing gum while on the witness stand: "The harder a person chews gum the less responsibility you can place in his testimony."

Both Die of Pneumonia on Christmas Eve, One Having More Than Five Thousand Dollars Tied About Her Waist—Living in Same Room They Used Separate Tables.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—Examination of the body of Mrs. Sarah Johnson, who with her sister, Miss Mary Scott, died Christmas eve of pneumonia, apparently in want, revealed that a bag around her waist contained $5604 in cash and three gold watches. In Miss Scott's effects were found deeds and papers showing bank deposits.

Little is known of the sisters. They arrived at the address at which death occurred about two weeks ago, both suffering from colds which developed into pneumonia. They refused to have medical attention because of the cost, and even declined to go to a free hospital.

Although living in the same rooms, they slept in single beds and used separate tables, dishes and silverware for eating.

In the delirium preceding death Mrs. Johnson spoke of a daughter living in New Mexico and of a sister in Pueblo, Colo. The elder woman was about 50 years old, and Miss Scott had remarked that she was "more than 40."

Admiral Dewey Celebrating His Seventy-fifth Birthday Tells How He Keeps Young.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Admiral George Dewey, hero of the battle of Manila Bay, today celebrated quietly his seventy-fifth birthday. The veteran sea fighter said he never felt better in his life and friends who called to congratulate him on the anniversary of his birthday declared he looked "like an ensign."

The admiral attributed his splendid physical condition to constant riding and to the further fact that he keeps away from midnight banquets. He said he abandoned attending banquets long ago.

"So should any man," he declared, "who wants to remain as young as I when he is 75."

Admiral Dewey spent a few hours at his office as president of the General Board of the Navy. Later he went for a drive with Mrs. Dewey and an informal family dinner at the Dewey residence tonight.

THREE MEN HURT AT FIRE.

One of Largest Structures in Business District of Shawnee, Okla., Is Destroyed.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHAWNEE (Okla.) Dec. 26.—Fire here today destroyed the Pottawattomie building, one of the largest structures in the business district, causing a loss estimated at $103,000. Three men were hurt.

Arthur Brown, a fireman, was overcome by heat and smoke; William Lowe, a spectator, was injured by a falling brick, and Jeff Goulette was hurt when he jumped from the second floor of the burning building.

WORLD'S BIGGEST DOCK.

It Will Be Constructed Next Year at Duluth and Will Cost Almost $3,000,000.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DULUTH (Minn.) Dec. 26.—Work will begin here early next month on what will be the largest iron ore dock in the world, which will be built by the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern Railway Company, one of the ore-carrying roads belonging to the United States Steel Corporation.

The dock will be 2600 feet long and will cost $2,750,000. It will be ready for traffic next fall.

"SAVE YOUR PENNIES."

That's the Advice Rockefeller Gives to School Teachers Who Marvel at His Tarrytown Residences.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TARRYTOWN (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—"Save your pennies" was the advice given by John D. Rockefeller today to a number of school teachers to whom he gave a sleigh ride about his estate. The young school ma'ams were so impressed with what they saw that one of them said, as she alighted from the sleigh: "Just think, Mr. Rockefeller, you have this large estate with three houses to live in, while we must content ourselves with a small room in a flat." To which the oil magnate's response was: "Save your pennies."

Rancor.

CLARK'S GROUCH HURTS HIS PARTY

Bryan Got His Goat and He's Not Over It.

Sulzer Is Grooming to Succeed Wilson.

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Champ Clark's inability to get over his defeat for the Presidential nomination last summer threatens his usefulness to his party in the Speaker's chair, when the Democratic administration takes hold. Although denial has been made that Mr. Bryan's part in the Wilson administration was under discussion at the recent conference between the President-elect and the Speaker, the latter seems inclined to throw a spasm whenever it is hinted in his presence that the Nebraskan may occupy a commanding position.

Undoubtedly it is tough for a man to reflect that he worked up to command more than a majority of the delegates in a national convention and still failed to get the Presidential nomination—the second time that such a thing had happened in the history of the Democratic party—but this is a time for statesmen to bury their private griefs and prepare to pull together for the future good of the organization. Everybody else has forgotten his own troubles; is content to let bygones be bygones, and is not seeking to borrow trouble in advance of the time when the Democrats will have control of the government.

It is only fair to say that friends of Mr. Clark deny stories to the effect that he "has served notice" that he will have nothing to do with Mr. Bryan, in case the latter enters the Wilson Cabinet, but it cannot be denied that the Speaker shows intermittently a churlishness and peevishness, when certain things are brought to his attention, entirely out of place with ont who occupies the high position in the favor of his party that he does. The sting of the Presidential bee in his case, appears to have had some unusual after effects.

An eastern Democratic newspaper yesterday pripted an editorial based on the common gossip regarding Mr. Clark's state of mind, in which it was declared that if he intended to act hostile in case Mr. Bryan was invited to and accepted a place in the Cabinet, then the Democrats ought to choose some one else for Speaker.

THE SPEAKER'S REPLY.

When asked what reply he had to make to this editorial, the Speaker said:

"The only reply to make to an editorial like that, is a suit for slander. That paper has been against me ever since William R. Hearst and William J. Stone came out for me."

If there had been no previous indications of Mr. Clark's rancor over his defeat at Baltimore, the present gossip would attract no particular attention. It is the general opinion apart from the intimate and partisan friends of the Speaker, that he ought to rest, well content with the honors that are within his grasp. The same general opinion is to the effect that in exerting the influence he did toward nominating Wilson at Baltimore, Mr. Bryan did more than prevent the fulfillment of the leading rival's ambition. He prevented, it is believed by all candid observers, the defeat of the Democratic party at the polls in November. Circumstances were such, all the candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination now realize, that it would have been extremely doubtful that a ticket headed by any of the rivals of Wilson could be elected.

There seems to be no disposition to wage a fight against Mr. Clark for re-election as Speaker, but it is regretted that he continues to harbor resentment that will not tend to insure the long period of harmony which all elements are hoping for after March 4.

WHITE HOUSE RECEPTIONS.

Much that is being said about President-elect Wilson's plan of abolishing public receptions at the White House when he takes office there is based on a misconception of the situation. Mr. Wilson himself seems to be laboring under a misapprehension. There have been no public receptions in the East Room of the White House taking the time of the President from his official duties "for many years." During the administrations of Cleveland and Harrison and during a part of McKinley's—up to the time of the Spanish war—these receptions were a regular thing, occurring two or three times a week and being attended by several hundred visitors from all quarters of the country.

When the Spanish war came on the press of business put a stop to the public receptions and they never came back into full swing. The abolition of the public reception by President Wilson, therefore, is impossible because there is no such thing to abolish.

SULZER FOR PRESIDENT.

An interesting bit of gossip comes from New York. It will be recalled that "Boss" Murphy of Tammany failed to attend the dinner in honor of Governor-elect Sulzer a few days ago. The comment at the time was to the effect that Mr. Murphy stayed away because of disinclination to sit at the same table with W. J. Bryan, who had assailed him mercilessly at the Baltimore convention. The later inside information is that Murphy's exhibition of resentment on this ocassion was not with respect to Bryan, but Sulzer.

Murphy, it is related, has learned that Gov. Sulzer has formed an alliance with W. R. Hearst, whom for practical political reasons of local significance, the Tammany boss has more cause to hate than Bryan. The interesting phase of the matter from the national standpoint lies in the fact that Mr. Sulzer has an overwhelming ambition and, having mounted to the Executive chair of the Empire State he now has his eyes on the White House. Hearst is bitter against Bryan and less than lukewarm toward Wilson whom he fought desperately in the pre-convention struggle last summer. What is more natural, say some inside observers, putting two and two together, than that Hearst would be found boosting Sulzer for President four years hence? The one-term declaration of the Democratic platform could be invoked and Sulzer might be put forward to stop Hearst's old enemy, Bryan.

ROMANCE VERSUS EUGENICS.

Utah Health Certificate Marriage Proposition Discussed Pro and Con by Chicago Social Workers.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Utah's plan for the "health certificate" marriage was the subject of a city-wide discussion today among physicians, ministers, social workers and society women. Many favored the plan that specifies State control over all marriages and that a "health certificate" be demanded by all persons who desire to wed. Others attacked the plan.

"Every step that aims at the protection of the country's children is a step in the right direction," commented Mrs. John F. Bass, society woman and suffrage leader. "I have studied these questions and approve heartily of the plan."

Mrs. W. E. Bach, secretary of the Illinois State Association of Graduate Nurses, was sure no persons interested in nursing would oppose the measure. "Chicago needs such a law," she said.

Rev. Johnstone Meyers called the idea ridiculous. He argued that it would put romance on a commercial basis.

Dr. Henry B. Favill, president of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute, said the isolation of tubercular persons wanted by Utah was unreasonable.

"HIKERS" WARMLY WELCOMED AT STOCKPORT CENTER.

Marchers in Fine Physical Trim, Make Speeches, Go Sled Riding Down Hill and "General" Rosalie Jones Says She Is Thinking of a March to Inaugural at Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKPORT CENTER (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—The suffragette army which is marching to Albany to carry a secret message to Gov.-elect Sulzer reached here this afternoon after a quick, easy march of five miles from Hudson.

The greetings received from the townsfolk of Stockport were of an explosive and startling character. One enthusiastic citizen without warning fired his shotgun within close range of the marching pilgrims, causing every member of the band to jump in terror.

ESCAPES SKYROCKET.

"Surgeon" Dock narrowly escaped injury from a skyrocket which was set off to greet the arriving suffragettes.

Some of the marchers were in such fine physical trim that they spent part of the afternoon in coasting down near-by hills on sleds borrowed from small boys. Around a huge bonfire tonight speeches were made and debates on the suffrage movement conducted.

MARCH NEARLY OVER.

The army will cover the remaining twenty-seven miles to Albany in easy marches of five and ten miles a day unless another forced march should be called for by "Gen." Rosalie Jones.

When asked today about a proposed march from New York to Washington carrying a message to President-elect Wilson at the time of his inauguration, "Gen." Jones admitted that she was giving such a trip very serious consideration.

The pilgrims rested tonight in a comfortable farmhouse here and will start tomorrow for Valatie, ten miles away.

ROMANCE OF THE HIKE.

MISS COURSEN TO WED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—A romance has resulted from the suffragists' hike to Albany. Last night the engagement was announced of Miss Gladys Coursen, one of "Gen." Jones's army, to Grimth Bonner, a Poughkeepsie newspaper man and a grandson of the late Robert Bonner. The young people first met when the suffragists left Poughkeepsie and the announcement of their engagement was made in Hudson last night. Miss Coursen is the daughter of Alfred Coursen, president of the American Mineral Wool Company.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Lieut. Kinzie Edmunds of the Eighth Cavalry, who was brutally assaulted in the Philippines by the Moro who murdered Capt. John Watson, is recovering, according to a dispatch received at the War Department today from Maj.-Gen. Bell, commanding the army in the Philippines. Lieut. Edmunds received five severe barong and spear wounds on the legs and on the left hand. He encountered the Moro in an effort to save Capt. Watson. The Moro was killed.

FARWELL BANS "HIGH JINKS."

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Arthur Burrage Farwell, head of the Chicago Law and Order League, who is co-operating with the Chicago Morals Committee and other reform organization in a fight on vice today declared a ban on "high jinks" at New Year's eve celebrations in various hotels and restaurants.

Kicking of chandeliers, balacing wine bottles on the nose, climbing pillars decorating themselves with celery, promiscuous kissing, dancing on tables, smashing hats and the like will not be permitted if the Reform Leaguer has his way.

"Respectable men and women should be allowed to eat in public cafes without being subjected to hideous ribaldry," said Mr. Farwell. "I favor a plan of making public the names of those who offend against decency. Every married man with a family ought to spend New Year's eve at home with his wife and children."

Tickets for tables in the downtown hotels and restaurants are in the hands of scalpers and as high as $15 a seat is being demanded.

Identify yourself with this greatest of all money-makers. Make this New Year's one long to be remembered. Share in the profits of 1913. Over $83,000,000 is the return this year to the fruit growers and orchardists of California.

Land is the basis of all wealth. Plan for the future now—buy 5 acres on

Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands

It's a positive insurance; it means independence from the strife and toil of the crowded city. Peaches, apricots, walnuts and prunes on the adjoining lands, absolutely without irrigation, are netting the owners $250 an acre annually.

Start now! You can purchase 5 or 10 acres of this rich land on easy terms, where the wonderful subirrigated soil, the mammoth improvements, the half-million-dollar boulevard and the new electric road mean big profits. The increase in value will yearly net a splendid dividend.

Right at the gates of the fastest growing city in the West. Set your land at once to fruit. In a few years your orchard has increased enormously the value of your land.

Do not delay. Make the first small payment now, at today's low prices. The last big ranch on the boulevard is now open for sale—$375 an acre and up; on easy terms.

JEWS CAMPAIGN FOR EDUCATION.

INCLUDE THE CHRISTIAN IN PROPAGANDA.

Chautauqua Society Will Discuss Movement for National Correspondence School for Teachers and Chairs of Hebrew History and Literature in Summer Institutions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Dec. 26.—Establishment of chairs of Jewish history and literature in all summer schools, Christian as well as Jewish, and the inauguration of a national correspondence school for Jewish Sabbath-school teachers are topics which will be considered at the sessions of the National Jewish Chautauqua Society, which convened in annual assembly here tonight.

The purpose of the organization as outlined in the address of Dr. William Rosen of Baltimore, vice-chancellor of the society, is to discuss perplexing Jewish problems and to advocate Jewish educational ideas.

"Efficiency is the slogan of the hour in all the forward movements of the day," said Dr. Henry Berkowitz, chancellor of the society, in his greeting to the assembly. "Religious education is moved by it. Leading educators have aroused the country to a recognition of the fact that study for mere bread-winning has outstripped efficiency for character-making, until now the conviction has come that religious instruction should be viewed with at least the same seriousness as sociology."

Well-Heeled Chicagoan Meets Death En Route to Poker Party Operated by Women.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Detectives investigating the mysterious death of Richard M. Donkin, a south side business man, who was found unconscious in a hallway at No. 451 East Forty-seventh street, learned the man was on his way to a poker party operated by women when he was attacked.

That he was not robbed was shown when $1000 in diamonds and $2600 in checks were found on his person.

LINCOLN'S ESCORT IS DEAD.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] George W. Stoddard, aged 73 years, at one time personal escort to Abraham Lincoln while the war President made his trips through the region of hostilities, died tonight at his home at the Acme Hotel from the infirmities of old age.

Born in Allegheny county, Maryland, it was there during the Civil War that he was made a supervisor of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, over which Lincoln was obliged to travel while going incognito to points along the southern frontier, and Mr. Stoddard always accompanied him over the road.

Jason Brown.

AKRON (O.) Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Jason Brown, 90 years old, second son of John Brown, famous as the leader of the raid on Harper's Ferry, W. Va., died at his home here last night.

Thomas L. Cummins.

DES MOINES (Iowa) Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Thomas L. Cummins, father of Senator Albert B. Cummins, died at his home here this afternoon. He was 90 years old and had been ill for more than a year. Seven other children besides Senator Cummins survive him.

Edward P. Vilas.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Edward P. Vilas, 60 years old, a well-known lawyer and brother of former Postmaster-General William F. Vilas, died today from injuries suffered from falling down stairs at his home last night. His neck was broken.

Edward R. Chase.

MANILA, Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] A wireless message from the transport Sherman, now on its way to San Francisco, announces the death this morning of Chaplain Edward R. Chase of the Thirteenth Infantry. Death was due to pneumonia.

Eight-Pound Boy Ushered Into this World on a Crowded Chicago Electric Line.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] An eight-pound boy was born on a crowded South Side trolley car today. The mother, Mary O'Connell, was removed from the car at East Harrison street and South Wabash avenue by women passengers. The mother is out of danger. She gave her address as No. 1215 East Fifty-third street.

ECZEMA ON SCALP EARS AND FACE

Itched So Could Not Sleep. Eyes Full of Sores. Cut Out Of Them. Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

4409 Ulita St., Depew, N. Y., January 22, 1912. "Eczema came first with pimples on my face, then on my scalp and ears. It itched so I could not sleep. I scratched in spite of myself. It spread over my face, and then on my body. I tried different remedies, but got no relief. I was in a terrible condition for about two years. I was ashamed to go out. I was treated for three months by a physician, but got no better for it. I was told I had eczema and that it would be with me all my life. I had no rest day or night. I was induced to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In less than five months before I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was entirely cured. That short time after I stopped using the Cuticura Remedies I had no sign of the disease. Cuticura Soap and Ointment is a sure cure as I have proved to myself and others. You can use my name and picture now, I have such a strong faith in Cuticura as a baby's." (Signed) Miss Mary Kuhn, Dec. 26, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for pimples, blackheads, red, rough, chapped and oily skin, dandruff, itching, scaly crusted scalp, and dry, thin, and falling hair, and for all purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (25 and 50c.) are sold throughout the world. A liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston, U. S. A."

STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The steady market today reflected the preparations for the payment during January of about $200,000,000 interest and dividend disbursements. Before noon 12 per cent had been recorded for these funds. The stock market was up dull and featureless—aside from a moderate upturn in copper and some scattered liquidation in rubber—as to warrant little if any comment. Marketwise there was not much news of importance aside from the announcement of increased stock issue by Lackawanna, which was not altogether unexpected. It seems clear that the market will remain rather quiet the balance of the year, with a disposition more pronounced in lighter lines than to promote extensive. The money position is such as will make it quite susceptible to any increased demand for stock market purposes.

The Markets, Finance and Trade.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Dec. 26.—[Reported by Fred A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.34; at 5 p.m., 30.28. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 49 deg. and 65 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 76 per cent.; 5 p.m., 12 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., southeast, velocity 6 miles; 5 p.m., west, velocity 3 miles. Highest temperature, 69 deg.; lowest, 43 deg. Rainfall for season, .94 of an inch. Barometer reduced to sea-level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The barometer is unusually high throughout the United States. The only depression is a very moderate one over Lake Michigan, and in that region the barometer is above 30.00 inches. There is practically absence of rain or snow over the country, only sprinkling rain fell in Portland and Spokane, of snow occurred at Denver and Duluth. The area of abnormally high barometric pressure reached its crest over Idaho, where the barometer read 30.94 inches. This field of high pressure is accompanied by low temperatures in Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Colorado, the temperatures in these States ranging from 20 to 34 deg. below freezing. The presence of this high-pressure area prevents any changes in existing conditions in the vicinity of Los Angeles, the weather continuing fair, rainy and cool Friday, with heavy frost Friday morning.

STOCK DEMAND AT MINIMUM.

SMALLEST DAY'S BUSINESS IN A YEAR PAST.

Holiday Conditions Still Obtain With Foreign Exchange Closed and Little Incentive to Trade at Prevailing Money Rates—Lackawanna and Standard Active.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—There were no signs today of an awakening of the stock market from the lethargy into which it has fallen lately. Trading was even duller today than during Tuesday's listless session. It was the smallest day's business since July, 1911, with a total of 101,600 shares. Holiday conditions still obtained, and with the foreign exchanges closed and money rates nearly there was little incentive to do business. While variations were unusually small a firm undertone prevailed despite the flurry in money which sent up the rate for call funds to 12 per cent. Prices eased off fractionally when interest charges were vindicated, but later recovered. A few of the specialties moved widely, included in this list were Pullman and Sears & Roebuck, which were strong, and rubber, which sold down more than 3 points. Lackawanna was unusually active, but this price was little affected by announcement of the terms of subscription to the new stock issue. Standard Oil issues were active and strong on the curb. Standard Oil of New York advanced to 660, a rise of 100 points in less than a week. Other oil shares rose 10 to 50 points. Uncertainty of the money rates during the closing days of the year will continue to act as a drag on speculation. The first of November returns from the transcontinental roads came in today and in each case substantial gains in both gross and net earnings were shown. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Atchison all reported gains, and from the South a good return was made by the Southern, Hondo, quiet and irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,230,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

New York Curb Stocks.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The mining list was quiet, with comparatively few changes. Alaska was active at times and sold off. There was very little said in the industrials with the exception of the oil group, which was active and strong, with some large gains registered. The market closed steady. The Boston coppers were characterized by extreme dullness while a firm tone; many stocks were not quoted. Granby was the feature, advancing nearly 2 points on a small volume of business.

Traffic Record.

SAND, NOT SNOW, BLOCKS TRACKS.

CALIFORNIA'S WHITE CRYSTALS DRIFT BEFORE WIND.

Railroad Officials Battling Against Desert Menace to Keep Right of Way Clear—One Hundred Miles Shorter to Chicago Through New Santa Fe Cut-off in Kansas.

With a stiff wind blowing from Cajon Pass, Southern Pacific and Salt Lake officials last night looked for a repetition of the storm blockades of Wednesday and Wednesday night, when the wind heaped sand eight to twelve inches deep on stretches of track in the Cucamonga section, seriously interfering with the operation of trains.

One of the worst drifts was near Decies on the Southern Pacific, where the sand lay in one continuous stretch for nearly a mile. Because of this drift—the smaller drifts being easily cleaned by section men—the Southern Pacific detoured a number of trains over the Santa Fe and Salt Lake, though the latter road also had some drift trouble of its own. At 10 a.m. yesterday the Southern Pacific announced that the trouble was over for the time being and that trains were being operated East according to schedule.

Many young olive plantings in the Cucamonga section were buried by the drifting sand and the damage will be heavy. All day Wednesday the wind blew a prairie gale and the atmosphere was choking with sand.

BRINGS EAST NEARER.

California will be brought 100 miles nearer the East, effecting the saving of from three to four hours in the running time of through passenger trains, by a new cut-off from Springer, N. M., to Dodge City, Kan., plans for which have been announced by the Santa Fe. With the completion of this cut-off the handling of heavy passenger trains through the Raton tunnel and via the heavy grade line from Summit to Trinidad will be a thing of the past.

The branch line from Dodge City to Hugaton, Kan., completed Christmas Day by the Santa Fe so that Hugaton's long-advertised welcome to the railroad might take place, will constitute the initial sixty miles of the cut-off. The new line will be 250 miles long, whereas the present line from Springer to Dodge City, via La Junta, is 347 miles in length, and will open up a vast new country of fine agricultural possibilities in Southwestern Kansas, Western Oklahoma, the Texas panhandle, and Northeastern New Mexico.

The new line will be completed in time for the Panama Pacific Exposition and will give the Santa Fe duplicated lines from Dodge City west. With the double-track work contemplated by the Santa Fe, it means added traffic facilities for the entire southwest.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

That California will receive greater Santa Fe advertising next year is the report brought from Chicago by C. J. Birchfield, Pacific Coast advertising agent of the road, who returned Wednesday from the year

Classified Liners.

Classified Rates: The rate for inserting Want Ads in The Daily Times is one cent per word each insertion; minimum, 15c; second, 10c per word; 3 consecutive insertions, the rate for which is 20c per word daily; 21c per word Sunday; 5 insertions, 20c daily; 25c Sunday; 7 insertions, "Personals," "Special Notices," "Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," "Church Notices," "Miscellaneous," "Lodges and Bonds," "Physicians," "Medical," "Dentists," "Sanitariums," and "Help Wanted—Males" and "Help Wanted—Females" are charged at double rates.

Display real estate advertisements, to be set in display, must be in The Times office before 8 o'clock Saturday night. Want Ads, "Wants," To Let," "For Sale," etc., may be sent by your counter or by telephone until 10 o'clock Saturday. Ads received after closing hour for each division will be inserted under the head "Too Late to Classify." Rate 1½ cents per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 80,000 copies, and more "liners" are printed in its columns than in the other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Persons who want advertisements Ring Up The Times. Main 8200, Home 10251. Copy may be left day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Subscribers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "liners," as mistakes can be rectified without them.

The Times will not accept "phone or verbal changes or changes "till forbid" orders.

Ready in Emergencies.

HEROISM OF "HELLO" GIRLS IN THE FACE OF DANGER.

WHEN safe blowers destroyed the depository of a bank's money at Medaryville, Ind., and the telephone operator by her quick action saved the town from losing $75,000 of its money, it was only one instance of scores which go to place the telephone girl in the front rank of heroines of today, says the New York Herald.

QUICK TO COMPREHEND A SITUATION.

Quick to comprehend the meaning of unusual messages or parts of messages that reach her over the wire, calm in moments of danger, faithful to her post in spite of perils that threaten, capable of instant decision and action at times when the average woman—or man, either—would hesitate and so lose the opportunity to render aid where it was so much wanted, the telephone operator has proved herself repeatedly to be possessed of astonishing steadiness and courage in time of need. Perhaps it is her training at the switchboard that has steadied her nerves and increased her alertness in such a noticeable degree. In any event the long list of heroic actions that she has to her credit has given the presiding genius of the switchboard a peculiar ranking among the working women of our country. She belongs, in a way, with the policeman and the fireman as the defenders of life and property in a thousand instances.

SAVE MANY LIVES.

One of the notable instances in which the telephone operators figured importantly in the saving of life was that of the flood at Austin, Pa., when the dam of the Boyless Pulp and Paper Company burst one and one-half miles north of the town. Five hundred million gallons of water were flung upon the town and fire followed, due to the bursting of the natural gas mains. So instantaneous was the catastrophe that it was believed by all who understood the situation that practically the entire population would perish in the water, either by drowning or flames.

Miss Kathleen Lyons and Miss Lena Binkey were in charge of the telephone exchange. Miss Lyons received the message that the dam had burst one minute after it had happened. The water rushed upon the town and the young women were in imminent danger, but they remained at their post, warning all the subscribers that they could reach, even while buildings were falling in the immediate vicinity.

As a result innumerable lives were saved, and the disaster, great as it was, did not cause the loss of life that had at first seemed inevitable.

MURDER PREVENTED.

Miss Lillian Hasselbeck, a night operator at Buffalo, was sitting at her switchboard at a late hour one night last July when a woman's terrified voice came over the wire, and Miss Hasselbeck heard the one word "Police!" Miss H

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Goes to San Francisco.

Clarence Haydock, for the past twelve years commercial agent of the Illinois Central Railway in this city, has taken the position of general agent in San Francisco, vice W. H. Snedaker, resigned.

Will Sing in Synagogue.

Alfred Swinton, who is appearing at the Orpheum with the Florentine Singers, will sing the baritone solo from "The Elijah," at the service in Sinai Temple this evening. Mr. Swinton has been doing a grand opera stunt on the circuit for the past four years and he will be well worth going to hear this evening. The regular musical service will be conducted by Cantor Weinstock.

Temple B'nai B'rith.

"Thou Shalt Not Kill" will be the subject of Dr. Hecht's discourse this evening at the temple. He will give an expository talk of the current scripture lesson tomorrow morning, and a sermonette at the children's service. The services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock (the children's service) and at 10:30 o'clock. The music will be in charge of E. M. Mead and the well-known Temple Quartette.

A Stunning County Fair.

The work of transforming the main gymnasium at the Y.M.C.A. into a circus tent for New Year will begin at once, under the direction of Wilbur A. Reynolds, chairman of the committee. The entire building is being prepared for a Twelve-story County Fair, the main show and the side show attractions being staged in the gym. It is designed to be a day of real amusement and instruction, and preparations are being made for entertaining an immense crowd.

Housing Commission Election.

Incorporated at $500,000 to provide low-cost sanitary houses for rent or sale, to those in moderate circumstances, the organizers of the Municipal Housing Association met yesterday and elected as president, Dr. John R. Haynes; vice-presidents, T. E. Gibbon, C. A. Elder and Robert Watchorn; secretary, Miss Florence Mills; and treasurer, J. E. Fishburn. The executive committee is composed of Haynes, Gibbon and Elder, with Louis W. Myers, Mrs. Oliver C. Bryant and Miss Mills.

Santa Claus at Plaza Church.

Christmas exercises were held at the Plaza Catholic Church yesterday afternoon, with an attendance of about 900 children. A large Christmas tree stood in the center of the patio back of the church, covered with ornaments and many toys. There was singing by the children and a brief address by Bishop Conaty at the close of which Santa Claus appeared on the roof of the church and made his way down into the patio, creating much excitement among the youngsters, owing to the manner of his coming, and delighted them by distributing to each a box of candy from the pile banked around the tree, and to each a toy.

Timber Supply of the Tropics.

[Chicago Journal:] One thing which the prophets of a world-wide timber famine forget is the supply of tropical timber in a hundred jungles, waiting the demand of the white man.

Until recently the coarser, commoner uses of tropical timber were hardly known outside the tropics. Mahogany, ebony, teak and rosewood were brought to northern cities for use in cabinet work; but the same ships which brought these tropical woods carried back north pine for use in rough structural work in the tropics.

Of late, the subtropical woods, cypress and eucalyptus have come to the front for all sorts of uses. Now, "greenheart," an equatorial wood very common in Brazil and British Guiana, has been chosen for the locks of the Panama Canal.

Investigators keep reporting that this or that tropical wood is really well fitted for ordinary use, and can be had at a moderate price by use of modern lumbering methods. Twenty years in the tropics will grow a forest larger than can be produced in a century in the north.

With the full utilization of the hot lands of earth, the "timber famine" will be indefinitely postponed.

Influence of the Telephone.

[Lippincott's Magazine:] An admiring parishioner of a young divine in an Ohio town recently had a telephone installed in the clergyman's house. The good man was delighted with the convenience, and used it immediately before going to church.

When the time came for him to announce the first hymn, he read the first lines with his usual impressiveness, and concluded with:

"Let us all unite in hymn seven O three."

VALUABLE MASTERPIECES.

Old masters come frequently to light, even among us, but they disappear with the same rapidity as that of their coming, because of the absence of confirmatory evidence of their genuinepess.

Max Wieczorek, the well-known artist, who has recently settled here, possesses three paintings of extraordinary merit, because they are the work of men of pre-eminence in the art of painting and bear the evidence of superior workmanship.

His life-size "Penitent Magdalen," by Giacinto Diana was long one of the chief ornaments of Prince Montemiletto's collection in Naples and was considered by some experts as one of the lost canvasses of the famous Guido Reni, until the expert Prof. Gonsalro Corelli of Naples discovered that it was the work of Diana, and so certified over his signature. This artist is better known among art connoisseurs than by the public at large, as the eminent pupil of Raphael Mengs, and assistant director of the Naples Academy about 1800.

The draughtmanship and the exquisite tone of the coloring indicate a work of superior quality

A panel painted on copper, representing "Youth and Old Age," attributed to the Dutch artist, Abraham Bloermart, who long-lived in Utrecht, is another gem of the Wieczorek collection. It represents an elderly woman advising a beautiful young one, under the shadow of an overhanging tree.

The technical work is remarkable as showing the influence of Rubens in the treatment of the nude figure of Youth, while the landscape still exhibits the characteristic method of the early Flemish painters.

Another panel, also on copper, 16x20 inches, is "Tobias and the Angel." This work, unfortunately not yet identified, is one of much interest in the composition, the beautiful grouping of the figures and the tonality of the painting.

It is to be hoped that the Wieczorek old masterpieces will soon be publicly exhibited, as it is rare to find the happy combination of excellence of workmanship, sympathetic treatment of a pleasing subject, together with preservation as fine as found in the great canvas "Orpheus Charming the Animals," now on exhibition in the New Times Building.

AERIAL RAILWAYS.

Bold Scheme for Transporting Passengers Over Precipitous Places in Switzerland.

[Dallas News:] Aerial railways, which have long been employed for industrial and military purposes, are now being utilized for transporting passengers over precipitous places in the Swiss mountains.

The first aerial railway projected in Switzerland was the work of a German engineer, who, in 1901, enlisted the co-operation of capitalists in Berne and of the community of Grindelwald in a plan to build an aerial line for the ascension of the Wetterhorn. The concession was secured in 1904, a company organized and in 1908 a portion of the road was inaugurated. In the first section the two extremities of the line are separated by a horizontal distance of 1000 feet, the average incline for the course being forty-five degrees. The cars are made of steel, each being propelled by two cables with a resistance of seventeen times the power required to carry them up the incline.

No motive power is employed, the line being operated by the simple movement of ascent and descent. The cars are of the same weight and are regulated by automatic brakes of such force as to insure safety.

The line passes over the Grand Glacier that descends the Wetterhorn and at considerable distance from the rocky, precipitous sides of the mountains, nearly to the summit. It is in operation from June 1 to October 1 only, as the heavy snows in the mountains during winter make transportation impracticable and dangerous. The popularity of the Wetterhorn route is handicapped by the fact that the starting point is several miles from Brindelwald, the principal town in the valley, which has no railway connection. Statistics show that 3000 passengers were carried over the road in 1909, 3600 in 1910 and 5000 in 1911.

Since the introduction of cable, rack and pinion and aerial railways in Switzerland, attention of engineers has been directed toward Mt. Blanc, the highest peak in Europe, and most famous in the Alpine region, with the beautiful valley of the Chamounix leading up to its base. On both French and Swiss sides Mt. Blanc is comparatively easy of ascent toward the base and not especially abrupt even in the higher regions.

A rack and pinion road has been built and is now in operation from the Valley of Fayet and Chamounix well up on the side of the mountain. From Fayet it ascends to St. Gervais, from where, by an incline road on a grade of 16 degrees, it reaches the Colonel de Voza at an altitude of 5500 feet. This road, which is to be supplemented with an aerial line similar to that on the Wetterhorn, is to be extended to Tate Rousse and from there around the sides of the Aiguille de Gouter, from which, through tunnels and galleries, splendid views of the glaciers will be afforded.

The aerial route will start from the town of Chamonix, at an altitude of 3000 feet, and will ascend to the Glacier des Bossoms at 7500 feet, with two intervening stations. The grade on this section will be 50 degrees to 60 degrees, and the line will finally be extended to the Aiguille du Midi at an altitude of 11,500 feet. The first section is to be completed in 1913 and the extension completed the following year. This road will be worked with three cables—the carrier, the tracteur and one for the brakes. The carriages will accommodate twenty-four persons each and are to be supplied with automatic brakes and provided with every possible device for insuring safety.

A Truthful Traveler.

[Judge's Library:] Knights of the grip will appreciate this yarn, which is told of one of their number. He had been summoned as a witness in a case at court, his employers having sued a delinquent customer, and the lawyer for the defense was cross-examining him.

"You travel for Hooque and Crooque Company, do you?" asked the attorney.

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you been doing it?"

"About ten years."

"Been traveling all that time, have you?"

"Well, no, sir," replied the witness, making a hasty mental calculation: "not actually traveling. I have put in about four years of that time waiting at railway stations, junctions and watering tanks for trains."

Don't go in much for those extreme novelties ourselves, but you would be perfectly surprised to see how many little unusual helpful features are embodied in Brauer clothes. Things you would never in the world think of, and yet that, when you use them, seem like a necessity. They are characteristics of Brauer's very superior service. They are embodied, all of them, in our $25 suits-to-order special.

Annual Pre-Inventory Sale
Is Now in Full Swing

Pre-Inventory Sale of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Waists

In these lines real bargains abound; reductions are general, savings are unmistakable and assortments to choose from are amply broad. Prices have been made so ridiculously small that you cannot go amiss no matter what you may decide upon.

Tailored Suits, Street, Auto and Evening Coats, Street Dresses, Afternoon Dresses, Evening Gowns, Waists and Blouses of every type at prices positively irresistible. We warn you, though, to come before the choicest specimens are taken. Sizes for misses and women.

No approvals, no C. O. D.

Furs 33⅓ to 20% Less

All Furs will be sold at prices ranging from 20 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent. less than regular. And, considering the very moderate prices they were originally marked, this reduction brings them down to about half, compared with some others about town. Our showing is admittedly the choicest to be seen in Los Angeles.

All Fur Coats are included also.

—Second Floor—

Woolen Dress Goods

$2.50 Suitings at $1.50

56-inch mixed Tailored suiting in overplaid or nub effects—one of the season's newest styles. Light gray and tan colors. Regular $2.50 value at $1.50 a yard. And there are others.

—Main Floor—

Handkerchiefs at Half

All handkerchiefs that have become mussed or soiled from showing will be closed out this week at half price. There is a goodly number of them, both women's and men's.

—Main Floor—

Novelties ⅓ Less

Sterling Silver novelties and many other articles of a strictly Christmas nature, will be closed out before New Year at 1-3 less.

Junior Suits ½ and Less

This week we purpose to close out all junior suits, and, if small prices count for anything these suits will go in a hurry.

Suits from $16.50 to $20 $7.50 Suits from $20 to $30 $16.50

Kranich & Bach

$10 Monthly Buys an Upright

The Kranich & Bach is one of the few famous old makes of Pianos which is still produced by the family whose name it bears. The Kranich's and the Bach's of today who are actively engaged in the production of these Pianos are Descendents of the Founders of this famous House—and fitted by birth, training and inclination to carry out its ideals. Not content merely to make Pianos of the highest grade, they have embodied—in the Kranich & Bach, features that place this Piano in a class by itself, and give it a wonderful "individuality." Kranich & Bach Uprights have the violin principle of stringing, and the largest Sounding Board used in any Upright Piano. This gives a "harp-like" tone which is so pleasing.

Features That Are Exclusive

Kranich & Bach Grands have the Isotonic Pedal, by means of which the tone can be sustained to the softest pianissimo without affecting its evenness of quality.

Hundreds of enthusiastic Kranich & Bach owners consider their Piano a member of the Family—for once a Kranich & Bach Instrument enters your home you find it develops a "personality" that you first admire and then grow to love.

We carry large assortments of these famous instruments. The Uprights are priced at $325 and up; the Grands at $650 and up.

Easy monthly payments will put a Kranich & Bach in your home—Uprights can be purchased for as little as $10 per month.

We will give us pleasure to show you these instruments. You will find great pleasure in trying them.

A Few Used Instruments at
Discounts of $150 to $200

Some of these are very slightly used, can scarcely be told from new. It will give you pleasure to have you come in, examine and try them for yourself.

Superb Kranich & Bach Players

Would you select a Player that has all the individual qualities that distinguish the Piano whose name it bears?

Then choose the Kranich & Bach.

This instrument is built complete by the Kranich & Bach Company. It has an original Player mechanism, especially designed in accordance with the Kranich & Bach idea of tone, touch and durability.

It is not an "assembled" Player with one of the usual stock player actions—but conforms to the peculiar "temperament" of the Kranich & Bach Piano, because these makers have designed it so.

The Kranich & Bach can be used as a Player or as a standard Upright Piano, which can be played by hand on the usual keyboard, without involving any changes. Prices are $900 and $950, according to style. Easy terms.

SING-SINGER'S SNATCHED UP.

Notorious Prison-breaker in Los Angeles Jail.

Strong Billy Green Taken as a Vagrant.

Now He'll Be Taken Back to Finish Term.

Billy Green, the famous strong man of Sing Sing, both penitentiary and town, who led the second successful jail-break in the historic old prison on the Hudson, is held at the Central Station pending extradition. The highest honors the City Jail can give a criminal celebrity are his, for he is detained in No. 7, the case-hardened steel cage recently installed for the most desperate men.

And the Animals Came Out Two by Two.

The Noah's Ark of Lodge 99, B.P.O.E.,

As it appeared to a dazed Times cartoonist about the middle of the surprising celebration in honor of Christmas at the Elks' clubhouse last night. The animals, by the way, were real ones and the ark was large enough to take care of any ordinary flood.

On charges of drunkenness and vagrancy, Billy Green, under the alias of Edward Henry McGrath, had served two terms in jail here. Several months ago he was sentenced to ninety days for drunkenness, and because of his tremendous strength and daring he was quickly named "The Strong Man" by the jailers who knew nothing of his record. They quickly recognized him when he was arrested yesterday on a charge of vagrancy—a formal charge made by the police to hold him until his identity was established. Last night a telegram came from Warden Kennedy of Sing Sing stating that the husky McGrath is the notorious Billy Green, and to hold him at all hazards.

IN TIGHT PLACE.

In the criminal records, Green is one of the most notorious characters. At the time of his arrest in Sing Sing, where he ran a saloon under the shadow of the prison walls, he gained nation-wide publicity. He was sent to Sing Sing for having robbed a man in an alley that was just nine and one-half inches wide.

When his trial was held the country laughed at the testimony introduced to show that a man weighting 253 pounds, and 5 ft. 6 in. tall, could accomplish a highwayman's deed in such pinched surroundings. Fabulous tales were told of Green's strength by witnesses at the trial, of how he walked a block carrying five heavy men in his arms; how he tossed 200-pound dumb-bells about. An enterprising theatrical manager even challenged the distinguished criminal to a match with one of the young giants on the vaudeville stage.

Green was convicted and sentenced to serve from four to six years in the penitentiary, and he walked two blocks from the town jail of Sing Sing into the high prison walls.

Last night he told how he engineered his remarkable jailbreak of October 1, 1910, the second successful one in the history of the prison.

HOW HE ESCAPED.

"We were in the dormitory," he said, and I was friendly with a bunch of the boys that were tailing the hop. I never touched anything like that, but I thought it would be a good joke. You know, a lot of prisoners in Sing Sing get the hop habit. Well, me and Jack White and Barry Boyle and Brannigan and a fellow named Izzy decided to toss ourselves out of the place.

"They picked me, because I was some strong, to take care of the two guards. I grabbed one of them when he was in bed, bound and gagged him, then plucked the other one, who was walking past me. He was easy to handle and I put him under the gag. Boyle had got a saw out of the machine shop, where he worked daytimes, and with that we cut through the bars. It took about twenty-five minutes to get away.

WHOLESALE PLAN.

"We were going to make it a wholesale break, letting every one out to give them a chance, but they were scared. So the five of us went through the bars. We climbed down a water spout from the second story. Izzy dropped and nearly broke his leg.

"After we got into the yard, we

THEY'RE ABSENT AT SOCIETY GIRL'S ARRAIGNMENT.

Millionaire's Divorcee, Arrested on Bad Check Charge, Faces Court Alone and Is Held for Examination Under Heavy Bail—Nobody Comes Across So She's Jailed Again.

Mrs. Louise Edna Adams, the society woman who is charged with passing a worthless check, was arraigned before Police Judge Williams in the University Court yesterday afternoon. Next Friday at 10 o'clock was the time set for her preliminary examination. Bail was fixed at $2500.

Having no money of consequence at her disposal and not yet having heard from her father, whom she expects to come to her rescue, the young woman was returned to the Central Police Station. A $10.50 check alleged to have been cashed at her request by the Elite Millinery Company, is the only one named in the complaint, which was issued by Deputy District Attorney Veitch and sworn to by Harris.

Mrs. Adams has engaged Attorney S. A. D. Gray to represent her. She says she is not superstitious. Gray's initial spell "sad," one of his office telephones carries the number 1313 and the other is No. 1351. His office number is 634, and these numerals added together equal thirteen.

GUY EDDIE AS A COY ADONIS.

Weird Picture's Ex-Censor's High-water Mark.

Girl's Story Not Materially Shaken by Rogers.

Guy Eddie in the role of a middle-aged Adonis was the sharpest picture developed by the saturnine humor of his chief counsel, Rogers, yesterday during the cross-examination of Alice Phelps, chief witness in the trial of the suspended City Prosecutor. The day was filled with bickerings of counsel followed by mutual apologies and by trained thrust and parry on each side.

Rogers made no serious inroads into the direct testimony of the girl witness until he depicted spirited scenes which the State alleges took place in the defendant's office upon three different occasions. Pressed as to some of the conversations, Mrs. Phelps could only remember that Eddie told her that he loved her, so she said. She gave descriptions of the acts that accompanied the purported declarations. The inference was that the ex-moral censor was just irresistible.

EDDIE SQUIRMS.

The narration appeared unpleasant to the defendant and his near relatives who sat in the courtroom. But for some reason later to be developed, Rogers insisted that the shrinking girl on the witness stand tell in just what way Eddie overcame her scruples.

"I don't know, I couldn't help it," said the witness (twisting her fingers

LONG LEASE FARTHER OUT.

Corner of Seventh and Bixel to Be Improved—Total Rental More Than Half Million Dollars.

The first ninety-nine-year lease negotiated outside the downtown business district was concluded yesterday between L. D. Sals, of the Western Wholesale Drug Company, as lessee, and Ellen W. Sibley, owner, and involves the southwest corner of Seventh and Bixel streets. The total rental consideration is given by E. D. Mathuss, who represented both parties to the transaction, at $612,500.

The property has a frontage of 100 feet on Seventh by 175 feet on Bixel, and is unimproved. By the terms of the lease the lessee must within three years erect a building to cost not less than $50,000. No definite plans for the improvement of the site have as yet been determined upon.

AFTER THE BRISTOL.

Chief of Police to Ask Hearing on Alleged License Violation—Manager Emphatic in His Denial.

Chief Sebastian will today recommend to the Police Commission that the Los Angeles Cafe Company be summoned to appear and show cause why its liquor license, allowing the sale of liquor in the Bristol Cafe, should not be revoked.

The Chief is acting upon the complaint of W. B. Moseley of No. 1045 Ingraham street, who says his seventeen-year-old son, W. R. Moseley, Jr., was served with intoxicating liquor at the Bristol the evening of the 18th inst.

According to a report made the Chief, Moseley, at his own request, was accompanied by Patrolman W. R. Ramsey on a visit to the cafe the evening in question. Both men say they found young Moseley and a friend, C. P. Marquette of Glendale, drinking beer at one of the tables in the place.

"It is a strict rule with us never to serve liquor to minors," said W. Miller, manager of the Bristol, last evening. "I do not know either Mr. Moseley or his son, and so far as I know have never seen them. I am sure that no minor secured intoxicating liquor here on December 18 or any other time. Our waiters work under iron-bound instructions in this regard."

ELKS BRIM OVER WITH JOY-STUFF.

Christmas Jinks Unbottles Good Fellowship and Cheer in Clubhouse—Moral Censor Holds Off His Police Sleuths and Officers Have Eyes but They See Not.

The affair started out with bubbles of merriment which developed into magnums of joy, but this expression only mildly describes the furore which was created by the appearance of Noah's Ark and which lasted until the final curtain fell on the jinks "the morning after" in the basement of the building, where the big-league stuff was pulled. It was one of the happiest nights in the history of Los Angeles Elkdom and congeniality reigned supreme. It had all the other antlered herd didoes limping in on flat tires when it came to the merrymaking doings.

Eliminating the airy persiflage, it was the original bottled in Kentucky, sixty-bull-power good time, and 1500 members of the horned clan stuck a tack in gloom's inner tube and made merry for five short hours, inhaling good things to eat and knocking down thirst-quenching joy fluids and digging up real money—all for sweet charity's sake.

The committee in charge of the flood of good cheer got a special permit from Acting Moral Censor Nimmo to hold the event and Nimmo also sent a night letter stating that he would hold off the sleuth hounds of the Purity Squad if the big muzzle was placed on the Grizzly Bear and other animal kingdom wriggles. The Good Government Organization — that is, what is left of it—then removed the ban and the Ark was on.

SPILLED JOY-STUFF.

When the gong sounded, Exalted Ruler Edward B. Lovie called the riot o jollity to order in a happy speech brimming over with Yuletide sentiment and the curtain rolled up on a real hand-painted Noah's ark, which could be seen with the naked eye riding gracefully on some nicely-carved billows. A wild Persian pig then emitted a husky squeal and five Noahs garbed in Noahical attire, appeared as if by magic on the gunwales of the cruiser.

Family Failing?

"YOU'RE ANOTHER!" REPLY TO HER DIVORCE CHARGE.

Mrs. Arthur M. Smith,

Plaintiff in a divorce action on the grounds of cruelty and intoxication. Her husband, a well-known young surgeon, replied yesterday with the evidence of a similar character.

A HANDSOME gowned young wife seeking a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and intoxication, and a prominent physician and former police surgeon fighting to protect his reputation with similar counter-evidence, marked the proceedings brought by Helen Smith against Dr. Arthur M. Smith yesterday.

Dr. Smith made no incriminating charges against his attractive wife. He does not deny that he takes a drink but proceeded to show by witnesses that Mrs. Smith occasionally indulged. The domestic conviviality was placed on the broad ground of bonhomie and a liberal education.

A jolt was given Mrs. Smith's emphatic denial of drinking and smoking by the testimony of Mrs. Bessie M. Burt, who swore that, while on a camping trip in Sespe Canyon, Mrs. Smith hid a bottle of whisky among the rocks, apparently intended for her own use, and indulged in cigarettes.

Mrs. Smith was decidedly cool and emphatic in her evidence. The alleged intoxication of her husband, she averred, inflicted mental anguish. She stated Dr. Smith had threatened to take away their five-year-old boy unless she did as he desired.

The finding of an alleged "sweetheart letter" by Mrs. Smith which was produced in court, led to the latter leaving her husband. The writer signed herself "Maris," and addressed the doctor as "My dear Arthur." The letter, dated New York, January 25 last, stated among other things: "I would like to be with you on this trip, dear. I know you would take such good care of me. Well, probably I may have the pleasure sometime again when I come back from my trip." If matters were different with him, the letter went on, Marie said she would certainly show her devotion to "you, sweetheart."

Mrs. Smith stated she took the letter to the office of Edmond B. Bronson, a young mining engineer, and gave it to him to put in the company safe. This visit led to unforeseen results. Dr. Smith came to the office with a detective, it was testified, and asked for his wife.

Bronson, it seemed, had excited the jealousy of Dr. Smith, but the former testified any such suspicion was absolutely without cause. The Bronsons and Smiths had occupied a large house at the beach for several months and the men frequently went fishing and bathing and, according to Bronson, they had a nip or so before breakfast.

Saved in Time.

SEVERAL ARE INJURED IN BOARDING-HOUSE FIRE.

FIRE at midnight in a three-story rooming-house at No. 1911 North Main street caused the serious injury of several men and a girl, totally destroyed the building and tied traffic up for an hour.

Olga Walters, 15 years old, was internally injured, suffered a dislocated hip and serious burns about the face and hands. She may die. She jumped from the third-story window when almost suffocated by smoke.

The injured men are Ray Good, Swansi Andrews and Herman Reichert. All were burned and cut by breaking glass while escaping from the building.

Twenty other men who escaped into the street barefooted and dressed only in their underclothes owe their lives to the heroism of Jack Carroll, a beer-wagon driver employed by the Los Angeles Brewing Company, which is directly opposite from the scene of the blaze.

Carroll was bringing his team to the brewery along North Main street when he discovered flames bursting from the third-story window.

Rushing to the entrance of the boarding-house he burst open the door and rushed through the flames on all three floors, arousing sleeping inmates of the building.

The boarding-house was occupied principally by employees of the Los Angeles Brewing Company.

The flames gained such headway that the Los Angeles Brewing Company plant was endangered and a second and a third alarm were turned in, bringing the entire downtown paraphernalia to the scene.

Police were rushed from several stations in autos.

There is a report which firemen discredit that two men were lost in the building.

TWICE GUILTY OF KILLING?

Confessions of the Slayer Bring Question.

Neighbors Theorize Over a Rancher's Death.

Wife's Brother Dies from Fatal Shots.

Did Levi Ehresman, confessed slayer of Jack H. Nicholson, kill Bert Warren, his wife's half brother, in the belief that the wealthy Lordsburg rancher would leave his property to Mrs Ehresman? Is he attempting to ease his troubled soul through the revelation of his dark secret while still harboring guilty knowledge of a prior crime, equally as heinous?

The answer to these questions is interesting the minds of hundreds of former friends and neighbors of the San Dimas liveryman who pleaded guilty to a charge of murder yesterday. Speculation has been rife since Warren's dead body was found in his ranch-house not more than a mile from the barn where Nicholson's body was cremated, on the morning of September 25, but no one has dared to voice a suspicion until since the startling developments of the past few days.

As in the Nicholson case, the evidence tending to connect Ehresman with the death of Warren is purely circumstantial. As in the former case, also, the circumstantial evidence apparently is strong. Those persons given to theorizing over matters of this kind find in the theory of Ehresman's guilt an explanation for the present distraught state of his mind. They point to the fact of his inability to eat or sleep under the pressure of his guilty knowledge. They refer to his declaration to Constable Slanker that he would go mad unless he were permitted to tell of his crime. They then call attention to the fact that since his confession, Ehresman's conscience apparently has not been stilled.

RELATIONS WERE STRAINED.

C. B. Warren, known throughout the valley as "Bert," was said to have been one of the best-liked ranchers in the community. No plausible reason has ever been advanced, according to his friends, for the generally accepted belief that he committed suicide. Wealthy and a bachelor, his affections are said to have centered on his half sister, Nellie, the wife of Ehresman. Knowing of Ehresman's infatuation for the Shawver girl, he frequently remonstrated with his sister's husband on his course, pointing out to him the probable result of such procedure. The repeated lectures, according to friends, strained the relations between the two men almost to the breaking point.

It was at the ebb tide of Ehresman's fortunes, he having squandered his wife's fortune and been compelled to give up his business in San Dimas, that Warren's death occurred. Neighbors going to the ranch to investigate because of the unusual actions of the live stock, discovered the rancher with two bullet holes through his head. In a note found near the body and ostensibly signed by Warren, the rancher told of his intention of ending his life. There were serious doubts at the time as to the note being in Warren's handwriting. Being of such a hopeful, happy disposition it was hard to convince his friends that he had voluntarily killed himself.

DOUBT SUICIDE THEORY.

Since the arrest of Ehresman and his voluntary confession of murder a strong undercurrent of belief has developed tending to connect him with the death of Warren. It is argued that Warren being wealthy, Ehresman probably figured that his wife would benefit materially by his death. Mrs. M. L. Sparks, No. 175 West Pearl avenue, Pomona, mother of Mrs. Ehresman and Warren, is generally credited with the belief that her son-in-law was responsible for the death of her son, but she refused to confirm or deny this belief yesterday. Her husband, however, was emphatic in his declaration that Ehresman had nothing to do with Warren's death. He refused to discuss the matter further than that statement.

Mrs. Ehresman, with her five small children, has taken up her residence with her father and mother in Pomona, where the little ones enjoyed their Christmas, unconscious of the brooding sorrow that overhangs the household. The wife of the slayer and her father were out yesterday house-hunting, it being the intention of Mrs. Ehresman to live in Pomona, where her father, who is wealthy, has promised to look after and educate her children. The wife has not been near the husband who deserted her and his children for another woman, nor has he expressed a desire to have her come to see him.

HAVE NOT INTERFERED.

So Say Rindges in Their Testimony Regarding Alleged Obstruction of Road Through Ranch.

The testimony in the Rindge case virtually was closed late evening before Special Commissioner Longley. The witnesses for the day were, in addition to Mrs. May K. Rindge, her sons, Frederick K. and Samuel Rindge.

They all denied that at any time any of the family has interfered or obstructed in any way the road sought to be maintained by the government through the Malibu ranch, and alleged that in the building of the Hueneme, Malibu and Port Los Angeles Railway, controlled by the Rindge estate, no tactices have been indulged in looking to free access to the old road by the homesteaders who lived in the rear country.

Under an arrangement made several weeks ago, the transcript of the evidence in this case will be presented to United District Court Judge Bean of Portland, who will be here January 20 to take it under consideration, and dispose of several other matters in which Judge Wellborn is interested.

NEUNER COMPANY DINNER.

DEATH CHEATS HIM.

Snatches Life's Ambition from One Man—Another Arrested, But Later Released.

Death snatched his life's ambition from J. B. Mullen yesterday and by chance circumstance caused an innocent man, Robert Wright, to be arrested and held on suspicion by Central Station detectives.

An autopsy last night by Coroner's Surgeon Campbell resulted in the decision that Mullen's death was caused by apoplexy and Wright was released.

Mullen was a chef. He lived at No. 1011 Monroe avenue, Kansas City, until he went to Portland, Or. He has a sister, Mrs. C. S. Wilson, living at the Washington Hotel, Hillsboro, Or.

For years Mullen had wanted to own a restaurant. He had original ideas he wanted to put into effect. But hard luck was his lot until he came to this city. Here he managed to scrape together a few hundred dollars.

Robert Wright owns a restaurant at Gladys and Fifth streets. It just suited Mullen and he made arrangements to purchase it. He went to the establishment happy. He was carried out to the morgue. Circumstances led to Wright's arrest, but his vindication came quickly at the autopsy.

FOUR HUNDRED SHARE CLUB'S CHRISTMAS JINKS.

Faults and Foibles of Members of Young Social Organization Hit Off from Huge Pack of a Fat Kris Kringle—Creditable Programme of Music and Vaudeville.

From a papier mache fireplace, which, as the abode of a gigantic Santa Claus, occupied most of one end of their assembly rooms and from a Christmas tree whose tip brushed the chandeliers, 400 members of the city's youngest social organization received the reward of good Knickerbockers last evening. The Christmas jinks of the club began when the electric light did and lasted practically as long.

If belated, the Knickerbockers' Santa Claus, impersonated by Dr. J. Lee Hagadorn, was none the less generous on that account. There was a gift especially designed to fit the foibles of every member of the organization and two or three for some whose prominent failings were more numerous.

The presentations were preceded by a smoker, which itself served as a sort of envelope for a mixed programme of music and vaudeville of unusual merit. Most of the latter was supplied from the latent talent in the club itself. E. M. Bonnell performed successively on a large variety of instruments, some of which he invented himself—notably a curious collection of strings grouped over a sounding board and named by him the jiggerino. When he ran out of instruments he organized an impromptu one-man minstrel show and sang.

Others of the club who contributed to the long programme were Arthur H. Clayton, whose songs were accompanied by P. H. Grauel, C. L. Friel, with H. E. Earle, and a generous representation from the club at large. Clare Conner, a very small young lady, added three vocal numbers and Miss Ella Fant, a lightsome 300-pounder, performed on a saxophone, on her feet and with her voice. Mlle. Carita gave a toe dance, a Carmen with castanets and the hula-hula, all in a costume.

The programme was arranged and produced under the direction of A. E. Judd, chairman of the smoker committee, and Dr. Hagadorn.

WHO'LL RUN THE RANCH?

Former Mail Carrier, Indicted by Federal Grand Jury, in Plight—Appeal in His Behalf.

F. A. Rollins, a former mail carrier, for twenty years connected with the local postal service, was arrested at Chino yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Durlin and lodged in the County Jail. Rollins, with two other postal employees, was indicted several days ago by the Federal grand jury, charged with having contracted to sell to J. E. Dougherty of Denver a job as carrier for $500. The other men were fined $1 and imprisoned one day in the County Jail by Judge Wellborn.

On account of the fact that court will not be in session until next Monday, it is possible that Rollins will be compelled to remain in jail until that time. His circumstances are said to be pitiable. Rollins has been trying to operate a little ranch near Chino, and a few days ago his house was blown over by the wind. His wife is sick at the Pasadena Hospital, and with his enforced stay in the County Jail there is nobody to care for the ranch.

An appeal will be made to Judge Wellborn today in chambers to take some action looking to the release of Rollins on his own recognizance until Monday.

QUESTION OF AUTHORITY.

Chief Clerk Parmelee of the Justice Court will issue no more executions and take no further steps to enforce judgments rendered by default from May 22, 1911, when the consolidation of the courts to a single body occurred, until the 2d inst. This order was issued yesterday by Justice Reeve, in pursuance of a recent decision by the Appellate Court, which obliges the presiding justice to sign all processes.

About 2000 cases will come under the ruling. It is expected that some disgruntled creditor will mandamus the court to get it to act, and the question of the chief clerk's authority will then be carried to the Supreme Court.

TWO REVOLVER SHOTS.

Monrovia Colored Man Reports a New Chapter in the Alleged Black Hand Conspiracy.

MONROVIA, Dec. 26.—The latest and most exciting chapter of the J. L. W. Fisher Black Hand letter affair occurred about 2 o'clock this morning, when, according to a statement by Fisher, two men attempted to break into the rear of his blacksmith shop, and, when he tried to catch them, took to their heels and escaped into the underbrush, after firing two revolver shots at him.

In the letters which the colored man received earlier in the month Christmas Eve was to be the last night which he would enjoy in his own home. On or before that time, the threatening epistles ran, he would be burned up or dynamited, and would eat breakfast in warmer [illegible], explicitly named in the letters. Whether or not the missives were written by some local wag, with the idea of making the colored man the victim of a practical joke, has not as yet been determined, but, at [illegible] seriously enough, and has taken turns with the wife in keeping watch every night since the first threat was made.

This morning the blacksmith alleges, he was on guard at the rear of his premises, concealed behind a tree. Suddenly his dog began to growl and bark, and at the same instant he saw two men standing at the back door of his smithy, evidently trying to force the door. At the sound of the dog's barking the men started to run. Fisher ordered them to halt, and started after them. They jumped the fence which surrounds the place, running in the direction of some underbrush and shrubbery. Fisher lost some time in clearing the fence, but at last got through, and [illegible] manded the men to stop. Their reply, according to the colored man's statement, was a couple of revolver shots, immediately after which they disappeared into the undergrowth. Fisher was armed with a 30-30 Winchester, but was unable to get a shot. He declares, however, that the next time he will take no chances, but will shoot to kill.

Opinions as to the meaning of the threats vary widely, some thinking the whole thing a hoax, others that Fisher is the victim of a practical joke, and still others that someone has a grudge against the blacksmith and is trying to frighten him into disposing of his property. The Federal authorities are at work on the case.

TWO FUNERALS.

TROPICO, Dec. 26.—The funeral services of Mrs. Martha J. Pollock, who passed away at the home of her son, Dr. Samuel A. Pollock, on Park avenue, early Monday morning, were held at Pulliam's undertaking parlors yesterday afternoon and conducted by Dr. Hatch of the First Presbyterian Church of Tropico. The pallbearers were J. Bailey Hickman, James R. Maxwell, W. J. Moore, A. Friend, W. J. Wints and T. R. Cressey. Mrs. Pollock, who was 76 years of age, was the widow of the late John Pollock. The deceased was a pioneer of Los Angeles county and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Alice Peterson and Mrs. Mattie Hunter, and one son, Dr. Samuel A. Pollock. Another son, Dr. John Pollock, passed away a few years since while residing in the East.

Mrs. Menime Agard, who passed away at her home on Dunbarton street, and was interred at Forest Lawn Cemetery, was a widow who resided at her home in Tropico since the tragic death of her son, Joe Agard, who was fatally injured by being run down by an automobile at the intersection of Central and Park avenues.

Billy Green jests gaily about his escape. He came to Los Angeles about a year ago and has been working at Frazier pier where he wore a diving bell and earned $10 a day because of his great physical strength.

He had injured his ribs while diving and was resting in Los Angeles when arrested by Detectives Beaumont, Hawley and Ingraham.

NORTHERN CO-OPERATION.

San Francisco and Oakland Will Send Delegates to the Consolidation Meeting—Brief News.

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 25.—In response to the letters recently forwarded to the different county seats by the San Gabriel Valley Inter-City Commission, asking for a conference at Santa Barbara, January 11, to consider a new constitutional amendment for city and county consolidation, responses have been received from the San Francisco and Oakland Chambers of Commerce.

The former body will take the matter up and act through its Consolidation Committee, while Oakland, although protesting against the opening up of the question, promises to have delegates to the conference.

PIONEER PASSES.

In the passing of Lemuel B. Franklin at his home, No. 1008 Fair Oaks avenue, Tuesday morning, December 24, one of the pioneer residents of this section is mourned. He came from Ohio to Pasadena thirty years ago, and settled on what is now known as the Bush estate, on which place he lived for sixteen years, then purchased a fruit ranch at Lankershim, and moved to this city eight years ago.

Mr. Franklin was a Civil War veteran, and 68 years old. He was a member of the John R. Godfrey post of Pasadena, which will have charge of the funeral services at the grave in Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena.

Mr. Franklin planted many of the orange and ornamental trees now in the Bush estate, and the children's playhouse, "Rosewall," is the house he lived in with his family.

Besides a widow he is survived by two sons who make their home in Lankershim and two daughters who live in Los Angeles. The funeral services will occur at his late residence, No. 1008 Fair Oaks avenue tomorrow afternoon to 2 o'clock, Rev. Charles M. Fisher, D.D., pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian Church of this city, officiating.

ARE SATISFIED.

General satisfaction has been expressed in all quarters of the city upon the appointment to the Board of Trustees of Don S. Gates and W. N. Carter, two directors of the South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce. Their appointment is looked upon as a practical amalgamation of the civic and executive interests of the city, and the complete burying of the hatchet on the part of all factions.

Helpful Hints on Hair Health

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe, which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to someone else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Los Angeles only at our stores. The Oil Industry.

WILL UTILIZE GAS IN MEXICO.

...dney Company to Build Gasoline Plant.

...mmodity Said to Bring High Price There.

...dney Company Has Difficulties With Boulders.

The first gasoline-from-gas plant to be built in Mexico is under construction by the Mexican Petroleum Company on the Huasteca property in the Ebano Cruz district. It is to have a capacity of about 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 cubic feet a day. The gas which is to be utilized is produced by the Ebano Casiano well No. 7 on the property of the Mexican Petroleum Company. Practically all of this has gone to waste heretofore.

The gasoline, it is said, will probably sell for about 30 cents a gallon in Mexico, and on this basis it is estimated that the output will return about $180 per day. When other wells are brought in on the property probably more units will be added.

The progress in the manufacture of gasoline-from-gas has brought very good results, not only in returns to investors, but, in California especially, has proved an additional factor in increasing the supply of gasoline. The operation of a plant in the Mexican fields is significant of the value of gas as a new source of income in the oil fields.

Gravity Goes Up.

The Edmonds Midway Oil Company No. 1 well on sections 32, 33-... which has been off production for several weeks owing to trouble with the tools, is now reported to be doing 150 barrels of over twenty-one-gravity oil on the pump. The oil formerly produced by this well was about 20-gravity, and the lighter product was obtained by drilling thirty feet deeper. The company is now pumping the well in expectation of getting it to flow of its own accord, as it did in the past.

The well came in at 2928 feet, and proved to be a very good producer, but during the past few months more or less difficulty has been encountered because of rocks or boulders interfering with production. Recently the well ceased flowing altogether. In the work of cleaning out the hole the company found a large number of rocks, said to be about as large and almost as hard as iron. These have been broken up and screened and put in the well.

Some difficulty was encountered in the first efforts at cleaning out the hole owing to the heaving sand, and the mud solution capable of holding the sand was found to be a mixture of clay water and oil. It was during this process of cleaning that the company decided to drill deeper. It is expected that the well will be put on again in the course of a week or ten days.

Oil was removed from No. 2 well in securing these operations, and although not much progress has been made in drilling the former. It is now about 2673 feet, however. Drilling was resumed a few days ago, and No. 3, which is located 540 feet from No. 2, is down about 320 feet.

Field Notes.

Gas from the Fullerton field for fuel natural gas is to be supplied soon by the Birch Oil Company, which operates in Brea Canyon. The residents have signed up the field, and a four-inch pipe line will be laid from the Birch wells to Fullerton as soon as a franchise is granted by the Supervisors of Orange County. It is said that the gas will be furnished at the flat rate of $2.50 per month.

The Birch Oil Company has been piping gas to a gasoline-from-gas plant in the field for some time. It is claimed that the output of this plant is about 100,000 a month, and that a large amount of gasoline contained is said to be about two gallons per 1000 feet.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Union Oil Company and its holding companies is to be held at Reum, Contra Costa county, January 14.

The Meanders well in La Habra field, the latest advices had resumed drilling after ceasing operations for several weeks to install a circulating system. The hole is down about 900 feet.

The National Pacific Oil Company is making good progress drilling well No. 1 on section 32, 12-22. The Cornerstone Wildcat well in the Whittier district is drilling, but has been delayed in getting no production.

The General Petroleum Company is reported to be securing a production of 500 barrels per day of light oil in the Fairidge field.

The Hartley and Dudley No. 2 well in the Whittier is reported to look good for 120 barrels per day.

"Do you mean to tell this jury that you were hypnotized," persisted the lawyer remorselessly. "Tell us if you can what power did Eddie exercise over you that rendered him resistless?"

The witness made no answer.

With considerable badinage that is unprintable, Rogers continued to dig into the motives of the woman in visiting the office of the defendant. Aside from this closing cross-examination that exposed the supposed weakness of the woman or her motives, the testimony did not favor the defendant.

IMPEACHMENT OVERRULED.

Judge Wood ruled positively that the defense could not interrogate the witness as to other alleged acts of immoral conduct prior to her meeting her husband.

This ruling not only shut out a long line of contemplated impeaching questions but in the opinion of the prosecution may affect the proposed introduction of depositions tending to discredit the character of Mrs. Phelps.

Rogers opened the way to the court's ruling by asking the witness if she knew certain men, mentioning them by name. She replied that she had met some of them. He then tried to ask her if she had not conducted herself in a questionable manner with them.

"The court will not permit the cross-examination as to those alleged acts of the witness," said Judge Wood. "You may interrogate her as to matters brought out in the direct examination."

The defense lawyers wanted to argue the point but the court said his mind was determined upon the point.

Rogers then tried to show that the witness had extorted money from various men in the East and this line of cross-examination was debarred. However, Mrs. Phelps frankly told about her experiences with Phelps and narrated just how she happened to marry him.

SCATHING EXAMINATION.

Rogers exercised all the arts of his profession in cross-examining the somewhat stolid witness. He was urbane and smiling or somewhat threatening and scowling by turns. Mrs. Phelps seemed to irritate the lawyer by her slowness in replying and her apparent difficulty in grasping the force of the scathing questions.

Mrs. Phelps wore a large white hat yesterday and the same suit of tan. She gave some in the courtroom the impression of being unmoved and unemotional, but others declared Mrs. Phelps really labored under a high nervous strain and was bewildered by the unaccustomed scene in a hall of justice.

But whether she was dazed by the onslaught of the cross-examiner or was merely using her own listless mode of expression, Mrs. Phelps was not materially shaken in her testimony. In some places it was brought out that her testimony differed in part from that given at the preliminary examination two months ago. At times she took refuge in "I don't remember." On other occasions she would ask to have the question repeated.

Eddie was represented by nearly a full staff of lawyers yesterday, the only one absent being Tom Thornton, who appeared for the defendant on the afternoon of his arrest.

Aiding Rogers were Frank Dominguez, who, next to the chief counsel, is bearing the brunt of the work; Lewis Works and Albert Lee Stephens, representatives of the "Good Government" organization; W. H. Dehm, H. J. Geisler and a young lawyer in Rogers's office. Eddie himself aided in the work, sorting over papers with a steady hand and producing documents that the defense asserts will be offered in evidence later on.

Fred M. C. Choate, who is under indictment for participating in the alleged false imprisonment of F. W. Lloyd, a witness against the defendant, was present but said he was not associated in any way with the legal defense. George Baker Anderson, another zealous friend of Eddie, and also under indictment, was absent.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Phelps opened with many questions relating to her appearance in Eddie's office on the afternoon the alleged crime took place. Rogers asked her minutely about the reason for going there, why she left the room for a walk up Hill street, and why she returned to await the coming of Eddie.

At several points the witness baffled the eager lawyer by replying: "I can't remember."

"Do you mean you were told not to remember?" queried the other with a snap.

"No," replied the woman wearily.

ATTORNEYS CLASH.

A little later Rogers, who was standing by his chair, became annoyed because Deputy District Attorney Keyes did the same. He asked the prosecutor to take his seat, but Keyes smilingly rejoined that he had as much right to stand before the jury as the chief counsel for the defense.

A spirited encounter seemed imminent, but Judge Wood said decidedly: "Hold on, gentlemen. I will permit either lawyer to stand if he choses. Proceed with the examination."

"Were you afraid of Eddie?" resumed Rogers.

After some difficulty he drew from the girl that she feared the City Prosecutor would have her arrested upon the charge of forcing her attentions upon him if she did not do as he wanted.

"Isn't it a fact that you were sent up to Eddie's office to force your attentions upon him?" continued the cross-examiner.

"No, sir," came the answer in a decided tone.

She went on to say that she knew the officers were somewhere near her when she went up to the private office for the third and last visit. She declared, however, that no signals had been arranged and denied knowledge of the peep-holes.

AS TO HER AGE.

When asked about her marriage license Mrs. Phelps said her husband answered the necessary questions and that she did not notice what he said. She was then shown a copy of the application for a license made to the County Clerk at Bloomington, Ill., in July of the present year. It showed that Phelps gave his age as 27 and that of his bride-to-be as 21.

The witness said that her age was 20 at that time, and that if her husband gave it as 21 he made a mistake.

Mrs. Phelps denied she had ever been promised money for her part in the events leading up to the arrest of Eddie. She was then asked if she had not told her husband when he called upon her at the Natick House that she would be paid for her services. She denied having made any such statement.

Rogers then went into a line of unprintable testimony and closed the afternoon session with a series of questions relating to the reasons for going to Eddie's office and his supposed influence over her.

The cross-examination will doubtless close today. Deputy District Attorneys Blair and Keyes may ask a few more questions upon re-direct examination and then call other witnesses. It is possible that the State will close its side of the case this afternoon, but the lawyers last night did not think this probable.

EXPRESSES INCREDULITY.

Justice Finds It Hard to Believe That Realty Agent Did Not Know What He Was Selling.

After hearing evidence the greater part of yesterday, Justice Summerfield was obliged to take under advisement the case of George N. Sceets, a realty dealer charged with having obtained money under false pretenses.

Mrs. Carrolleigh Van Schaack testified that Sceets showed her the wrong lot in a realty deal and when she came to build more than a year after the trade took place she found that the lot she had acquired was on low, giddily-sloping ground, while the land showed her by the agent was on the crest of a hill.

Sceets at the outset admitted that he had shown the wrong lot, but denied intent to defraud, saying that he had purchased innocently under the same circumstances and had discovered his error only when Mrs. Van Schaack had threatened prosecution. She earlier filed a civil suit to recover her property; but this Sceets said he had sold.

Justice Summerfield expressed some incredulity that a man in the real estate business would not know the difference between lots so widely dissimilar and so far apart, as indicated by maps and photographs introduced in evidence. Deputy District Attorneys Veitch and Ong appeared for the State.

TO MERCIES OF GRAND JURY.

Alleged Squatters in Palo Verde Valley Will Not Be Given Preliminary Jury—Offense.

The preliminary hearing of William G. Edwards and other alleged squatters in the Palo Verde Valley charged with conspiracy, set for tomorrow before United States Commissioner Van Dyke, will not be held. Assistant United States District Attorney Robinson said yesterday his reports are that the accused men are not making good their promise to cease their persecutions of Homesteader Bodkin, and that the case will be immediately certified to the Federal grand jury.

When arrested Thanksgiving Day and brought to this city for a preliminary hearing, a plea was made in their behalf and promises that they would desist from driving away Bodkin, whose right to 160 acres of land under the homestead law had been confirmed by the Secretary of the Interior. For that reason it was arranged that if the conspirators made good their agreement the matter would be dropped. The Federal grand jury will not investigate until the new term of the United States District Court begins, some time in January.

Suit was filed in the United States District Court yesterday by Mrs. Henrietta Daniel against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company to recover $50,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by reason of the alleged negligence of the agents of the defendant corporation while Mrs. Daniel was a passenger on a train, January 2, 1912. She was injured in alighting.

The Last Resort.

DIVORCE TO END YEAR OF WOES.

SENSATIONS PROMISED AT THE JONATHAN CLUB.

And so they were married and did not live happily ever afterward. Such is the burden of a sensational divorce trial billed to take place at the Jonathan Club today when the Maggenheimers will try to get themselves separated. The divorce will be a scream if brilliant legal talent, prominent co-respondents and expert witnesses can make it so. The unhappy couple, were married just one year ago at the Jonathan Club with Steve Brodie as groom, Amos Yaeger as bride, Ed Wehrle as the bride's father, Ed Nagle as her guardian, Bill Anderson as the minister, and Seward Simons as toastmaster, at the wedding supper.

It was an auspicious beginning, but during their year the bride's business has taken her to Mexico and the husband has grave charges to prefer against her. His papers have been filed by Seward Simons with Judge James Gibson through Leo Youngworth, the chief officer of the court. A cross-complaint has been entered in behalf of the bride by ex-Judge J. W. McKinley, who has summoned Dana Burks as an expert witness. L. Moultrie, who is to take the part of Mephistopheles at the jinks tonight, will be present at the trial in costume on the theory that the devil is always to pay in a divorce suit.

Large cartoons of a former city official and ex-moral censor are posted on the walls as well as a life-sized painting of the Mayor. Both are said to be mentioned in the suit. The name of the co-respondent has been suppressed thus far, as well as many other interesting details and a good share of the 2000 members are expected to be on hand to hear the worst. The bride at her wedding one brief and tearful year ago, wore one of the most elaborate wedding gowns ever donned in this glowing city. Yaeger sent to Paris for it and hundreds of bottle of champagne were uncorked to celebrate the feast.

The big turkey shoot which has been on tap all this week will not close until after New Year's. A regular shooting gallery was installed for this sport and several keen gun-men have made startling scores. Heading the list is W. B. Thompson, who won four turkeys the first day of the match. Someone let his turkeys out of the pen yesterday and the club was in consternation for several hours. Others who made good with the rifle were Dr. N. F. Hirtz, Dr. E. H. Wiley, Ed Maxson, Gen. Wankowski, Frank Edwards, Al Bayer, Frank Egan and O. L. Worker.

At the jinks tonight the members will appear as famous characters. Most of these are secret and there is much interest in the personalities of Cleopatra and Sappho. It is known that Herbert Cornish will be Shylock, Harry G. Holabird a Danish prince, Fred Latimer the Premier of England, Percy Eisen and Phil Lyons, wood nymphs, and Charles A. Pollack, Raphael. Some of the members could not wait to show their new clothes and appeared in them at lunch yesterday. Among these were Andrew Robertson as a Scotch bagpiper, Frank Eccles and son as Chinese flute players, and Otto Worker as Paderewski.

Harry G. Holabird is chairman of the Jinks Committee. He is entirely surrounded by a glittering cohort of warm members as aids and abettors in the evening's strife, which begins sharp at 6 o'clock.

SOCIETY

MRS. WILLIAM MONROE LEWIS of No. 3916 South Figueroa street will preside January 3 at a reception for which invitations have already been issued. The guests will be entertained at the hostess' home, where a wealth of beautiful flowers will lend their charm. Mrs. W. D. Woolwine, who is in the south visiting relatives; Miss Elizabeth Vaughn, who is a guest at the W. M. Lewis residence, and Mrs. Hugh Graham Miller of New York will be present as special guests.

Married on Anniversary.

Choosing her parents' thirty-second wedding anniversary for her wedding date, Miss Rea Parks, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Parks of this city, and Spencer Briggs of Crockett, Cal., were married last evening in the Second United Brethren Church, of which Rev. Parks is pastor. Wedding music by Guelph McQuinn followed the service spoken by the bride-elect's father and later a group of young girls from the Philathea class of the Sunday-school sang the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin."

Miss Parks wore a handsome gown of white satin charmeuse with a tulle veil and carried a shower of lily of the valley. Miss Eva Hall, in pale green messaline with a shower of violets, assisted as maid of honor, while the flower girls, Rea Luella Smith and Rea Delight Shamory, namesakes of the bride-elect, in dainty little frocks of white, carried baskets of rosebuds. The maids, who wore gowns of lavender, yellow and pink, with bouquets of violets, included the Misses Ray Hanna, Eva Mathews, Edna Webb, Ruth Murray of Chino, Jessie Williams and Miriam Eby. The ushers were Harbert Lewis, John Cleaver, Joseph Parks, Reuben Stephens, Hervin Oakes and Ned Manning of Stanford.

The church was radiant with quantities of violets, ferns and smilax, and the bride's home, No. 3801 Adair street, where a wedding supper was served to members of the bridal party and relatives, was also attractive with the same species of blossoms and ferns.

After a trip to San Francisco the young people will go to Crockett, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Augustus A. Briggs of New York, mother of Mr. Briggs, came south for the wedding, and other out-of-town friends included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cochran of Logonier, Ind.

Christmas Wedding.

Christmas Day Miss Bertha Charnley and William McComb were married by Rev. Dr. Fishburn, following which luncheon was served at the bride's home, No. 1418 West Twenty-third street. Later Mr. and Mrs. McComb entertained a party of friends at dinner and the theater.

Another Christmas Bride.

Miss Maud W. Parmelee, daughter of John W. Parmelee of this city, became Mrs. Elvin Albert Robinson Christmas Day, the services having been performed by Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher. Mrs. Samuel Morris Kiser gave a wedding dinner for the young people at her home, No. 421 North Virgil street. Christmas colors decorated the table, where covers were laid for John W. Parmelee, Mrs. M. L. Hamlett of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Lyon, Mrs. A. R. Runkle and F. G. Fenderman.

Family Dinner.

Christmas eve Mrs. George P. Cope entertained with a family dinner party at her home on Bellevue avenue. A miniature Christmas tree centered the table and attractive little favors for each guest hung from the branches. There were covers for Mr. and Mrs. Addison Bentley Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. A. H. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Allen of Sierra Madre, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. McKinney, Mrs. M. Johnson, Berilla Kerr, Charles H. Cope and Margaret Allen.

Left Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jay Kerr of New York and this city sailed Tuesday for London, where they will spend several months. Mrs. Kerr only recently concluded a several months' visit with her mother, Mrs. George P. Cope of this city.

Changes Her Name.

A morning wedding interesting to many was that of Miss Aida Castellano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Castellano of No. 1402 South Manhattan place, to Armand A. Normandin, which took place at 10:30 o'clock at St. Vincent's Church yesterday, Rev. Joseph Glass officiating. The church was banked with Kentia palms and other rare plants and flowers which formed a handsome background for the exquisite gowns worn by the young women attendants. While the guests were gathering, B. Rutherford sang "O Promise Me" and "Good Night, Beloved," with organ accompaniment by Thomas Wilde, who also played the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party approached the altar and the Mendelssohn Wedding March following the benediction.

The bride-elect entered gowned elaborately in white charmeuse with trimmings of real lace. Her veil was held with a filet of orange blossoms and she carried a shower of orchids and lily of the valley. Miss Minnie Dox, attired in pink brocaded satin and lace, with a jaunty picture hat of pink, assisted as maid of honor. The maids, the Misses Florida Normandin and Florence Calderwood, were dainty in large hats of pink with pink charmeuse gowns adorned with lace. They carried arm bouquets of enchantress carnations tied with long streamers of pink satin ribbon. Little Virginia Cipillo, in a childish lingerie frock, and Master Joseph Armillo were flower girl and ring bearer respectively.

Emil Castellano, Jr., stood with Mr Normandin as best man, and the ushers were R. A. Normandin and Secondo Guasti, Jr., the bride's cousin. Following the service at the church breakfast was served to relatives and friends at the family home, where pink enchantress carnations were used in profusion. The table glowed with a centerpiece of these blossoms arranged in a low bowl and at each end pink-shaded candelabra with pink satin shades added an effective touch. Dainty little satin boxes filled at No. 1402 Manhattan place, with bride's cake were given as favors. After a trip to Santa Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Normandin will be at home

In Pasadena

Elks Brim Over.

by George T. Cline, Louis Hauser, Will Boyle and Wilbur Emerson. The first red-blooded animal to appear on the deck was a Lankershim jackrabbit. It bore a neat white tag and was consigned to A. L. Jacobs. The rabbit was presented to Jacobs after he had paid the $3 Adams Express Company's charges.

After this the flood of animals was fast and furious. W. H. Russel dug up $2 for a tame duck, Tobe Newman paid $2 for a Plymouth Rock rooster, Roger Cornell signed a $10 check for a bob-tailed Arabian spaniel, former Councilman R. W. Dromgold grabbed a turkey gobbler and doled out $5, it cost E. B. Smith $20 for a Parisan lamb minus a healthy tail, Gus Messling drew a live monkey for fifty iron men, Walla Wheeler paid $3 for a stuffed dog, Miles Gregory paid $40 for a Dubbitshear ram bred in Highland Park, De Witt Van Court picked a fighting rooster with a comb cut ready for battle. Exalted Ruler Lovie got a rattlesnake with the fangs eliminated for $10, Deputy District Attorney "Mike" Shannon drew its mate for the same price. "Tip" Casselman was given a pigeon for $3 and so on ad infinitum.

Five hundred real and nature-faked animals and birds of the air and earth were distributed by the Ark Express Company at so much per express charges.

"THE HONEST MAN?"

While the five Noahs were engaged in passing out the animals "Judge" Regan, attired as Diogenes, lantern et al., was busily busy scurrying to and fro among the members in quest of an honest man. When he found one he immediately haled him before the Chief Noah, who "soaked" him divers and sundry sums ranging from a five spot to one bone. Nearly every man in the place loomed big on the veracity line to Regan and a neat sum for the poor children of the city was placed in the Elks' charity coffers as a result of his excellent judgment and eyesight. Walter Moore was Ananias.

Between express charges a twelve-piece orchestra furnished whistley music and Miss Thompson gave several selections on various musical instruments and was loudly encored.

After the animal show the members hied to the basement, where they butted into bunco parlors, gambling dens, and in fact everything that any of the committee happened to think of; all were found there, big as life and flourishing, and everything was grabbed up post-haste by the jolly herdsmen.

The committee, by the way, consisted of M. J. McGarry, Harry Girard, George T. Cline, O. C. Saakes, S. A. McKee, Wilbur Emerson, Lou Melkus, Guy Yonkin, Gus Messling, Erwin Dingle, Joe Minnett and Leo Youngworth.

From the time the affair opened in the basement the details of the joy defied the swiftest pen of the most experienced chronicler; they came too quickly and always in staccato jumps. Exalted Ruler Lovie saw that everything was sedate and orderly with the accent on the riot of good cheer.

OH, SHOCKING!

Dr. W. W. Homan and Van Langsingh spun the roulette wheel. They got the golden fleece from lambs galore. Morris Goldstein, Roger Cornell and Matt Finehout attended to that old game known as "The Klondike" and wowie, but they extracted oodles of the stuff that listens well for sweet charity. Capts. Bradish and Murray hung around this outfit nearly all evening and both ended up losers, but with wads of evidence against the operators. At a late report no arrests had been made.

Charley Van Pelt, Olin Wellborn, Jr., Bert Campbell and Rex Belcher attended to the ginks who took flings at the Carlo Bank and Ot. Of it was a sight for Murine eyes to see them rake in the healthy furs of the realm. George Adair, Fox Stamps and Jim Pitcher fondled the faro wheel and nuff sed. Deacon Pyle, Grant Whitney and Henry Jones looked after the "paddle wheel" and charity gained at least $300 by their energetic efforts along financial lines. Fred Usher, Guy Yonkin, Eddie Maier and Motley Flint hung around the "wheel of fortune" and succeeded admirably in extracting the fortunes of nearly everyone in the basement. It was something awful, Delphine, but it was all for charity.

Professional merrymakers entertained the crowd with rollicking songs and joysome skits until the wee sma' hours. It was a world's series night for No. 99, and over $2500 will go to the needy and poor of this great city as a result of the jollification.

Misjudged the Uniform.

[Kansas City Star:] During the war in the Philippines Gen. Charles King, one day while resplendent in his uniform, which was made especially brilliant by several rows of new brass buttons, came upon a raw recruit. The latter was on post duty and failed to salute the general.

"Are you on duty here?" asked Gen. King, with a show of anger.

"I guess so," said the recruit. "They sent me out here, anyway."

"Do you remember your general orders?" asked the general.

"I guess I do—some of them," said the raw recruit.

"Well," said the general, "don't you know that you are supposed to salute your officers? Don't you know I am the general of this brigade?"

"You the general?" said the new recruit. "Gosh, no; I didn't know it. I thought you was the chief of the fire department."

The Marriage of Widows.

[London Chronicle:] Statistics compiled by the Municipal Council show that most widows in Paris take a second husband within eighteen months of the death of the first. The remarriage of widows constitutes a long-standing grievance among spinsters. In 1733 a monster petition was presented by the unmarried girls of Carolina, begging that a law might be passed forbidding widows to marry a second time. Their demand, however, was not acceded to. There used to be a law in Portugal by which widows older than 50 years were forbidden to marry, "because experience shows that women of that age commonly marry young men of no property, who dissipate the fortunes which such marriages put them in possession of, to the prejudice of the children and other near relations of their wives."

TOES SPARKLE AT MERRY BALL.

BOYS AND GIRLS ARE GUESTS OF HONOR.

Married Couples to Chaperon, the Rest Are Kids Let Out Loose—Wonderful Christmas-Tree Feature at Holiday Function at Alexandria.

The Christmas ball given last evening at Hotel Alexandria by Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Balch drew to a close early after midnight amid such scenes of delightful excitement and abandon as only young college men and girls can manifest. The function will be remembered for years by the 150 guests, who included, with the exception of a few married people added to receive, members of the school crowd and the season's debutantes only.

So important were the hosts to the older members of the smart set who received invitations to the subscription dance, as the affair last evening echoed in point of the brilliancy and splendor the season's opening function, arranged in the same ballroom by Mrs. Balch as one of the which, in a beautiful gown of silver and silver, stood with the maid of honor, Miss Florance Hughes, wore a dainty creation of white and green with gold trimmings. Miss Louise Hunt and Miss Anita Thomas, attired alike in white Directoire gowns of brocaded crepe de chine, the fetching combinations of color worn by the young women who served as maids at the wedding: John W. Roy Bilest, William Watson Jr., Carey Lovett and Charles Gates, who is the daughter of Mrs. Carroll W. Gates of Pasadena, came down from Stanford for the party, as did several of the men honored.

The ballroom was done in wreaths of holly with a Kentia here and there as a pretty finishing touch. The dining room was also done in Christmas colors—huge branches of English ivy having been used as a background, for weird effects which winked and blinked through the foliage. Guests were received in the assembly-room, where punch was arranged for those who chose to enjoy a pleasant bit of

The feature of surprises was the supper below stairs. The entire room was concealed beneath huge canvas trees, which transformed the place into a fairy bower with snow—one by one the trees appeared and the trees were lighted with the red, green and white Christmas lights—as if by magic the gifts burst forth on the trees and the guests, like small children, clapped their hands in glee.

The room was surrounded with garlands of Christmas greenery, festooned from tall brass candlesticks containing red candles adorned with wreaths. The mirrors, reflecting the magnificent scene, were framed in holly and poinsettias. Centerpieces representing the horn of plenty graced each table. These were filled with candles and flowers. Favors were gold cocoroonies and bon-bons, perched upon which were figures of Santa Claus.

The last course consisted of an immense Christmas pudding which blazed in the center of the room for several minutes and then exploded—disclosing souvenir imitation puddings filled with confetti. Other surprises consisted of gilt boots fixed with a small fuse which, when lighted, also burst, sending a shower of toys into the air.

Prominent Young Honorees

At last evening's Christmas ball, Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Balch presided as host and hostess and the function echoed in detail the brilliancy of the subscription dance.

GROPING FOR LIGHT.

Some Queer Things Bob Up in the Good Government-Socialist People's Charter Conference.

Proportional representation, a curious Socialistic propaganda whereby the minority drives at least a part of the government tally-ho, provided diversion for the score of members of the People's Charter Conference, a Good Government and Socialist organization, which met last night in the Council chamber.

George Dunlop, the chairman, and M. E. Johnson of the Alembic Club seemed to understand what it is all about; the former because he helped invent it, and the latter because he specializes upon its intricacies, but the rest of the charter-makers groped for the light.

S. C. Graham won gratitude by suggesting that a blackboard and a demonstrator be procured to explain the system, which to Mrs. Bellows seems to work in inverse ratio. Her investigations as related on the floor of the conference led her to believe that if a voter votes for four candidates for the Council from the same party the vote for the last two offsets his first two votes, and like the small boy's apple core, "there ain't none."

The game is to let a minority party elect a candidate to office for every so many votes it polls, but the system runs into higher mathematics so quickly that Graham's call for blackboards and chalk appeared well founded. The fact that the system destroys government by majority rule impressed Secretary Leighton as "pernicious," and his "No!" was the only vote against referring the proposed charter amendment to the Law Committee.

Chairman Dunlop announced that he hoped to get the City Attorney to provide the legal trimmings for the proposed amendments.

It was unanimously agreed that "something must be done," and the suggested movement to return to the old district system of governing was viewed with alarm.

The monetary value of a perfectly good Mayor started a discussion that threatened to last until the lights burned out, but Leighton wanted to go home and cut short the argument with a motion to adjourn, so the future Mayors won't know until Saturday night whether they will get 5000 skads a year, or only $4500, or perhaps only 4000. "The lower the salary the bigger the working men's vote," was the argument used.

The alleged charter-making will proceed tomorrow evening. The chairman said many important measures will be considered.

CRISP BILLS THEIRS.

The Crane Company, following its practice of several years past of making Christmas gifts to its employees in prosperous years, is distributing through the manager, Jud Saeger, $3300 in crisp new bills, to the employees of Los Angeles.

COLYEAR'S
Where Bargains Reign
LOS ANGELES AGENTS. 507-511 S. Main St.

DAILY TURKEY HINT: On the third day, if you have sufficient strength of mind to resist the prospect of turkey soup, strip the meat from the bones of the Christmas bird, place it in a baking dish, pour over it a cream sauce which has been seasoned highly with pepper, salt and a few pinches of mustard, sprinkle with bread or cracker crumbs, dotted with butter, and brown gently in the oven.

"I know a way," said the bright girl, "of doing away with all this Christmas rush which crowds the mails and works every one to death for weeks before, and days after the great holiday."

She always has something original to offer and so I prepared to listen with attention.

"Let us have a different Christmas in every State. Then the people who declare themselves as opposed to the giving of presents could migrate to an adjoining State and avoid all bother, while those who are particularly enthusiastic might spend several Christmases, by changing habitation in order to catch the celebration as it passed from State to State."

There would be some revelations under this regime, I imagine. In all probability, the grouch who mumbles that he cares nothing for the day, would be the first to hasten home to the State where it was under observation, and it is just possible that he who at present makes the most fuss about the holiday might take pains to avoid it.

One could doubtless save the price of transportation by utilizing the bargain sales in the purchase of gifts for the next State.

Just imagine, for instance, that you were a resident of Arizona and that State would celebrate its Christmas next week, what bargains you could find on our Broadway with which to fill the Arizona stockings.

Half Price.

I could but wonder how early "the stores" arise on the morning after Christmas, for they must have been up betimes, in order to distribute all those "half price" signs around.

In one house, especially, it seemed as though nearly all the Christmas goods were marked thus.

And Silks.

In another place it was silks which bore the "signs of the times." Counter after counter had placards declaring dividends to customers in the way of cents per yard changes instead of dollars.

I don't know how so many people managed to get around so early to take advantage of the opportunities, but they were there, almost as thickly as the day before Christmas.

For Next Year.

I met one of the girls yesterday who had her arms just filled with packages and to my greeting that she must be acting the part of a belated Santa Claus, she replied: "Quite the contrary. I am acting as next year's Santa Claus; these are boxes—" "So, I should judge by their contour—" "But I mean that they are empty boxes. I could not resist the opportunity to buy, for a fraction of the pre-Christmas price, enough boxes to send all my next's year's gifts. In one store, especially, I found a great collection of pretty boxes, which I got for very little. You see, one often wishes to send something during the year, also, and any sort of gift looks so much better when well-boxed, that I always keep a few pretty boxes on hand." "That's all right," I said, "if you have storage capacity, but how about those people who live in flats or apartments?" "Well," she replied, nothing daunted, "it would almost pay them to pay storage on the boxes until they need them, for it is not alone that they cost more at the rush time, but they are so difficult to find."

The Morning After.

"Mother," said a little girl who had learned a "piece" which all have at some time known, "I think that ought to be: 'It was the morning after Christmas and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.'"

Pre-Inventory.

That is the name by which some of the bargain-selling campaigns are known, in some of the big stores; but whatever the name, or whatever the purpose, the result is the same—an elongation of the capacity of the Christmas gift money.

Now, really, with all due deference to the gift selected by members of your own family who know your taste—isn't it fun to go and buy your own gift, the day or the week after Christmas? You know what you want, better even than does your own sister or mother, and think how much more those dollars buy the day after than the day before Christmas.

Those Ribbons.

"I am buying them and shall put them away for use in making next year's Christmas gifts," said a woman beside me at the ribbon counter in one of the popular stores. "Look at this, and at that"—and she held toward me ribbons in white satin brocades and in flowered marquisettes—ribbons marked almost into the second-dollar class, in regular stock and on sale for but little over a quarter of a dollar. Irresistable they were in beauty and intrinsic value. Then she added: "Unless you wish to feel just compelled to buy, you'd better get out of this store as fast as you can, for I never saw such bargains as are offered here today." And I staid long enough to learn that she was right.

After-Christmas Merriment.

"I think it almost as much fun seeing the other girls' gifts, during Christmas week," said one of the girls, "as it is to receive one's own presents."

It is a delightful pleasure and a most unselfish one, too, that of helping each other "dote" upon what the glad season has brought.

Deferred.

I know one family which has a fashion of celebrating their Christmas in rather a novel way. They defer the celebration, in fact, and thus take advantage of the after-Christmas prices. "We have not an overabundance to spend," said the head of the house, "and, wife is a very sensible woman, so she devised this plan of making the family Christmas money go farther." They make out lists before Christmas and fill them after the prices go down to the greatest bargain ebb.

Fashions for Winter.

Most chic of the moment is canary-colored furs.

SURVEY IS UPHELD.

Railroad Wins Case on Appeal to Supreme Court—Oil Company Must Pay Back Rents.

In the case brought by the Southern Pacific Railroad against the Jackson Oil Company, the Supreme Court has reversed the Superior Court of this county and found for the railroad. The action involved the survey of land patented to the railroad by the government.

The land involved was a quarter-section of section 11, and the point was whether the land was to be understood according to the survey in effect when the company applied to select the lands or the survey in force at the time the patent was issued. The court holds that the latter, known as the Carpenter survey, will rule, and in that case the land belongs to the railroad company.

The court also holds that the government by its highest officials having declared the title to be in the hands of the plaintiff, there is nothing to do but follow that ruling. The railroad sued for possession of the land and the rents accruing since the Jackson Oil Company secured the property, and it is said the aggregate amount to be paid by the defendant will be large.

Rare Restoration Day Souvenir Sheet

UNIQUE—HISTORIC—STRIKING—BEAUTIFUL

"THE TIMES" FOLIO DE LUXE

This special Souvenir Sheet of The Times, consisting of eight pages only, and constituting a folio de luxe, followed "The Restoration-Day Number." All the pages and also the cover were specially designed and prepared for this exceptional, artistic and brilliant typographical issue.

The striking cover speaks for itself.

Altogether a notable and exceptionally interesting journalistic production, in the form of a pictorial anniversary or souvenir number. The aim has been to make the issue handsome, historic and unique—the equal in contents, typography, and illustration of any sheet that ever came out of a daily newspaper office anywhere. It does not boast of its bulk, but of its beauty.

The Souvenir Sheet is not to be distributed with any regular edition of The Times.

It makes an admirable, inexpensive present for a friend, near or far, the like of which was never seen; and it tells about very notable events, peculiarly interesting both at home and abroad.

AN ACTUAL PLOT.

Two Indians were arrested and a party of cowboys put to flight by officers near a local motion-picture studio. There is nothing like realism for tone in the Thespian art.

GETS OFF LIGHT.

A judge at Riverside sentenced a man to spend eight years on his brother's ranch. If we are to believe sacred history poor old Jacob was obliged to spend fourteen years on the ranch of a stranger and then had to marry both of his daughters.

A SHINING TREASURE.

Of all that Los Angeles does for Christmas nothing is more lovely than the white hyacinths which the florists of this city always have in bloom for the great day. The white hyacinth breathes a joy so pure that it speaks of the best that life can hold.

MERRY MUSIC.

The Y.M.C.A. at Washington has forbidden the singing and playing of certain popular airs, the secretary holding that the moral tone of this music is retrograding. He might have come nearer the point had he declared it to be absent. "Mother, mother, mother, pin a rose on me."

BETTER THAN ALL.

New York and San Francisco gave immense out-of-door Christmas trees to the children of those cities. We doubt if there is a city in America where the children of the poor are given such a rich and practical Christmas as those of Los Angeles, but if this sunny metropolis ever cares to try the out-of-door plan it can beat the world for an ideal celebration of that character.

THE STRONGEST MAN.

Apropos of nothing at all we are minded to say that the late Mr. Hercules was and still is a much misunderstood genius. His great physical prowess is always the subject of comment in any memoir of him, whereas a study of his twelve great feats shows that his strength lay in his plan of action much more than in what he did. He simply knew the power of thought and put it to work.

UNWISE.

It is a shame that Jack Johnson and other wealthy negroes should try to inflame race prejudice by a concerted effort to buy property in fashionable districts in order to force the white people to buy them out at an exorbitant price. This is bitter blackmail and we mean no pun. It is monstrously unfair to the colored people of this nation that members of their own race should attempt to commercialize bad feeling.

G.A.R. ENTERTAINMENT.

This evening at Mammoth Hall, 517 South Broadway, Stanton Woman's Relief Corps will give a reception, literary and musical entertainment to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic and their friends. Prof. Benjamin Scovell has generously tendered his services and will read his masterpiece, "A Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens. Mr. A. A. Macurda will give a tenor solo, his sons will render an instrumental duet with Miss Vreda Ellmore at the piano. Mrs. Fredprick J. Cressey, patriotic instructor of the corps, will preside.

AN IMPOSSIBLE PERSON.

Naughty Elinor Glin has written another book which she calls "His Hour" and which certainly is not worth an hour from anybody else. Some books unworthy of criticism receive attention in order that the public may be warned. Like her "Three Weeks" this story is supposed to be Russian in atmosphere. Russian literature, however, always has purpose and is direct in treatment. It deals with startling particulars in a wonderfully clear way. Consequently when an outsider attempts the Russian flavor the result is generally flat. Elinor's new book makes the single point that beauty of character will eventually conquer a wild, abrupt and vicious nature in an associate, but it compels one to wade through too many dank weeds in order to cull this single flower.

UP TO THE MINUTE.

Probably the reader has heard about Pompeii being destroyed. The Associated Press dispatches have had nothing about this catastrophe for at least a week, but Pompeii is still in ruins in spite of this neglect, and we expect another flash about conditions there at any minute. Pompeii is really the livest ghost of a city which the world at present entertains, and we do not blame it for making a big noise at every opportunity. The latest discoveries among its ruins reveal the facts that it had a strictly up-to-date water system with private bath and modern plumbing, that its physicians had instruments for an advanced surgery and that its doors had locks and keys stronger, yet more delicately intricate, than anything at present in use. Pompeii is a dead city, but we don't know of a better place for a live inventor to go for the study of mechanics.

In some parts of the country during the deer season hunters wear red clothing in order to avoid being shot by reckless people, but the Turks would hardly recommend that color. They have had mighty poor luck with it.

MURDEROUS STRIKERS.

The particulars of the so-called "riot" at Edgewater, N. J., on the 11th of December, when two men were killed and several policemen and strike-breakers severely injured, are now being given in the New Jersey journals.

It was not a riot at all. It was not a contest growing out of hot blood. It was a deliberately-planned assault and murder, executed in cold blood at the institution and under the direction of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The men working for the transportation company "struck." That is to say, they quit work because the company declined to submit to their demands. In so doing they acted within their rights. The company proceeded to hire other men to take the places of the strikers. In so doing it acted clearly within its rights. To protect its new workmen against violence the company employed a posse of police and guards, as it was not only its right but its duty to do.

The striking workman, acting under the advice of such leaders as the cockney Gompers and the anarchist Haywood, resolved among themselves that they, and they alone, had an inalienable, God-given right to work for the transportation company for such wages and under such conditions as they might from time to time prescribe. They resolved that any attempt of the transportation company to deny or disregard this assumed right should be promptly met by an armed force. On being advised that the company had employed a force of strike-breakers and guards they assumed that by so doing the company had declared an industrial war, and that its aggressions upon the sacred right of organized laborers to prevent unorganized laborers from earning their bread should be promptly and secretly met.

Thereupon the strikers organized and armed a force of 200 men, who marched swiftly and secretly upon the incoming laborers and their guards, taking them by surprise. They murdered two men and severely injured a number of others.

"The strikers," says the Washington Star, "were well armed and had planned their attack carefully, taking completely by surprise the guards who were escorting the strike-breakers. The onset was murderously conceived and executed. This was no riot of 'sympathizers,' no melee precipitated by chance, but a deliberate resistance of the right of the transportation company to hire workers."

The sinister influence of the Industrial Workers of the World appeared in this affair. The preachings of Haywood and other leaders in such malevolent movements, and all movements of this character subversive of order and defiant of law, are encouraged by those who clamor against "government by injunction."

AN ART OUTBREAK.

Radicals are always fighting among themselves, which is one reason why they do not get anywhere. The newest fight in radical thought is in art. The Secession school of Berlin has discovered that it has no use for the Cubists of Paris. As departures from the beaten path both seem interested, yet we think of neither as independent of the old school which they scorn. The Cubist sees everything square and wants to paint in straight hard lines after the art of Egypt and Archaic Greece. There is both method and loveliness in the system, while the Secessionist is rather shocking in his results. He has decided that the old school paints things as it does merely out of respect for precedent. He insists that art is foolish to limit itself to a blue sky, and that the artist has a perfect right to paint green skies or red ones if he feels that way. He thinks it is silly to always represent foliage as green when there is just as much yellow about some treetops as there is verdure. Consequently one meets with green skies and yellow trees in the Secession school, which would not be so bad if they stopped there, but they do not. The Secessionist, alas, has discovered that some persons have slatternly figures and he refuses to paint nicely upholstered persons in order to be perfectly truthful about the scrawny ones. He is also convinced that in some places one is more likely to find a baboon than a lovely young woman and consequently he paints the monkey without even trying to make it a beautiful monkey. Everyone is willing to admit that the world contains much that is unlovely and sordid, but it seems entirely unnecessary to have this emphasized by those who should be our idealists. An ugly person is interested in something else besides looking in a mirror. We have not been called upon to settle this dispute, but as a voluntary referee we refuse to call the fight a draw and wish to give a decision to the Cubists.

AN ENORMOUS BUSINESS.

The tobacco corporation has hundreds of retail shops scattered over the States. It recently made public the fact that in one day its sales over its counters amounted to $510,500. This in a year would be $186,332,500, or an expenditure for cigars and tobacco of more than $2 per annum for every man, woman and child in the United States. The amount is probably not excessive, but the fact that this great business is done by one corporation is illustrative of the commercial tendencies of the times.

There is necessarily an enormous concentration of capital and lodgement of power in the hands of a corporation doing this amount of business. But it does not appear that the power has been abused or that excessive profits have been exacted. The profits have been disbursed as dividends among thousands or tens of thousands of shareholders. The price of cigars and tobacco is no greater than before. The quality of the goods has not deteriorated, and no attempt seems to have been made to exclude from the business of keeping a cigar stand any person whose inclinations led him in such business.

Such a monopoly would not be possible in staple articles of food such as any farmer produces, nor [illegible] in clothing which any tailor can make. It is possible, but only locally possible, in fuel, in light and in power.

The production of tobacco is confined to a few localities and it is not difficult for a great corporation to secure a monopoly of the tobacco grown by paying more than any small manufacturer could afford to pay. A great company can manufacture the tobacco and distribute it cheaper than any individual or small corporation could do, and the result is the enormous business described. The consumer pays less for his cigar than he formerly did. The men and girls working in the tobacco factories receive as high wages as were formerly paid, and the people conducting the cigar stands earn as much as they ever did.

This is one instance of the beneficent operations of a trust. Against it there may probably be adduced instances that are not beneficent in their workings, either to consumers or workers.

A VIRTUOUS POSTMASTER.

Postmasters sometimes receive letters enclosing an addressed and stamped letter with a request to mail it. The object of course being to make the addressee of the letter believe that its sender is in the town from whence the letter is mailed, when in truth he is somewhere else where he probably ought not to be.

The postmasters in many places being unwilling to be parties to this kind of deception are posting such letters with a printed slip pasted thereon saying: "This letter was received at this office from such a place—with a request to mail it here."

The postmaster at a Southern California town recently received a letter directed to a lady in Kansas City saying: "Please mail this letter at your town. My wife thinks I am there looking for an investment in an orange orchard. In fact I am here in El Paso having a Guy Eddie symposium with the prettiest yellow-haired chorus girl that ever you saw. If any letters arrive for me at your office please remail to enclosed address at El Paso. I send herewith $5 to pay you for your trouble."

If it had not been for the $5 the postmaster might possibly have accommodated his correspondent. But the attempt to bribe him with $5 to commit an outrage worth at least $50 angered him and he enclosed the El Paso man's letter, $5 and all, to the wife in Kansas City.

He had no opportunity to forward any letters from the wife, for that lady took the first train to El Paso and when she arrived and found her husband and his companion, the companion emerged from the meeting with traces of finger nails upon her beautiful cheeks, and the husband had less hair upon his head. No divorce was on the tapis, but there were large expenditures for sticking plaster and hair restorer.

A PLEA FOR MOBILIZATION.

Gen. Leonard Wood has contributed an able and interesting paper on the military situation in the United States. He holds that we are utterly unprepared for war with any first-class power should war unhappily be forced upon us, and he urges the necessity of creating a military reserve to form at least the nucleus of an army in case the necessity for one should arise.

He calls attention to the undoubted fact that we have never had a war with an adversary on anything like terms of equality. Spain was as unprepared as we were fourteen years ago and had not a tithe of our resources from which to create an army and navy. Mexico was almost as inferior to us in military resources in 1846 as she is now. In the War of 1812-15 with Great Britain our adversary was engaged in a gigantic struggle with Napoleon. We did not win all the land battles, and but for Jackson's victory at New Orleans the war might have resulted disastrously to us. Even in our revolutionary war we were largely indebted for our success to the aid given, in men and money, by France, and to the fact that England was engaged in a European war.

The Civil War was one in which both sides were equally unprepared at the outset, and in which therefore there were no advantages accruing to either side from the unpreparedness of the other.

"It did," says Gen. Wood, "result in one thing, however. It gave us an unorganized reserve of from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 men trained in the best of all schools—the school of war. This reserve we thought little about at the time, but it formed a most valuable military asset for approximately twenty years after the war. In other words, we had during this period in the population a sufficient number of trained men to fill up our army and form so strong a volunteer force that any country would have hesitated to engage in war with us."

Gen. Wood calls attention to the fact that this condition has entirely passed away. The responsibilities of the country have greatly increased, owning or holding territory in various parts of the world, and the liabilities of war have been greatly increased; but we have made no adequate preparations to meet them, and until recently no legislative attempt has been made to provide for building up a reserve. Undeveloped military resources are about as valuable in the crisis of sudden war as would be undeveloped gold mines in a Wall street crisis.

Gen. Wood suggests that, in the event of war with a first-class power, it would be necessary to mobilize 800,000 men. Our regular army consists of but 60,000 men and one-third of these are coast artillery unmobilized in fortifications. The militia could not furnish more than 80,000 well-instructed troops, and we would have to raise 450,000 men and 15,000 officers.

Something," says Gen Wood, "must be done in time of peace. It is folly to drift along lacking the moral courage to face the problem squarely and prepare to meet it in a rational manner. Throwing it aside with the declaration that there will be no more war, or if war comes somehow or other, we don't know how, we will get through it successfully, is an ostrich-like policy, little in keeping with the intelligence of our people."

Gen. Wood does not make a plea for universal military service such as exists in some European countries. He suggests that reasonable and intelligent preparation for war will be one of the strongest guarantees for peace. He suggests further, "that a short period of military instruction, with its resulting increased respect for the flag, the constituted authorities and inevitable better observance of law and order, and the economic efficiency which would result therefrom would tend to the general betterment and strengthening of the nation."

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

You are merely storing sorrow for the future, sages say, if you put off till tomorrow things which should be done today. When there is a job unpleasant that it's up to me to do, I attack it in the present, give a whoop and push it through; then my mind is free from troubles, and I sit before the fire popping corn or blowing bubbles, or a-whanging at my lyre. If I said: "There is no hurry—that old job will do next week," there would be a constant worry making my old brain-pan creak. For a man knows no enjoyment resting at the close of day, if he knows that some employment is neglected in that way. There is nothing more consoling at the setting of the sun, when the evening bells are tolling, than the sense of duty done. And that solace cometh never to the man of backbone weak who postpones all sane endeavor till the middle of next week. Let us then be up and doing, with a heart for any fate, as the poet said, when shooing agents from his garden gate. Let us shake ourselves and borrow wisdom from the poet's lay; leaving nothing for tomorrow, doing all our chores today!

ONE OF THEM.

BY LILLIAN COLLINS.

The husbands, I mean.

You see, girls, one of them has come to our rescue, so I dedicate this screed to him.

Our sordid problem of the high cost of living has been solved for us. No longer shall we lie awake at night staring despairfully into the chilly darkness, wondering how we shall be able to pay porterhouse prices for chuck steak and still provide a vegetable or two with which to decorate the discouraging white expanse of table linen.

Of course, it was a man who found the way. You or I, dear women-folk, could never possibly have achieved the remarkable result. With all our pride of sex, we're still a little handicapped in the matter of courage—and it took courage of the real pioneer kind to blaze this trail.

The story was all told, with the most intimate recital of facts, in a recent magazine article written by "A Husband."

I'm glad I chanced upon that article. I'd be sorry to have missed it. I wish I might quote more fully from it, but the man's idea was so startlingly original that he had it copyrighted; so I am permitted to give you only a taste. If you want more it will cost you—15 cents, I believe.

When "husband" found that the problem of household supply and demand was becoming too complex for his wife to deal with unaided he turned the X-ray of his business brain into the home and discovered—

Patience? You're all going to share in the joy of his discovery.

First he tinkered a little with the gas bill but that, of course, was a mere preliminary, and the gas bill didn't mind it a bit. It didn't even know he'd been around.

Then husband instituted a rigid investigation of every housekeeping department. He found things pretty ship-shape, for the little woman had been a provident housewife and a careful manager. Husband rubbed his nose reflectively and did some quick action thinking.

"Lead us not into temptation," he softly prayed, as he deftly extracted the greedy little bulbs from the electric light fixtures and installed a nice, serviceable oil lamp on the reading table.

Having thus effectively adjusted the housekeeping department on a satisfactory scale of minimum expense and maximum service, husband directed his attention to wife's personal expenses. It didn't take long to go through this budget. Husband saw at a glance that wife's allowance for dress couldn't well be shaved any closer without abrading the skin. So he passed on, a bit hurriedly, to his own expense account.

He took one fling at the tobacco trust in passing, and cut down his midday lunches from 50 to 40 cents per. Then he relates with engaging naivete that he always had a barber shave him twice a week. (Do you get that, girls? Twice a week!) But he stopped that and saved $15 a year. Also he withdrew his patronage in the matter of hair shampoos and retrieved another eight bones annually from the barber's greedy clutch.

I wonder what the barber thinks about the high cost of living, don't you?

But there was nothing very remarkable in all this. It wasn't even distinctly original. When people start out to investigate the cost of living the very first thing they always do is to grow a garden, or plant a crop of some kind; so why not a crop of whiskers?

But husband wasn't quite satisfied with his investigation. It didn't seem quite adequate, somehow. He checked up the items patiently, and then went over them again methodically, and totaled the columns accurately; but his balance sheet showed him to the good only in the aggregate of one harvest of whiskers and one oil lamp.

It was a most embarrassing position for a husband to be in. Wife was meekly waiting to be shown and he'd got to show her. He removed his glasses and cleared his throat.

A gurgle of baby laughter broke into his thought. His little daughter was happily playing with her blocks upon the carpet. Husband watched the pretty creature for a moment and then inspiration illumined his understanding—the great idea was born.

"A half-pint every other day."

"Dairy products are pretty high just now, are they not?"

"Indeed they are," the patient little woman sighed.

"Exactly, just as I thought," husband beamed expansively. I knew it wouldn't take me long to put you right. Hereafter you will pour the cream from Margaret's milk for our coffee and dispense with the extra half-pint."

What do you think of husband's solution, dear women? Isn't it a stunner? Wasn't I right in saying only a man could have found it?

Poor little Brighteyes, cooing to her blocks!

A DUTCH CONCEPT.

"Would some power the giftie of language give us to tell you how others see us."

The following is a translation of part of an essay in a Dutch periodical:

"Los Angeles is a beautiful and exceedingly fast growing city. In fact, the growth of the city became so unprecedentedly furious that the directly available supply of drinking water would soon be insufficient.

"About 200 miles northeast from the town is the Sierra Nevada; high mountains always capped with snow.

"Tapping this mountain for the beautiful, pure liquid snow is conducted, through cement tunnels, 200 miles across a desert. The force with which this water arrived within the city limits (the height of the mountains has above been referred to) made it unavailable for drinking purposes. It acting in the housewife's kitchen sink like the proverbial bull in the china shop. It became thus expedient to tame this turbulent stream. And as Americans are utilitarians and materialists; as it could not for a moment be considered to allow this so necessary fluid to expend its superfluous energy in play, means were devised to give it a task that would pay.

"A synopsis of the previous chapters of the career of the drinking water in Los Angeles:

"Transported across a desert toward the city.

"Upon showing exuberance of spirits and superfluous energy, was set to work manufacturing electricity.

"Finally arrived in the beautiful metropolis of Southern California—fit for culinary and drinking purposes—after having created electricity and fertility, lighted the city and the homes and propelled the street cars.

The Return.

OVERALL WANTS TO PLAY AGAIN.

Going After the National Commission Today.

Would Not Work for Murphy Who Fired Chance.

Did Not Jump Contract but Refused to Report.

BY GREY OLIVER.

"I'm going after the National Commission tomorrow, good and strong," declared Orvie Overall yesterday on Spring street.

"I intend to telegraph that august body, asking just where I stand in the baseball business, for I want to know before New Year's."

This is no boob that is making this noise, but the famous pitcher, "Boomer" Overall of the Chicago Cubs, who jumped his reserve at the end of the 1910 season and has since refused to report, because he declares he will not work for Charley Murphy, the Cub team owner who fired Frank Chance and then sold him to Cincinnati for $1500, about one-twentieth of what Chance is said to be worth.

"I want to play ball next season," vehemently declared Overall during the conversation yesterday, "and as soon as I can get a ruling from the National Commission, I'll know what to do. I had a contract with Murphy, but it expired at the end of the 1910 season and I did not report last year. I did not jump my contract like Chase did, but simply refused to report, like Mike Donlin and a score of others.

"Hap Hogan of the Vernon team offered Murphy $5000 for my release so I could play with the Vernon team, but Murphy would not take the money. He did not need the money and I guess he refused this offer just so I could not play baseball except with the Cubs.

"Now, I intend to telegraph the National Commission and see if it cannot force my release from Murphy. I would not play with Chicago for any money, but I want to know why I cannot play ball in some other city. I intend to play ball next season with some big league club and I want to know why I cannot be allowed to.

"Herrmann of the National Commission is a good friend of mine and I am acquainted with Ban Johnson, and I want to find out why I cannot play, if they will not allow me to. I think I have several years of good baseball in me yet, and my pitching here this winter shows me that my arm is all right.

"Right now, I don't know where I could play ball, but I think I would not have any trouble in getting a berth if I could get my release from Murphy. I think I could go to the New York Americans with Chance, if he becomes manager there.

"Has he made you any proposition?" I inquired.

"No, not yet," replied Overall," for he does not know that he will go to New York. Chance has always treated me very well and I would like to play for him, if he and I can get back into baseball. He is a good man, and a great leader.

"You can put it down for me that I am going to address the National Commission Friday by telegraph, for I want to play ball next year and I want to know why I cannot. I believe the commission will do me justice."

ATTRACTIVE CARD TO BE STAGED TONIGHT.

Harry Gilmore has arranged an attractive boxing card to be staged at his Venice club tonight. He regards it as one of the best, taken from top to bottom, that has yet been put on, and finds it difficult to pick out any one bout that could be billed as a main event, without doing an injustice to the others.

He has simplified the problem a bit by arranging a double wind-up. In this, Charley Woods will box Johnny Schneider, and Charley Ormstead will try conclusions with Stanley Yoakum, lightweight champion of Colorado.

"Dude" Clark, the Cleveland scrapper, will meet Phil Donovan of Redondo. George Kilgroe will exchange punches with Harry La Plant. Jimmy Crossman will box Kid Jackson, and a young man answering to the classic name of "Toad" Schwenck will endeavor to muss one, Al King.

TO SELECT CAMP.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago National club went to Florida today to select a training camp for his club. Arrangements have been made, it was announced, for the team to play between thirty and thirty-five exhibition games on its trip northward.

ROGER BRESNAHAN MAY JOIN THE CUBS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Roger Bresnahan, "canned" leader of the St. Louis Cardinals, is to be with the Chicago Cubs when the season opens.

This was practically made a certainty today when President Murphy called Bresnahan on the long-distance 'phone, named his final terms and then announced that the one-time star catcher was sure to be the working mate with Jimmie Archer next spring.

The contract that is awaiting his signature calls for a salary of $6500 a year for a term of three seasons.

I FEEL CERTAIN RITCHIE WILL MEET ME JULY 4—WOLGAST.

THAT Willie Ritchie will defend his title against Ad Wolgast on July 4 is regarded as almost certain by the writer.

"I feel convinced in my own mind that Ritchie will do me the favor of a return match," said Wolgast last night. "I have endeavored to treat him fairly, and I believe that he is inclined to deal with me in the same manner.

"I am not trying to rush him. Any man who has gone through the strain and excitement of a championship battle is entitled to a rest of six months, and I am willing to concede that to Ritchie. I feel so certain that he will meet me on July 4, that I am arranging all my plans to that end. In the meantime I will not engage in any decision fights. I may take on a couple of men in April, but neither of them will be for more than ten rounds. It will take a large purse to tempt me into the ring before July 4. If I should meet and defeat Ritchie, I will not hesitate to give him a return fight."

There can be no criticism of Wolgast's attitude. He is willing to let Ritchie reap the spoils that belong to the victor. Wolgast undoubtedly is entitled to the first chance at the title, and it is believed that Ritchie will take the same view of the situation.

A Breathing Spell.

RIVAL HEAVYWEIGHTS TAKE A DAY'S REST.

Palzer, Who Is Not Used to Strenuous Training, Indulges in a Long Chug-chug Ride—McCarty Is Forced to Ease Up in Order to Nurse His Injured Hand.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

BOTH camps were "dark" yesterday. McCarty continued to nurse his injured left hand, and Palzer permitted himself the indulgence of a day off for the first time since he started the grind out at Doyle's.

Palzer will be back on the job tomorrow. McCarty, it was announced by McCarney, probably will do no boxing today, but is expected to resume the gloves tomorrow.

Yesterday's outing was a boon for Palzer. This is the first siege of real training that he has undergone, and it has been in the nature of an ordeal by him. He sought surcease in a "joy ride," but it was of the safe, sane and conservative variety. Chaperoned by Al McCluskey, Ed Rowley, and the ever-vigilant Tom O'Rourke, Al "gasolined" to Pasadena, and then indulged himself in a spin along the Foothill boulevard.

Heretofore, Palzer has regarded a protracted period of training as an unnecessary formality. He has gone into the ring confident that he could beat his man by sheer strength, and he has generally accomplished his purpose. Three days have been the average length of his training travail. For some of his fights he has not so much as removed his coat until time to attire himself for the ring.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS.

Palzer did not train a day for Bombardier Wells, probably the most dangerous opponent he has yet encountered. Soon after the match with Wells was made, there was a breach in the relations between Palzer and O'Rourke, and Al was not at all certain that the fight would go through. Once he went on the road, but he overdid the matter, and the following day he found himself stiffened in the underpinning.

"Palzer was in no shape when he entered the ring," said O'Rourke. "For the average fighter to have faced Wells in his condition it would have been little less than suicide. But Palzer, in his strength and recuperative powers, is abnormal. Early in the first round, Palzer was putting. Wells caught his flush on the chin with his mouth open, and Palzer dropped for the count of seven.

"The crowd thought it was all over. But Palzer got to his feet. Wells measured the distance, and again floored him. This looked like the finishing touch. But Palzer was up before the count of ten, and he was fighting back at the gong.

"Palzer came up strong and full of fight in the second. He quickly turned the tide of battle, and in the third round stopped the Englishman. As I told Palzer floored Wells six times after being knocked down twice himself. His recuperative powers and his display of gameness on that occasion are almost without parallel among big men. Imagine a man being hit flush on the jaw twice by a boxer of the caliber of Bombardier Wells, and then knocking out his opponent in three rounds."

Therefore, the question naturally arises, what might not this Iowa person do to an opponent when properly trained for the occasion?

Corner No Place for Sympathy.

Ordinarily Billy McCarney is the mildest person imaginable, but when his man once gets in the ring he forgets all his gentleness.

According to Billy, a fighter's corner is no place for a friend or a relative.

"When you go behind a man to second him," said McCarney, "you want to leave your sympathies at home. Many an important fight has been won by the refusal to listen to a battered boxer's tale of woe between rounds. As much as I may feel for my man, I never openly sympathize with him. There are times in nearly every battle when a man has to be forced by the men behind him.

"In the Flynn-McCarty fight, Luther injured his hand as early as the fourth round. He imagined that it was broken. We convinced him that it wasn't, and kept him whaling away with it whenever he saw an effective opening. Sympathy for McCarty at that stage of the game might have lost him the battle. There are times when the gamest fighter that ever lived needs to be encouraged, if not actually forced."

Sharkey Needed Encouragement.

Tom O'Rourke recalls a similar incident in regard to Tom Sharkey. In Sharkey's twenty-five-round battle with Jeffries at Coney Island, one of the most desperate heavyweight engagements ever fought, Jeff broke a couple of the sailor's ribs.

From that time on every move of Sharkey's stood for real anguish, and he fought under a fearful handicap. Game man that he was Sharkey winced under the going, and would have made a one-handed fight out of it but for O'Rourke's forcing.

"I kept Sharkey pumping away at Jeffries with both hands all the time," said O'Rourke. "He didn't like it, but I realized that it was his only chance, and I guess Jeff will tell you that he didn't have an idle moment in twenty-five rounds. He probably will recollect that one of the busiest periods was when his right glove became unlaced and partly slipped from his hand. Jeffries tried several times to pull it back on, but Sharkey suddenly became doubly industrious, and Jeff had to let it go until the end of the round."

Called Jeff a Mexican.

When Sharkey reached the baths after the battle, he suddenly began syphoning the brine of sorrow.

"Your ribs hurting you, Tom?" soothingly inquired O'Rourke.

"No, it isn't that," wept the sailor, "I-I-a-a-was just thinking about that big Mexican from California gettin' all of that money."

Sharkey always referred to Jeffries as a Mexican. He pulled down $10,000, while Jeffries received $32,000.

Sharkey and O'Rourke have never become quite reconciled to that decision. The expected nothing worse than a draw.

"But I guess it turned out all right, after all," mused O'Rourke. "Sharkey would never have made a popular champion."

Sharkey Knocked Out Barry.

Al Palzer springs a good one about Sharkey's experience as a manager, and incidentally tells of a knockout which does not appear in Jim Barry's record.

It will be remembered that Sharkey once picked Barry to win the heavyweight championship, and had so much faith in the big fellow that he took him under his managerial wing.

"Sharkey brought Barry down to the gymnasium one day in New York to teach him a few things that he needed to learn," said Palzer. "Sharkey was trying to teach him a certain defense for a right to the jaw. Barry couldn't see it that way, and failed to follow instructions. After a time Sharkey got peevish, and pretty soon, whang, over went Sharkey's right to the jaw. He knocked his own 'white hope' stiff. 'There, I guess that will hold you for awhile,' gloated Sharkey as he left the gymnasium, leaving Barry in dreamland and minus a manager."

Record Ticket Sale.

Another local record went glimmering yesterday when the receipts from the sale of tickets for the McCarty-Palzer fight totaled $6000. The nearest approach to this was during the advance sale for the Wolgast-Rivers battle, when $3000 was raked into the coffers of the club in a single day.

Wedding or Funeral?

"Makes a noise like a wedding," suggested a friend, as Billy proudly displayed the drawing-room habiliments.

"Well, I'm not expecting anything like that," said McCarney, "but you know there is a possibility of Luther serving as an active pallbearer at Palzer's funeral."

Trott Promised Burns.

Sammy Trott at last seems to be in line for a job. The promise was given him yesterday that he will be given a match with Frankie Burns before the local club on January 27 providing that Frankie trims Harlem Tommy Murphy in San Francisco on New Year's Day. This will be one of two popular-priced shows to be staged by McCarey in January. The first will consist of a double main event between the sparring partners of the Palzer and McCarty camps on January 13. In this, McCluskey will mingle with Bull Young and Charley Horn will trade punches with Walter Monahan.

Clear-cut Issue.

FANS TIRED OF MERE PROMISES.

Ewing Will Have to Produce Goods Next Season.

Trouble Ahead if Seals Are Inferior to Oaks.

Management Still Has Faith in Old Twirlers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Within another month, probably, we will have another championship baseball team for the Seals.

Already there is talk of new pitching marvels. We will probably have the pennant won again a month before the squad goes into spring training at Boyes Springs.

We will hear of speed-burners coming from all parts of the country to join the camp. There will be talk of this man having won nineteen out of twenty-three games last season, and the other fellow knocking boards out of outfield fences.

No team was boosted more before the season opened than were the Seals last year. They were a bunch of little demons and it was only a question of how far behind they would leave the other teams in the race. Down at Paso Robles each man was a star and the management regretted that the entire squad could not be carried through the season. It was a shame to have to let any of them go.

The showing the locals made during the season disappointed the fans. But there will be the same talk right after the first of the year. The local management is after some great men, men who can be relied upon to bring a pennant to San Francisco.

FANS DEMAND REAL GOODS.

But Cal Ewing et al will have to do more than make promises this season. Right now the club is not in any too strong with the fans. All that talk of syndicate baseball did not help matters any. Ewing's connection with the Oakland club is still suspected and the Seals will have to be as well up in the race as the Oakland team to satisfy baseballdom here and do away with these rumors.

It is reported that the San Francisco club will have first pick of two or three pitchers that will be discarded by the White Sox after the latter have met the Coast League clubs at Paso Robles.

Comiskey has sixteen twirlers under reserve to the White Sox, and he will start cutting his squad after the first few practice games. Cal Ewing has been assured his pick of the discard.

Jimmy Callahan will look carefully over his twirlers before he lets a man go, and the chances will probably be comparatively slim of Ewing getting any better men than he has at present in the pitching department. And there are several of these old-timers on the local payroll who have about outlived their usefulness on the mound.

COULDN'T COME BACK.

One or two of them threatened all last season to get back into their best form, but that they did not is shown by the fact that the Seals were right down next to the bottom of the percentage column. The local management still seems to have confidence in the ability of these twirlers, and they will probably be right back in the firing line again next season.

New faces are what the fans want to see. They have had enough of the old stand-bys. The fans declare they have shown a willingness to patronize most any old kind of a ball team, and it is up to Ewing and his associates to give them a winning one.

GOVERNMENT AVIATION EXPERT TO ATTEND MEET

Capt. W. Irving Chambers, head of the United States Navy Aviation detachment, and one of the most eminent aeronautical experts in America, telegraphed yesterday to the headquarters of the aviation tournament to be held at Dominguez next month that he would come to Los Angeles in person to witness the flights and other features of the programme.

Capt. Chambers, who makes his headquarters at Washington, is one of the members of the newly appointed Aeronautical Commission which has been called into existence by President Taft. He will attend the Dominguez tournament on behalf of the navy, as well as a representative of the new commission.

It is probable that Capt. Chambers will order Lieut. Ellyson and Lieut. Rogers of his detachment to attend the tournament with their machines as aviator representatives of the navy. A number of the officers are working at San Diego in behalf of the navy as well as the army.

M'VEY BADLY BEATEN.

Sam Langford Scores a Knockout in the Thirteenth Round Over California Pugilist.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

Langford had the better of the fighting throughout the match. He severely punished McVey, who, however, made a plucky defense.

Langford began fighting fiercely in the first round, landing lefts and rights and driving McVey to the ropes. Only during the second and third rounds did McVey show any signs of equality and even then his punches did not worry Langford a great deal.

In the fourth round Langford floored McVey with an uppercut to the chin and from then on McVey simply tried to protect himself.

In the thirteenth round Langford again forced McVey to the ropes and landed lefts and rights on his face, causing him to fall, completely beaten.

AD AND NOLAN TO WRITE FOR "TIMES."

Ad Wolgast and Billy Nolan will tell The Times readers about the New Year's battle between Luther McCarty and Al Palzer for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Supplementing the regular staff of technical and descriptive writers at the ringside will be the former lightweight and the manager of Willie Ritchie, his greatest rival. This means that the event will be completely covered from every angle.

Wolgast will give his general impressions of the fight, explain the moves made by each man at every stage of the battle and explain just how the battle was won and lost.

Billy Nolan is without a peer as a judge of fights and fighters. He will see it all with the eye of a past master. Nothing will escape his attention from the slightest false move to the handling of the fighters in their corners.

Nolan and Wolgast will make a combination which is not only unique, but which is unbeatable.

RIVERS NOW IN NEW YORK.

MEXICAN LIGHTWEIGHT IS ON BIG BROADWAY.

Little Joe, the Fighter, and Big Joe, His Manager, Boost for Los Angeles in Streets of Gotham. California Boy Has Ambition to Meet Willie Ritchie.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Looking in good condition, Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight arrived here today from Los Angeles accompanied by his manager.

Rivers is matched to meet Leach Cross in a ten-round bout at the Empire A. C., January 3 for which he is guaranteed the large sum of $4000. This is to be Rivers's first appearance in a contest in this city.

The McMahon brothers who are staging the bout met Rivers and brought him to Rye Beach where he is to train.

BOTH JOES BOOSTERS.

Manager Levy had this to say of Los Angeles:

"Los Angeles is the greatest city on earth. There is such a bunch of good fellows out there one feels just when he gets away. The city is good enough for me. It is to be my future home. I want to go on record as a booster for the city."

"Los Angeles for me," said Rivers. "We have made $12,000 in the past three months. Chicago and New York have many sights but Los Angeles looks the best."

Rivers says his ambition is to get a battle with Ritchie for the title as he is certain he will win.

SOLDIER'S MANAGER SLIPS ONE OVER.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Bob Clark, manager of Soldier Kearns, the heavyweight, put a nice one over on Jack McGuigan, the matchmaker of the National A.C. of Philadelphia. McGuigan had booked Kearns to fight Daniel Daly but as McGuigan only wanted to offer Clark $115 for his man, Clark sent word that he had decided not to allow Kearns to fight. McGuigan called Clark on the phone and asked him what he wanted for Kearns' service. "Give me $500 and I will let him fight," said Clark. "Bring him over," McGuigan replied and of course Clark got the $500.

HYLAND LOST TO BROWN.

CALGARY (Alberta) Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Pal Brown of Hibbing, Minn., was given the decision over Dick Hyland of California today after fifteen rounds of hard fighting. Until the fourteenth round honors were even and both men had been subjected to a terrific pounding.

PASADENA IS NO LONGER A FACTOR.

Everything points to Venice as the next home of the Vernon club.

Pasadena is no longer a factor, and as the Coast League directors show no inclination to rescind their action voting the team away from Vernon, Venice appears to be the surest haven.

"Pasadena failed to meet the bid made by Venice, and has been eliminated," said Hogan. "Personally, I would be satisfied to see the team remain in its present home, but a majority of the league directors prefer to see it elsewhere. I have been hoping that they would rescind their action, but the possibility of their doing so seems to grow less daily. It begins to look like Venice for us."

BATTLER MAY GET CHANCE.

Billy Nolan Eulogizes Nelson and Says That Ritchie Will Take Him on if Old War Horse Crosses Willie's Path in East—Al and Luther May Take Lay Off.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

DID you see in yesterday's papers that our old friend, Battling Nelson has challenged Willie Ritchie to box for the championship of the world?

Well, it is true. I saw Billy Nolan yesterday afternoon and laughingly mentioned the fact to Bill. To my surprise, a very serious look came over his face and he said:

"Battling Nelson was never more sincere in his life. In fact, everything that the Battler does is absolutely on the level."

"Well," said I, "what do you intend to do about it?"

"If the Battler challenges Ritchie while we are in the East, I will surely agree to give him a chance," said Bill.

"Nelson and I have been together for a long time, and I think he is the gamest man that ever lived, bar no man. We have had our differences, but I would be the last man in the world to deny him this chance.

"Mind you, I am not saying that the fight will ever take place but he will not be denied the chance to try as long as I am Willie Ritchie's manager."

Nolan was evidently sincere in his statement, but as Ritchie is bound to a contract to Nolan the chances are that the fight will never be pulled off. If Nolan agreed to match Willie with him Ritchie would refuse to meet Nelson unless Nolan was training and seconding him, and Nolan says he will never go against the Battler as long as he lives.

NOLAN'S COMPARISONS.

Nolan has a neighbor up in Lake county who is from Texas and is a good sport. One night last winter, when he had nothing to do, he took a ride over to Bill's ranch and they placed a big log on the fire and sat up until past midnight swapping stories and experiences.

The Texan was full of all kinds of sporting talk and said to Nolan that he had tried all kinds of sporting games and was a great admirer of the game ones.

He said, "I once trained two fighting bull dogs for a fight and starved them both for a week to make them show their true colors. When we put them into the ring, we also placed some meat in front of them. What do you think they did? Instead of starting fighting as I supposed they would do, they both made a bee line for the meat and began to eat it.

"I tried the same thing on two game cocks. I had them good and hungry and when we dropped them into the pit, I had already placed a lot of wheat in front of them.

"Instead of eating the wheat, they immediately made a rush at each other and fought it out to a finish.

"This was the gamest thing I ever saw in my life."

"No," said Nolan, "Battling Nelson is gamer than either."

This is the opinion that Billy Nolan has of Battling Nelson to this day.

BIG BOYS TAKE REST.

Both Luther McCarty and Al Palzer lay off yesterday afternoon and did no work. McCarty asserts he hurt his hand and Al says he needs a rest. Luther may be springing the old gag to affect the betting and Al may be springing the old stuff that he is all right for the same purpose. It is a cinch that McCarty does not require as much to get into condition as Palzer, and Al may have been working too much in too short a time to get right.

But don't let any one be fooled by any old-time tricks.

You fellows who are thinking of betting your money on either man, take the time and trouble to run out to the training quarters and take a good peep at both for yourselves. Then use your own judgment and you will have no one to blame if you lose.

A LIVE BUNCH.

The St. Joseph's Y.M.C. will hold a grand athletic benefit at its clubrooms on the night of January 2.

This is an enterprising amateur athletic club and is deserving of the patronage of all lovers of clean athletics.

Boxing, wrestling and gymnastics will be the principal features of the entertainment, offered by some of the cleverest amateurs in Southern California.

COUNTRY CLUB GOSSIP.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

IN THE Christmas golf tournament the first round matches were completed yesterday at the Annandale Country Club. Joseph Ball, the winner of the prize for the best qualifying round on Christmas Day, defeating A. A. French by 1 up.

Duncan won his match by default from W. C. Smith, George A. Weber winning from Paul F. Deiss under the same easy conditions. Dr. West Hughes defeated T. L. Merrill by 3 up and 2, and young Carlton Wright won his match from M. P. Mears by 2 up and 1.

An interesting match was that between Mrs. Scott Brown, who was allowed to enter the men's tournament, and E. P. Gates, the Southern California golf veteran. That Gates won by 6 up and 5 is delicate evidence of his tact and gallantry.

Charles H. Diggar defeated O. B. Carter by 4 and 2, and E. N. Wright won from Frank D. Tatum by default, thus completing the first flight matches.

In the second flight George H. Bentley won his match from Thomas Tavener by 1 up, and G. H. Curtis from O. F. Lindeman by 1 up. A hard-fought match was that between Benjamin Thaw and J. F. Taylor, in which the former won by 2 up in 27 holes. C. K. Alley drew a bye.

It is hoped to reach the semi-finals tomorrow, and the finals on Monday. After which the next event of importance will be the first league team match, when the Annandale team will visit the San Gabriel links.

There will be a dinner-dance at the Annandale Country Club on New Year's eve, and the usual rendezvous tea on the terrace tomorrow afternoon, when a pleasant surprise regarding the arrangements awaits the guests. The orchestra will be in attendance all the afternoon.

The San Gabriel Country Club.

George Cline is the first winner of the Christmas cup on the San Gabriel links, finishing all square with par on three-quarter handicap, i.e. six strokes.

The Christmas cup is a very handsome affair which must be thrice won for permanent ownership, but Cline now has a dainty replica.

Will Bacon was, however, only just spared the ignomy of having to return the cup to its rightful owner. It was nearly dark and there was some doubt as to whether any more players were to come in. His score of 1 down stood best on the sheet and he had just decided that he would take the cup right now and get the engraving done himself, when someone insisted upon seeing if those three dim figures in the distance were competitors in the match. They were and Cline was one of them. But Will Bacon took the second prize, and this makes the second he has won recently. He has taken to golf like a duck to water, and the fact that he came home in 75 yesterday will show what strides he has made in the game.

The scratch prize of the day was won by Humphrey Woodcock with 78—3 down to par, which is about his average play nowadays.

Frank Ainsworth was a near-winner of the second prize. It was snatched from his hungry grasp by Bacon when Cline walked off with the first. Ainsworth finished 2 down on 14 handicap, which is a marked improvement on his usual game.

The Thanksgiving Tournament.

In the meantime the Thanksgiving tournament has reached the semi-finals with the defeat of Harry Cole by Frank Wade.

This brings Wade and Silcox, and Lee Stephens and Dillon to the semi-finals.

Los Angeles Country Club.

The modest little sweepstake, match play against par, was certainly all that was necessary at Beverly on Christmas Day, for only ten good men and true turned up to participate.

The awful depressing effect of merry Yuletide on the un-Christian golfers who did go down is evidenced by the pathetic score with which E. H. Bagby won the afternoon sweepstake, 5 down and 4 handicap! Walter Cosby and George H. Schneider tied for second and third place with 6 down and 3 and 2 handicaps, respectively!

R. D. Lapham won the morning sweep with 1 up and 3 handicap. H. S. Brintnall and H. W. Keller tied for second and third with 2 down and 4 handicap. E. P. Scherer and R. D. Lapham went home at noon, but their places were filled by Phil Kitchen and K. K. Parrot, so the ranks never dropped below ten.

The choice score prize was won by George H. Schneider with 72, J. W. Wilson and E. H. Bagby getting a choice score of 76. The net score prize was also won by G. H. Schneider with 71, E. H. Bagby coming second with 72 and Cosby and Brintnall third with 75.

Near Giants.

KEARNS LARGE WILLARD GREAT

Feet Would Drag on Ground from Bronck's Back.

Vaulted Running Horses in Uncle Sam's Service.

Future Is as Promising as That of Others.

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Five feet ten and a half is a fair height for a man. But Soldier Kearns is going to look like a pigmy when he faces Jess Willard, who is six feet six.

They claim that Willard is a cow puncher. I'd like to see the broncho that could carry him without letting his feet drag. Even if he is a cow puncher he has nothing on the Soldier, who was one of Uncle Sam's best trick riders while in the army.

One of the Soldier's favorite feats was a vault that carried him over four running horses and dropped him astride the fifth. It's a good thing for the Soldier that he has this spring in his legs, otherwise, he would have a hard time reaching the giant's chin with that swinging left and right of his.

ONLY A CHANCE.

It's no sure thing that Willard would beat either McCarty or Palzer in a long fight, for they are both good men, each 6 feet 2½ inches tall and weighty in proportion.

Yet I am inclined to think the big cow puncher's future at least as promising as that of any other heavyweight. His natural advantage, height and weight and vastly superior reach, will probably count more and more as he leaves the novice class and becomes skillful as a boxer.

GREAT CONTRAST.

There will be contrast enough in this Willard-Kearns bout. Kearns is a bigger man than Tom Sharkey, a physical marvel. He is much more symmetrical than Sharkey, lighter below the knee than the famous sailor and several inches longer of arm.

That Kearns has a wallop good enough to be carried by any champion has been shown in some of his fights. He has won a number of one-round victories. Most sensational of course, was the quick way in which he knocked out "One-Round" Davis of Buffalo a week ago. Although Davis didn't have time to show what he could do, his record is proof enough that he has class.

If Kearns reaches Willard's chin with a clean punch he will bring him down. He will drop anybody he hits on the right spot. The question is whether or not he can reach the mark. Willard stands straight when fighting and pulls his head away by leaning back. This will make his body an easier target than his chin.

Classy Contest.

WHITES DEFEATED IN EXCELLENT POLO GAME.

BY BEATRICE BRYAN.

THE polo game on the field of the Pasadena club yesterday afternoon was unusually fast. Reggie Weiss, Carleton Burke and Dr. Malaby made some splendid strokes and both teams made their goals by good plays.

The score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Reds. The line up was: Reds—Robert Neustadt No. 1, Harry Weiss No. 2, Reggie Weiss No. 3, Carlton Burke back. The Whites—Dr. Malaby No. 1, John B. Miller, No. 2, John Hobbs No. 3, Dr. Boucher back.

Dr. Boucher left at the end of the second period and Teddy Miller took his place. The ponies were in fine condition.

John Hobbs tried out a green pony in the third period that he has just brought back from pasture. It looks like good material for a polo mount.

Frank J. Mackey refereed the game. Mackey said that the game was an exceedingly good one and that he had never seen finer ponies. He thinks that California ponies are the best mounts for polo and he intends to buy a string in time for the tournaments.

Mackey has taken a great many California ponies to England with him, and probably, more than any other man, is responsible for the popularity of the California pony abroad.

In speaking of the international game, Mackey said that the game will not be the ponies because each side will be evenly matched as to mounts, but that the winning of the cup will be decided by the players on the teams. Personally, he feels that England has the stronger team.

Mackey intends to remain in Los Angeles a few days longer and then go to Coronado for the opening of the season there.

A large crowd greeted the players yesterday and seemed to be very much interested in the game. Leigh Guyer was one of the spectators. It seemed strange to see him at a game and not see him playing. He has made quite a reputation for himself in local circles and plays very good polo.

Channing Wiley of Warrenton, Va., who recently joined the local polo colony, watched the game. He has been ill almost all the time he has been here so he hasn't played much polo. He hopes to get a string of ponies in shape for the tournaments, however.

Capt. J. Campbell Bailey also attended the game. The captain and Mr. Mackey came out together. Capt. Bailey returned to Coronado last night.

There is to be a game at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Interest is awakening in these games and the polo played in them is often better than that played in the big tournaments.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE DELEGATES IN SESSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Many of the representatives of colleges and universities which are to send delegates to the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting arrived today, expecting that the sessions which open tomorrow will bring out much that is interesting toward the solution of problems in college athletics.

The organization was formed in 1905 when the general antagonism against the American game of football prompted a general gathering of the athletic heads for a reformation.

It is believed that the development of the English game of association football will receive considerable discussion, as the game has been adopted by many colleges. Prof. O. W. Ehler of Wisconsin is to present a report showing that under the new rules football has had fewer fatalities this season than ever before.

CUTLER LOST TWO FALLS TO ZYBSZKO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Dec. 25.—Charles Cutler of Chicago, claimant to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, lost two successive falls to Zbyszko, the European champion, tonight.

The first fall came at the end of 1 hour and 12 minutes after both men had thrice tumbled out of the ring. What appeared to some of the spectators as a blow on the chin given by Zbyszko resulted in Cutler falling to the mat with the European on top, and the fall was given to Zbyszko. The second fall was secured in 13 minutes, 10 seconds, with a head-over-shoulders hold.

BAN JOHNSON LET JOINT SCHEDULE OUT.

[By Wireless Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] On his way from Chicago to Aiken, S. C., Ban Johnson let some one get a peek at the joint schedule for the season, and the cat is out of the bag.

For the first time in the history of baseball, the fans know the opening dates before the 1st of January. The season opens April 10.

The Secret.

PACKY HAS DEATHLY FEAR.

MAKING WEIGHT HASTENED THE DEATH OF GANS

McFarland's Refusal to Make Low Weight Has Cost Him Many Thousands of Dollars but He Is Afraid of the Scales and Wants to Forget the Weight.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] The secret of Packy McFarland's fear of the scales is told by Manager Thiery. By his persistent refusal to make a low weight the Chicago pugilist has sacrificed many thousands of dollars as well as much glory.

"The scales are the only things Packy fears," began the fighter's manager. "Joe Gans's case gave him this mortal fear. Joe, you know, was virtually killed by making weight—and he a champion—for his last fight with Battling Nelson.

ACCUSES NOLAN.

"Billy Nolan put that over. He made Gans concede to the most extraordinary demands ever made by a fighter. Joe was forced to weigh in three times the day of the fight—in the morning, noon and ringside. Thus he was kept from eating all day, while Nat weighed at ringside and was as strong as a horse.

"Result: It hastened Joe's death by the consumption route. Since then Packy has had a deadly fear of making weights. If I said, 'Packy, we will fight so and so at 150 pounds,' he would answer, 'Forget the weight, Emil; make it catchweights.'"

GEORGE DETER WINS HANDBALL TITLE.

George Deter won the class A handball championship of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday by defeating C. J. Harmer. The score was 21-19, 20-21, 21-20. Harmer held the lead in the last game up to the twentieth point, when Deter came up strong and grabbed the match.

The games were among the most closely contested that have been played on the "Y" courts. Deter will retain the perpetual challenge cup for one year.

The final matches in the B and C divisions are to be played early next month.

BLACK BOXERS AGAIN.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Joe Jeannette, colored, and Battling Jim Johnson, the 225-pound colored fighter of Tennessee, have been rematched. They were signed up today for the Irving A.C. of Brooklyn to meet in a ten-round go at a special show of the club on New Year's Day.

OFFER FOR SHECKARD.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, has offered the Chickago Nationals $40000 for Outfielder Jimmie Sheckard. Owner Murphy is considering the offer.

The Lovers Meet.

One of the situations enacted in a Pullman car in Rupert Hughes's lively farce, "Excuse Me," which will be seen at the Majestic Theater following "A Butterfly on the Wheel," with Willis P. Sweatnam in his original role of the porter. Below is Gloria Mayne, who will be a Republic feature next week.

BUSH LEAGUER BROKE FELIX MARTINKE'S JAW.

Felix Martinke, formerly right fielder for the Vernon team, had a bad accident Christmas Day at Santa Barbara, where some bush pitcher broke his jaw. Marty had turned his head to look at the catcher fixing his mask and the pitcher flung a fast one over and the ball hit Martinke on the jaw on the left side.

This accident will naturally keep Martinke out of baseball for some weeks and will also keep him away from the supper table for a time that he hates to think of.

NO RACING IN SIGHT FOR ARCADIA TRACK.

"I guess there's no racing in sight at Arcadia," murmured Jack Birdie, "and furthermore I do not think there will be any for some years. The present laws are too strong to allow any such thing. Unruh, Holland and the Baldwin heirs own the track and no one seems able to find out just what they intend to do with it.

"It has not been cut up into lots as yet and I suppose from this that they expect to do something later on."

MATTY MIUS MANAGER.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] Matty Baldwin, the lightweight of Boston, is at present without a manager. Baldwin parted from Alec McLean and is in the city looking for bouts. Baldwin claims that the reason he let McLean go was because the latter did not get enough fights for him.

KID DALTON IS STRONG FOR FOOTLIGHTS' GLARE.

"Me for the acting game, here-after," smilingly replied Kid Dalton yesterday in answer to a question as to how he liked the stage. You knew Dalton is a sparring partner with Ritchie and intends to go to San Diego next week with Willie.

"Say," laughed the Kid, "I like actin' a lot better than I do fightin'. But say, dis actin' haint as easy as some of you guys think."

"Pretty soft money, though, ain't it Kid," he was asked.

"Yes, but you gotta change your clothes and go on and spar and there's always a lot of guys a gawkin' at ya. But still you work just a little while and then beat it up the road."

MARKEY ENJOYED DOG BISCUITS.

"Rastin' these pugs come and grab a free lunch," smiled Paul Mullin, "reminds me think of Sharkey when he was training for one of his big fights before Jeff got at him.

"He was working on Coney Island and every day used to go into a lunchman's place and eat all the crackers on the lunch table, for he was nuts on crackers.

"One day Tim McGrath told the lunchman to put two-bits worth of biscuits on the table just before Markey came in, and, although the kid stood around and watched, Markey ate all the biscuits. He had been used to hard tack.

"The next day the Dutchman refused to regulate crackers, and when Markey saw these he tried to start a row, because he did not get his crackers with the meat in them. Funny things some of these pugs will do."

MARQUARD MAKING BIG SALARY NOISE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Dec. 26.—"I don't see why I should be asked to play with the Giants for $60,000 to play with the Giants next year," Rube Marquard announced here today, "and the sooner it gets that the better. I have no contract with the Giants, my last one expired at the close of the season. I have retired from baseball and I haven't made any definite plans for a raise next season.

"I am all right for the fans to talk and say McGraw paid $11,000 and kept me until I could deliver, but it he hadn't confidence that I could deliver I'd have been shipped to the minors quickly enough. I have never seen up things in the last few years."

MEG SHUGRUE GAVE LEONARD BEATING.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] A ten-rounded battle at the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club tonight was stopped just as they met in the center of the ring for the eighth round. Meg Shugrue of Jersey City and Willie Leonard of Philadelphia were dancing.

The fight was stopped by order of Frank P. Harvey, secretary of the State Athletic Commission. Realizing Leonard was all in and in no condition to continue he sent word to the referee not to send their man out for the eighth round. The order was received and Leonard, weak and groggy, responded to the bell. He reached the center of the ring and Corbett separated the men and assisted Leonard to his corner.

CHANGE IN FOOTBALL RULES IS ADVOCATED.

Walter McCormack, former Northwestern University coach, is advocating a change in the football rules for 1913.

McCormack urges that the goal after touchdown be kicked from scrimmage instead of by two men sent out to the twenty-yard line.

The former star gives many reasons for this, but chief among them is that it will increase the premium put upon team play and lessen the value of individual stars.

"Football is the only real team game in American sport," declared McCormack. "Every other sport in the catalogue is for the individual. Football alone is the game in which individuality must be sunk to strengthen the unit."

FLAMES DAMAGE RACING MACHINE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) Dec. 26.—Flying down Pacific Beach at terrific speed today, Bob Burman, with his 300 - horse - power Blitzen Benz wrapped in flames, climbed out of the seat and using his foot to push back his brake so as to stop the car, leaped out in front of the grand stand, and pushed his car into the ocean to smother the fire.

A broken gasoline line flooded the pan of the car and the muffler ignited it. The damage to the car is heavy.

Burman drove a sensational mile in the remarkable time of 28 flat. Poor pressure on his gasoline line cost him what he thought was several seconds, so he made another trial.

His flight towards the finish was spectacular. He was crossing the half-mile tape when a great burst of flame appeared and then with the car fully enveloped and careening wildly Burman was seen to stand up in his seat to avoid the fire. He was badly burned while driving at full speed. Gradually he brought the car to a stop right in front of the grand stand, where it was pushed into the water.

WON IN THE THIRD.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch to The Times by Wireless Line.] George "One Round" Davis stopped Jack (Twin) Sullivan here tonight in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout. Sullivan's right eye was closed, and the blood flowing from a cut above the eye blinded him.

HOW ONE LITTLE GIRL BEAT McCARTY.

Luther McCarty, who is touted as something of a lariat thrower, can be considered as a bum from now on, for a little girl showed him up a few days ago in a manner that is making Spring street laugh.

Lute went out to the Glendale moving picture concern the other day, where they make fake pictures for the movie houses along the line. Being known as a cowboy, he was asked to show a girl over in one of the camps how to twirl a lariat.

Accordingly, with a great deal of superiority, he walked over to the innocent-looking thing, and grasping a rope, started to twirl it and told her how to jerk it at a certain time in order to make it spin in a circle. He tried to show her, in a very clumsy manner, and she then showed him in a scientific way, how to spin a rope, and since then, if you want to get his goat, just ask him if he can spin a rope at Glendale.

SAYS DAN DALY HAS IT ON THEM ALL.

"You fellows here are talkin' a lot about your heavyweights you got in this town," remarked a street sport yesterday, "but you haven't seen some they have back East.

"Just think of Dan Daly, who knocked out Soldier Kearns the other night. Daly weighs about 270 pounds out of condition and 235 pounds in shape, and what he could do to these Palzers and McCartys might make some of youse guys sick."

FAST COCK FIGHT.

PLAINFIELD (Ct.) Dec. 25.—[By Wireless Line to The Times.] One of the most exciting cocking mains of recent years was held in the edge of West Greenwich, R. I., over the State line this morning. Many veteran lovers of the sport were present. Nine hotly-contested battles were fought, one between a Westerly, R.I., and Webster, Mass., bird lasting twenty minutes and causing the loss of several hundred dollars by the Rhode Island people. The last battle between Massachusetts and Connecticut birds was won by the Nutmeg State bird in sixteen minutes. Top weights three-quarters of a pound.

Tons Pronouns.

FOREIGN FOE AT RIVER: FOUND BANKS TOO STEEP.

STOUT THURMAN JACK of Fresno town, by the tin gods he swore, that the cue sharks of San Joaquin should suffer wrong no more. By the tin gods he swore it, and straightway sought affray in the city of Los Angeles, where men of skill do play.

He sought to see young C. S. See and ofttoon See he saw; he fell on handsome Bill Barnes and grazed his jaw. He called to Tripp of the Sucker State, "since fight we must and shall, do thou lay on for Illinois, and I'll lay on for California."

Then outspake Alf Mackenzie, as he stepped between the two, "Lo, I will stand on either hand and hold the bridge for you." And as the clans did gather, they fought each other all, breasting the deadly safety play and shooting ball-like ball.

Mackenzie passed the bridge and quoth: "This instrument is fine, but I'll hand it to a deputy while I keep these champs in line." Mackenzie waved his baton and nine began to play; the ladies doffed their headgear to keep the growls away.

Meanwhile both cue and elbow have manfully been plied, and now the score hangs tottering, wobbling toward either side. "Come back, you young phenomenons," loud was Mackenzie's call: "Back Lewis, Banks and Greer and See—back ere they take it all."

Back darted Banks and Greer and See; O'Brien darted back; they fell on all the foemen round, with many a deadly whack. But the prize was saved by Banks, not bridge; and when Jack goes home so proud, he'll enter at the biggest gate, borne by a joyous crowd.

And children oft, with rounded eyes, will in future years be told of how Mackenzie kept the bridge, in the brave days of old.

A sporting event which inspires the blase muse of a daily—including Sunday—newspaper, may be accepted as a hummer. Wherefore the preceding epic measures briefly indicate the satisfactory character of the pocket-billiard tournament which closed near Christmas morning enabling George Banks, Thurman Jack, Charles Tripp and H. J. O'Brien to carry away substantial gifts in the way of prizes, including the Southern California championship for Banks. The prizes were awarded to the men by Manager Mackenzie in the order named.

O'Brien won the tie game against Fortune for fourth place and prize by 75 to 72, the game having been shortened to the total named by previous agreement in order to close the tournament by midnight.

The final standing of all contestants is appended:

Player.	Place.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Banks	1	8	1	.889
Jack	2	7	2	.778
Tripp	3	6	3	.750
O'Brien	4	4	3	.667
Fortune	5	3	4	.556
See	6	2	6	.286
Greer	7	2	6	.250
Lewis	8	1	7	.125
Barnes	9	0	7	.000

PHILLIES WANT HOWLEY, "HAP" CAN HAVE "SPECK".

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the Philadelphia club of the National League is desirous of getting Dan Howley to add to its catching staff is shown in a letter received by Manager McCredie from Charlie Dooin, manager of the Phillies.

Dooin and the boss of the Beavers are friends of long standing and the missive was of a personal nature to a certain extent, but Dooin admitted that he would like to have Howley. He didn't hesitate to say so, although he made no offer of material for a trade.

Dooin said that he had a number of men whom he would be willing to swap for Howley, and the Portland boss will get into communication with him at once and find out what he has to offer.

McCredie had a conference with "Speck" Harkness today and the "speckled beauty" is willing to go to Vernon. It was a case of that or Seattle in the Northwestern League, and "Speck" chose the former.

McCredie has heard nothing from Hogan regarding his offer since returning from the meeting, but has been given to understand that "Hap" wants the former Cleveland hurler.

If Hogan's offer is a bona fide one he can secure "Speck" very reasonably, and the local management is waiting to hear from Hogan before closing the deal.

DATE SET FOR FIRST INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The first match between the American and English teams for the international polo trophy is to be played at Westbury, L. I., on June 16. The second game will be contested four days later.

Tale schedule was made public tonight in a letter from the American Polo Association to the British challengers. The date for the third game, if one is necessary, will be decided during the match.

M'INTOSH RETIRES IN FAVOR OF BAKER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SYDNEY (N. S. W.) Dec. 26.—Hugh McIntosh, the well-known fistic promoter who staged many important championship battles in this country, today announced that he had disposed of his interests in the pugilistic game to Snowy Baker, one of Australia's prominent boxing promoters. McIntosh will devote his whole time to the Tivoli Theatrical circuit. Baker purchased the stadium where all big fights are staged for $150,000.

After signing the papers Baker announced that he would immediately set to work and endeavor to bring the best English and American boxers to this country. He hopes to arrange a world's lightweight championship match and will offer champions in all divisions special inducements to come here.

WARRANT SWORN OUT BY FIGHTER'S WIFE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—Jim Griffin, who gave the decision which cost Ad Wolgast his title of lightweight champion of the world, is announced today as referee of the bout next Friday between "Gunboat" Smith, the California heavyweight, and Frank Moran of Pittsburgh.

On New Year's Day he is to pick the winner of the bout between "Harlem Tommy" Murphy and Frankie Burns, of Oakland. Murphy and Burns have agreed to weigh in at 135 pounds ringside.

A warrant charging Smith with abandonment and non-support has been sworn out by his wife, Elmore, and will be served after the fight. Under the California Penal Code, the offense constitutes a felony.

SWIMMING MARK MADE IN WILLAMETTE RIVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 26.—In one of the most thrilling and spectacular midwinter aquatic events ever held on the Pacific Coast, Johnnie McMurray, a stripling of 20, won the annual Christmas Day 100-yard swim in the Willamette River in 55 1-5 seconds, setting a new world's amateur mark. The mark set by McMurray is within 1 1-5 seconds of the world's professional record of 54 seconds, held by Healy of Australia, the world champion. The best previous amateur time made was negotiated by Louis Thomas.

The best mark ever set on the Pacific Coast waters was the record of 55 3-5 seconds, made at San Francisco by Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian swimmer, in the tournament held under the auspices of the Olympic races. In today's contest, Don Vickers of the Eugene Y.M.C.A., the only foreign entry in the aquatic Derby, finished second, trailing the leader by more than six yards and making the elapsed time of 1:02 1-5. Norman Ross, holder of the P.N.A. championships for 220 and 440 yards came in a strong third about two yards behind Vickers, in 1:09 4-5.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL COACH DEAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADISON (Wis.) Dec. 26.—John E. Moll, known in football circles as "Keckie" Moll, died at a hospital today, after a short illness from typhoid fever. Moll coached the Purdue University eleven this year.

As quarter-back on the University of Wisconsin team in 1911, he was accorded "all western" honors by many critics.

DONLIN WILL BE WITH PIRATE TEAM.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—[Special Dispatch.] The statement is made here that Mike Donlin is to be with the Pirates next year. It is probable that he will be retained by the club as a "pinch hitter." The ability of the former Giant to hit with men on bases makes his services worth much to any team under the rule which permits the use of a "pinch hitter" in a game.

Mike cannot run with the speed which he once possessed, but a little speed can be overlooked, when timely hits now and then settle a contest.

PLAYERS INDOLENT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Abolition of the rating of tennis players in the United States is being considered by the officials of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, which will hold its annual meeting here tomorrow. It is declared that the rating committee finds the work too great a task because players fail to co-operate by sending in the data required for the ratings. As a result, the proposal of a complete abandonment of the ratings, or limiting them to an honor roll of the first ten, will be presented in the February meeting.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issues. Neither does it substitute or prejudice its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically sold, and it is more quickly and completely in every respect to that of any other newspaper in Southern California.

STARRED IN NATIONAL LEAGUE FROM THE START.

PERHAPS no college youth ever gained prominence on the diamond as rapidly as Eppa Rixey, the sensational young lefthander who flashed to the front as a member of the Philadelphia Nationals last season.

One year ago the name of Eppa Rixey was unknown to the baseball world. Today there is hardly a city in the country where the fans are not familiar with it.

Rixey has the reputation of being the best pitcher imported from the college ranks in years, and it took him less than four months to establish it. It did not require even that long for him to demonstrate his worth as a player, for less than a month after he donned a big league uniform Horace Fogel, the Philadelphia owner, turned down an offer of $17,000 for him made by Charley Murphy of the Cubs.

The offer was made as a result of Rixey's wonderful performance against Chicago.

Rixey first attracted attention as a pitcher while a student of the University of Virginia. In one game there he struck out twenty-one men in a nine-inning struggle, and soon had a whole army of scouts trailing him. When he graduated last June he had offers from at least half a dozen big league clubs.

SALARY LARGE.

All sorts of inducements were made to the youth, who was finally induced to exchange his sheepskin for a Philadelphia contract calling for $900 a month, a salary almost equal to that of a Senator. It was through the good graces of Bill Rigler that Rixey was persuaded to cast his lot with the Quakers, and for the part the National League umpire played in discovering and getting him to sign he received a handsome bonus.

Rigler acted as coach to the Virginia University squad last spring. It was while working in that capacity that he became familiar with the youngster's worth.

Besides his remarkable ability Rixey has the distinction of being the tallest pitcher in the league. He stands nearly six feet six in his stockings and uses every centimeter of his height in his delivery.

Besides having a lot of smoke he has good curves, far better control than the average lefthander and is an excellent fielder. There is no question about him having the requirements of a big league star. He has exceptionally long arms and these enable him to use tremendous speed.

BEAT THE BEST.

Out of twenty games he pitched for the Quakers last season the southerner captured ten and many of these from the best twirlers in the league. With a better team his record would have been vastly improved, for wretched support cost him a number of victories. Dooin is convinced that he has a phenom in the collegian and would not part with him for the price of an O'Toole.

Eppa has troubles of his own besides spending his $900 per month during the season. He can't find beds long enough to fit him in any of the big hotels where the Phillies are wont to stay while on the road. His real worries, though, are in the sleeping cars, where the only place he can rest comfortably is in the aisles.

Besides being long-legged, long-waisted and long-necked Rixey is long-headed and has shown more baseball sense than any college recruit, with the exception of Charley Sterrett of the Yankees.

Good Outs Go.

HARVARD TEAM WILL SUFFER.

PRINCETON WELL FIXED WITH SEASONED MATERIAL.

Carlisle to Have Team of Veterans With Practically Every Player on Hand, Including the Great Thorpe of All-America Fame—Penney a Sure Victim of Graduation.

It looks as though Harvard, the football champion of 1912, will be the chief sufferer by graduation of its stars before next year rolls around, and that Princeton, which finished last among the big three this year, will be the most fortunate in that respect. In other words, everything points to the leading trio being more evenly matched when they toe the scratch for the 1913 supremacy race.

Four men now who rank among the foremost cogs in the machine that ground out a crimson kingship the past season will be among the absentees when the revelle is sounded at Cambridge next fall. They are Capt. Percy Wendell, Sam Felton, the remarkable punter and end; Bobby Gardner, the steady quarter-back, and Parmenter, who played a star game at center. In addition Lawson, Bradley, Hollister, Lingard, Graustein, Frothingham, Driscoll and Tom Hardwick will get their diplomas. All were high-grade substitutes.

Of course, there will be Brickley, Harold Hardwick, Storer, Hitchcock, Peacock, Trumbull, O'Brien and a number of fair substitutes left, but the team will have to draw largely upon new candidates. Mahan, the star back of the freshman team, will be available, and he will come close to filling the shoes of the great Wendell. But so far as known there is nobody who can take adequately the vacancies left by Felton, Parmenter and Gardner.

SIX REGULARS GO.

Princeton will lose six of its varsity regulars—Capt. Pendleton, Bluethenthal, Andrews, Dunlap, Logan and Penfield. The only one of these who will be badly missed is the wonderful punter, Bluethenthal. The loss of Pendleton, great as he is, will not be severe, as DeWitt, Waller, Hobey Baker and Stewart Baker remain for the backfield. Fred Trenkman and Emmons will be available at ends, and Strait, Swart, Schenk, Phillips and Ed Trenkman are more than average for line material. Thus the Tigers will hardly have to depend at all on the incoming crop, but there is one youngster from the freshmen who will put up a hard fight for a job, Boland, who was a scream at quarter-back on his class team.

Outgoing players at Yale are Spalding, Dick Baker, Gallauer, Philbin and Bombeisler. The last-named, an end of the Shevlin and Kilpatrick type, will be sadly mourned. Avery, Carter, Nile and Sheldon are left as end material.

Ketcham, the peerless center, will be the foundation for the line, with Warren, Talbot, Cooney, Arnold, Pendleton, Marting, Randall, Green, Harbison and Madden to fill in. For the backfield there are Markle, Cornish, Castles, Cornell, Flynn, Wheeler, Pumpley and Guernsey, the freshman back, who is a great punter.

Of the teams outside the big three, Carlisle will be the best fixed, as usual, with practically every Indian remaining on hand, including the wonderful Thorpe, despite canards to the contrary.

Penn will be a sure victim of graduation. Capt. Mercer, Harrington, Jourdet, Dillon and Greene are among those who will go, and the places left by Mercer and Harrington in the backfield stand no chance of being filled as capably as by them.

STARS DEVELOPED.

Football Season Brought Out Three Young Fellows Who Matched Up With the Best.

The last football campaign established many heroes on enviable pedestals, but the majority of them were seasoned veterans, like Thorpe of Carlisle, De Witt of Princeton, Devore of the Army, Bomeister of Yale, Bluethenthal of Princeton and half a dozen others that might be mentioned. Jim Thorpe of the Indians proved himself one of the finest football men that ever donned a cleated shoe. Yet all of these veterans did no more than was expected of them.

More remarkable than the work of these was that of three young fellows, who, out for varsity letters the first time, matched the greatest endeavors of their seasoned teammates. Harvard produced her sensation in Brickley; Yale showed another in "Lefty" Flynn, while Princeton uncovered a phenom of equal worth in "Hobe" Baker.

Strange as it may seem, all of this year's sensations proved kickers of exceptional worth. "Lefty" Flynn, for Yale, developed into one of the finest punters the blue had discovered in many seasons. He also was able to kick goals from placement with deadly accuracy. Brickley earned his spurs more from his drop-kicking and placement kicking than from his ability to rip through a stubborn line. And he is no mean "ripper" at that. "Hobe" Baker, who booted both of Princeton's goals against Yale in the last game of the Tigers, saved the erstwhile champions from defeat.

Another luminary developed in this memorable game is Pumpelly of Yale. This substitute player performed one of the greatest feats in football history in a drop kick from the 55-yard line. Little more than a minute of time remained and Yale seemed hopelessly beaten, 6 to 3, until this "sub" gambled on his desperate chance. He was slightly favored by the wind, which was a quartering one, but still he had to show rare judgment at that distance. So accurate was he that the ball traveled fairly over the center of the crossbar. He just did have power enough in his drive to save thousands of Yale dollars, for the ball in its flight struck the stick as the rear end settled in its flight.

That one kick made an undying name for Pumpelly. But even in spite of it he could not be classed with Brickley, Flynn or Baker. These three lionized heroes stood the brunt throughout the entire season.

ON THE QUIET.

Fire-Fighters Ride Motorcycles and Do Efficient Service for Their Departments.

A new reason for the use of motorcycles in the fire department of municipalities has been found in Minneapolis—and it has led, in that city, to the establishment of a motorcycle squad of fire-fighters.

Wright and panic have been known to result in great loss of life in fires among fire-fighters is their silence.

Motorcycles have been used in fire departments—in police departments—and in other municipal departments because of the speed, efficiency and economy of the two-wheeler, but the new and latest reason for their use which, merely as fires, were of no great consequence.

When the big red fire wagons rattle up in front of an apartment-house or tenement, with clanging gong and a sputtering "chemical" or two, the residents of that particular building become frightened whether the fire is large or small. And there is danger in their fright.

In Minneapolis it has been demonstrated that there are countless alarms of a minor character which can best be answered at first by the motorcycle men. The motorcyclists also save the heavier apparatus many long and needless runs.

The other day a woman telephoned headquarters that she smelled smoke in her house.

"But," she warned him, "I keep roomers and I don't want them frightened."

Members of the motorcycle squad arrived promptly and quietly. They found the wrappings on the steam pipes in the basement smoldering. It was extinguished and no one but the landlady knew of it.

ROAD DATA WANTED.

Motorcycle Touring Bureau After New Road Maps of Auto Club of Southern California.

Having now at its disposal road maps of twenty-three States, the touring bureau of the Federation of American Motorcyclists is closing negotiations which will complete the list of State maps.

Three map-making concerns will probably be selected to furnish the remaining maps and thus put at the disposal of the federation's near-50,000 members accurate and detailed information upon which to base their 1913 touring.

The touring bureau was recently established by the F.A.M., and it is calling upon its members, or any motorcyclist or other person having road information to send it to the bureau at New York City.

The bureau also has sectional maps of several States, including the transcontinental routes. There are also some 300 tours, mapped in various parts of the country available.

A special effort is now being made to obtain detailed road information in California. The Automobile Club of Southern California has recently completed thirty new road maps and the bureau hopes to obtain them from the club.

All road and touring information gathered by the bureau is being systematically carded and filed so that it will be readily available for the use of motorcyclists. The gathering of this information is a slow and tedious process, but by the time the 1913 touring season begins, motorcyclists will, for the first time, have definite touring information at their command within their own organization.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

Paul Armstrong will continue to draw royalties for another week of "A Romance of the Underworld." So popular has this play proved during its first two weeks' career at the Burbank Theater that last night the management announced another week of the piece, beginning with the matinee Sunday.

This will be the third week of the play, and from present indications it will be of capacity proportions in the matter of attendance. There will be a special matinee performance on New Year's Day.

It was with the air of a Beau Brummel that Luther McCarty walked on the Empress stage last night to referee the three-round bout between Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie and Kid Dalton.

McCarty received a tremendous ovation, and in full dress and white kid gloves proceeded to show the audience how lively he could be on his feet acting as referee.

Tonight Al Palser will do the honors, and Impresario Deane Worley and Manager Billy Nolan are hoping that Ad Wolgast will accept the invitation for Saturday.

They gave the "Ben Hur" camel a drink of water for his Christmas meal. He hasn't had one for a week, and so copiously did he imbibe that there was no water for the tree on the stage Wednesday night. It wasn't missed.

"And I say, old chap, are there no parcels?"

"I haven't seen any yet," answered Howe.

"Strange," replied the actor, "you know my plum pudding hasn't yet arrived."

Manager Dick Ferris is having his troubles with the staging of "In the Bishop's Carriage," which will be the offering at the Lyceum Theater next Sunday afternoon.

Now the stage entrance of the Lyceum Theater is not of sufficient width to permit either of these vehicles to be taken back to the stage, and consequently the mechanical forces will have to take them in through the front door of the house, make a track of planks over the seats and get the motor and carriage to the stage in that manner.

Ada Reeve will be at the Orpheum next week from Monday. Her coming is the first of four uncommonly interesting events at the Broadway theater, the others being the Orpheum vaud show, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and "The Eternal Waltz."

Harrison Hunter and George Relphs, both members of the new Belasco company, will arrive in Los Angeles this morning.

Mr. Hunter will immediately begin rehearsals with the other members of the organization, as he makes his appearance in "The Fortune Hunter," which opens the new playhouse one week from next Monday night.

Mr. Relphs, however, is more fortunate, as he will enjoy a rest until the beginning of the rehearsals for "The Love Story of the Ages," the grand offering at the new theater.

The house is rapidly nearing completion and will easily be completed in time for the opening.

JESUS CHRIST AND TRADES-UNIONISM.

AN OPEN LETTER TO BISHOP M'INTYRE.

Two men conceived of God, John and Jesus, were laborers, one a carpenter and the other a carpenter, and both would belong to labor unions if they were living on earth today.

According to the Western Christian Advocate, thus spoke Bishop Moore, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at a dinner recently given him by the labor leaders of Cincinnati, O., at which Frank Mullowney was toastmaster.

Reference is made to the toastmaster so that the social function might have a proper setting, for Mullowney is to the lawless labor element of the central States what Clarence Darrow is to the West.

Another fact, which should be considered in the discussion of this remarkable statement of the bishop, is, that the prelate carries the "card" of the Typographical Union.

We presume to inquire of the bishop what he meant by "trades unions?"

Did you have in mind the guilds which in former times were so common in England and so vastly beneficial to the members by assisting them to become better workmen and better citizens by binding them together for mutual help, mutual encouragement, and mutual endeavor?

Or did you refer to such present day trades as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in which the Christian shop has no recognition and no more crimes as that committed by the union brother printer, J. B. McNamara, by blowing twenty of his fellow-craftsmen into eternity because they did not belong to your labor union, are condemned?

We imagine the hope that such is the case, but if not, why do you carry the "card" of the printers' union with you, why did you display it for the admiration and encouragement of your men as those who broke bread with you at the Toledo labor leaders' banquet?

Jesus Christ belong to a labor union? Jesus, the fellow-member, a brother in lawlessness and crime of Sam Gompers, Sam Parks, Con Kidney, Madden, Haywood, McParland, Ryan, Horkin, Clarence Darrow and the heads of labor organizations with their followers, have been a page of lawlessness and violence and outrage, assault and battery and destruction of property, the history of every town and city in the United States!

Jesus a member of a closed shop union? You carry and display the visible evidence of it—the union card.

Jesus a closed shop ministry, a closed church! Think of it!

Jesus was ordained as a minister of Jesus Christ it was made his duty to preach the gospel to the poor, not to members of labor unions only; cheer the broken-hearted, visit the sick; comfort the afflicted. In the upbuilding of the kingdom of God by prudence, righteousness; proclaim a gospel of love, charity, forbearance, forgiveness for all classes, not one of hatred and persecution and malevolence.

Reverend and Dear Sir: May we ask you to take your closed shop union "card" in one hand and your Bible in the other. Reflect upon the meaning of the former; the proscription, persecution, denial of inherent and indefeasible rights, rights guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and by the Constitution of the Church of Jesus Christ.

Then read from the Bible:

"Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the Law of Christ."

"God hath made of one blood all nations of men, for to dwell upon the face of the earth."

Then the Golden Rule of Jesus:

"Do unto others as ye would be done by."

Read the advice of Jacob to his sons: "Ye be brethren; see that ye fall out not along the way."

Search the scriptures, and then tell us where within them you find authority for closed shop unionism, or for the closed shop religion which you teach by precept and example.

If Jesus Christ were a closed shop unionist the Sermon on the Mount would be a travesty, our hymns a mockery.

That precious revival hymn:

"Send the blessed tidings all the earth around, WHOSOEVER will may come," would be changed to UNION MEN "may come." That grand old hymn which has brought hundreds of thousands to the mourner's bench:

"Come ye sinners, poor and needy, weak and wounded, sick and sore," could only be an appeal to union men, because of a closed shop religion.

If a non-union man may not have fellowship with your union brother at the workbench, how shall he have fellowship at the communion table?

Your closed shop unionism is a denial of the freedom of labor, and an attack upon the individual rights of every non-union man—the right to work for whom, when, and for the wage he and his employer may agree upon. It debars from employment any workman, however good a mechanic, however excellent a citizen, however great his family responsibilities, who is not affiliated with a labor union. It prevents his employment by unlawful means, assaults, dynamiting, murder. It is un-American and un-Christian.

If our free institutions are to outlive the on-coming assaults of socialism, anarchism and atheism; if Lincoln's prayer, that this government of the people, for the people, by the people may not perish, is to be answered; if man's capacity for self-government is to be a demonstrated fact, it will be through the agency of the Christian religion and the ministers of the gospel. The brotherhood of man based on the Fatherhood of God, the oneness of God's people. How is this to be brought about in a closed shop place of work or worship. The implied indorsement, even the toleration of it, is a sin and abomination.

In conclusion, reverend and respected sir: These opinions, frankly and earnestly expressed, with naught set down in spirit of unkindness, and which we intend to be general in their application, result from our recognition of the rights of non-union men, and our knowledge of the mistaken policy of many churches and pastors and the evil results which inevitably follow.

TAKE TREASURY OUT OF BANKING.

DANGEROUS POWER IN HANDS OF THE SECRETARY.

MacVeagh Believes There Should be a Quasi Public Institution to Hold the Ultimate Cash Reserves of the Banks and the Government Balances as Deposits.

[Washington Star:] No reform of our banking and currency system can be adequate which does not take the United States Treasury out of the banking business, says Secretary MacVeagh. We have become so accustomed to the banking operations of the Treasury that we have not realized how it has developed into a powerful central bank. The Treasury has greater power and greater assets than the Bank of England, which for years has been the institution at the foundation of international credit. The Treasury is the strongest bank in the world as regards metallic reserves. Its enormous store of the yellow metal is not approached by that of any of the great central banks of Europe. At one time the Treasury was the greatest note-issuing bank, and it might become so again.

The Bank of England, regarded throughout the world as the strongest of all banking institutions, supports the great structure of English credit on a gold reserve of less than $200,000,000. Our Treasury, in addition to $1,000,000,000 of gold held in trust against gold certificates, carries a net gold surplus varying from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000. Our Treasury's hoard of idle gold, in other words, would support a greater bank than the Bank of England.

ORIGIN OF SYSTEM.

When the independent Treasury system was established the idea was that all the funds of the government should be stored in the Treasury vaults in the form of money, just as the medieval war lords kept their treasures in strong boxes. The independent Treasury system was established in troublesome financial days, when the State banks were not the safest places for the deposit of money. The people decided that the public funds must be kept in government vaults for safety.

But in these days of well organized national banks, conducting their business under the watchful eyes of the government, every one keeps his surplus funds in some bank. Not only do private individuals and great corporations bank their funds from day to day, but all the municipalities and State governments use the banks for the safe keeping of their money.

The national government alone holds to the medieval custom of keeping its funds stored away in vaults. No other great government does this. In England, France, Germany and other leading countries government funds are deposited in banks like the funds of any other business.

COULD CAUSE PANIC.

Imagine the storm of indignation that would be aroused if the railroads of this country should insist on being paid for transportation in money, and then hoard this money for weeks and months in strong boxes. The gross receipts of our railroads are in the neighborhood of $3,000,000,000 a year. If the railroads hoarded their receipts in money for only four months they would pile up a billion dollars, or nearly a third of all the money now circulating in the country. If this money were taken out of the vaults of the banks it would mean such a panic as no country has ever seen or ever will see.

The banks of the United States have about $16,000,000,000 of deposits on a money foundation of $1,500,000,000. The experience of the leading banking countries is that deposit liabilities can be built up ten-for-one against cash in hand. In central banking centers like New York and London larger metallic funds are needed, because in these centers are accumulated the basic banking reserves. The New York banks, for example, keep about $300,000,000 cash reserves against $2,000,000,000 deposits.

In this country, with our rigid laws fixing the minimum reserves the banks must hold, any loss of cash by the banks means an instant contraction of their loaning power. If the banks of New York and Chicago lose $100,000,000 cash they must at once reduce their liabilities by $400,000,000. This means that they must reduce by an amount their loans to the business community.

With the volume of bank credit moving in the reserve cities four times as fast as the volume of cash, and throughout the country ten times as fast as the volume of cash, it is plain that the machinery of credit is extremely sensitive to variations in the amount of cash held by the banks. For this reason an institution like the United States Treasury, alternately accumulating and disbursing many millions of cash, is likely to create widespread disturbance in the money market.

The funds held by the great European governments vary from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000. The coin, bullion and paper money held as assets in the United States Treasury during the present administration have varied from $300,000,000 to $350,000,000. In other words, nearly one-tenth of all the money in the country is held idle in the Treasury vaults. If this money were all deposited in the banks it would increase their reserves 20 per cent.

HOARDING BY UNCLE SAM.

The receipts and disbursements of the Treasury are most irregular. The Treasury receipts in 1907 exceeded the disbursements by $91,000,000. Two years later the disbursements exceeded the receipts by $110,000,000. For the past two years, receipts have again exceeded disbursements. The general fund in the Treasury was $272,000,000 in 1907; three years later it had fallen to $106,000,000. Under our present system of keeping a large surplus government fund idle in the Treasury these wide variations in the yearly balance not only seriously disturb the money market, and the business of the country, but force the Secretary of the Treasury to enter actively into the money market as a paternal overseer of the machinery of credit.

It not infrequently happens that surplus revenues accumulate in the Treasury just at the time when the banks are straining their resources to grant all the credit needed to finance a business boom.

TAKEN WHEN NEEDED.

The Treasury then takes money out of the banks and hoards it just at the time when the country most needs it. If the business boom goes so far as to strain credit to the breaking point, then the Treasury must come "to the relief of the situation" by depositing some of its hoarded cash in the banks.

In recent years the Treasury has been carrying a large surplus, and it has been in a position to relieve financial tension by depositing funds in the banks.

In December, 1907, following the money panic, the special deposits in the banks by the Treasury have reached $256,000,000. Three years later they were reduced to $4,000,000. In the fiscal year 1908-1909, the Treasury withdrew $100,000,000 from the banks.

This state of affairs places in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury a power greater than any American should have. The power of the Secretary to influence the money market by deposits or withdrawals of public funds is always dangerous. No government officer should have this power. It has been a great burden, I believe on the shoulders of every recent Secretary of the Treasury Department.

HAS DANGEROUS POWER.

If the people realized how dangerous is the power in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury, they would insist that the Treasury be at once taken out of the banking business. Accustomed as we are to government interference with the money market, few of us realize how the Treasury in the past few years has exercised the central-bank function of regulating the discount rate. The Treasury, by alternate deposits and withdrawals of the public money in the banks, as well as by other devices, has attempted to regulate the discount rate.

The Treasury Department should be divorced from the money market and from the banking business, and the way to effect the reform is plain. We should have in this country a quasi-public institution not only to hold the ultimate cash reserves of the banks and to regulate the rate of discount, but to act as the fiscal agent of the government.

Such an institution would hold the government balances as deposits, and the government could check against them just as any large business concern checks against its balances in bank. With the government balances deposited in such an institution, the business of the country would never be distributed by the Treasury hoarding up cash, and the Secretary of the Treasury would no longer be forced to meddle in the money market.

NEW BANKING SYSTEM URGED.

Taking the government out of the banking business is only one phase of the reform of our banking and currency system in which all Americans should be deeply interested.

The principal requirements of a new banking and currency measure are that it shall provide a practical immunity from serious panics—such an immunity as is enjoyed by the other leading financial nations; that it shall abolish the habitually recurrent ordinary stringencies in the money market, which keep relations between the bankers and the business men of the country almost continuously at sixes and sevens, that it shall remove the defects of our domestic exchanges; that it shall enlarge and develop the facilities of our foreign exchange system; that it shall properly develop the discount market; that it shall wholesomely assist in regulating the interest rates and making them uniform throughout the country; that it shall put an end to the tendency which forces our bank balances into speculative channels, and save them for regular trade and commerce. To meet the case it is necessary to have an elastic currency, available reserves and every necessary provision and power, both to permit and to check the expansion of loans.

Pasadena.

BOARD WINS OVER COUNCIL.

Pasadena Official War Is Ended for a Time.

President Ripley Chats About Lure of California.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASADENA, Dec. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the close of a conference between the Board of Education and the City Council, which lasted until late last night, at the offices of Wright, Bell & Wright, attorneys for the school board, it was decided by the Council to make no arrests.

The warrants for the arrest of the members of the Board of Education and several contractors and others engaged in the erection of the new Polytechnic High School buildings, for proceeding without securing a permit from the city, are still in the hands of the Chief of Police, but the cases will probably be dismissed today.

The compromise agreed upon last night is more a victory for the Board of Education than for Mayor Thum and the Council. The school board will submit to an inspection of the high school buildings and the general and special contractors take out no permits, but under protest, while the suit in which a Superior Court decision was handed down last week will be appealed by mutual agreement, to the Supreme Court. It is also to be a disputed inspection. Instead of the city building inspector passing on the school buildings, they will be inspected by a committee to be composed of three members of the Council, three members of the Board of Education, one architect, to be chosen by the Council, one to be chosen by the Board of Education, and a third to be chosen by these two.

Chief of Police Wood yesterday morning set about the task of serving by telephone the ten warrants that had been issued by Police Judge McDonald. Despite the fact that he telephoned to the residence of each defendant, and to the place of business of each, he was unable to get into communication with a single one. He was prepared to go after them if it required the whole police force to find them. When Mayor Thum appeared in his office and told him to desist.

As the matter now stands, Judge Donald is really the only person who can prevent the arrest of the school board members, as the warrants must either be served or the case dismissed. However, the outcome of the meeting last night was an agreement to a dismissal of the cases. The meeting was not without its stormy moments.

E. F. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe Railroad, accompanied by Mrs. Ripley and several friends, arrived in the city late yesterday afternoon. They are at the Hotel Maryland, and the railroad man said last night that he expects to be here only for three days, after which time he will return to Santa Barbara for the winter.

The statement made last Wednesday by J. P. Graves, a prominent millionaire of the Northwest, that he was to see Southern California some time, the most densely populated part of the United States, met with a ready endorsement by Ripley.

"I think that is not at all improbable," he said. "There is the climate here and people will pour in. I think that it probably will become the most densely populated part of the country."

He said that his visit here is of great business significance, and that no improvement of the system, other than the regularly planned work, is contemplated.

"We are always making improvements," he said, "and putting in double tracks. Of course we expect ultimately to have the entire system double-tracked."

He did not show so much interest in the Panama Canal as others have. "The population is increasing here rapidly," he said, "but I do not know that the Panama Canal is going to have so much to do with it. The people will come here anyway."

Asked what he looks forward to in the summer business in 1913, he said: "There will be a heavy passenger business, especially if we cut our rates as low as I expect we will be asked to. There are lots of Americans who always travel, if they can find a rate. They will travel if they get cheap rates, even if they do not want to travel at all."

MANY FLOATS ENTERED.

There will be in the long line of Tournaments of Roses that have helped make Pasadena famous has there been such a floral parade as will be viewed by the thousands of spectators who will come to the city on New Year's Day. There will be more than 200 floats in the parade, and an almost inestimable sum has been expended in arranging them. Three hundred and fifty have been entered already, with nearly a week yet until New Year's Day.

There will be floats representing municipalities large and small, corporations, civic associations, business establishments, schools, colleges, organizations without end. Over twenty southern California cities will be represented.

Most of the floats are safely hidden from all eyes except of those who have devised and decorated them, and will be kept so until the time of the parade. The design of one or two, however, has leaked out. Venice's float will be an immense gondola which will ride twenty of the High School girls of that city. This will be followed by a team of elephants drawing a cage filled with wild animals. There will be half a dozen motor vehicles in the Venice division. "The Mountains to the Sea" will be the float of the Pacific Electric Company's division. It is a magnificent entry and will cost the railway company practically $1000.

BANDS TO PLAY.

Pasadena will be a gay place on New Year's eve. The Santa Monicans, who are to arrive in an automobile procession early the evening of the 31st are to bring a band of thirty pieces with them. They have been invited by Manager D. B. Plumer of the Hotel Green to establish their headquarters there, and a concert will be given on the south porch of the west building. The hotel will be thrown open to the public at 6 o'clock in the evening and hundreds will there watch the old year out and the new year in.

Mayor Dow of Santa Monica has written to Mayor Thum of this city, extending his thanks for the invitation to send a delegation to the city, and in turn, inviting all Pasadenans, through the kindness of Manager Plumer, to the Green for the concert.

The Long Beach municipal band will play simultaneously at the Hotel Maryland, where there are also to be a vaudeville entertainment and dance.

BOXES ARE SOLD.

The sale of seats for the afternoon entertainment at Tournament Park on New Year's Day was begun last night with an auction sale of boxes at the Southern California Edison Electric Company's office. Col. W. J. Hogan was the auctioneer. A large amount was realized in premiums. Charles Gates, millionaire, who is staying at the Hotel Maryland, bought one of the first boxes, paying $30 above the cost, which was $12. Adolphus Busch, Montgomery Ward, D. M. Linnard, Col. W. J. Hogan and Frank Hogan were among the others who bought boxes.

CITY BRIEFS.

A large New Year's Day reception will be held at the Young Men's Christian Association building.

Southern California members of the Sierra Club will spend next Saturday and Sunday at Switzer's Camp in the Arroyo Seco and in climbing Strawberry Peak.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert H. Hoy and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hoy of Chicago, who have passed several winters in Pasadena, arrived in the city yesterday. They are at the Hotel Green.

Mrs. M. H. Wright of Kansas City also arrived at the Green yesterday.

MONROVIA PROSPERS.

MONROVIA, Dec. 26.—A short canvass of the business district of the city this morning brings out the fact that the present Christmas season, despite the recent cold weather and the supposed tightening of the money market by the recently closed Presidential campaign, has been the most prosperous in years, and the prospects are brighter in most lines of business than ever before. The postoffice reports the remarkable gain of over 33 per cent. over the holiday business of the previous year. Extra clerical assistance has been asked for by Postmaster C. H. Anson, who anticipates a big trade in the new manner of handling packages. Grocers, clothiers and drygoods merchants unite in expressing their satisfaction at the amount of business done, and declare the coming year to be one of unusual prosperity for the city.

MAN ROLLS DOWN A LONG, STEEP HILL.

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 26.—Ralph Rediker, a local fisherman, rolled down a steep declivity nine miles below the city today and had his skull fractured in addition to other injuries.

Fishermen had arranged a block and tackle to draw fish from the ocean to the top of the bluff. Rediker conceived the idea of riding up in the fish basket. He rode almost to the top when the cable broke and the passenger rolled 250 feet before he was caught in some shrubbery on the side of the bluff.

The victim was taken to a fisherman's camp and a surgeon was summoned. A launch will be sent down the coast tomorrow to bring the man to one of the local hospitals.

NEW LEAGUE FOR VENICE.

Another Boosting Society Is Being Born on the Kinney Preserves. Confetti Battle When 1913 Arrives.

VENICE, Dec. 26.—As a preliminary to the formation of a central boosting body to be called the Venice Civic League, a symbolic hatchet will be buried in St. Mark's Plaza New Year's night. The mass meeting of citizens who want to bury all differences will be held January 3 at the Crescent Cafe, Trolleyway and Lorelei avenue. At that time ways and means of making Venice the greatest resort in the country will be discussed.

The movement for the formation of the league is far reaching, the call being signed by the following citizens: F. P. Sargent, Edward Gerety, W. A. Rennie, Carroll J. Daly, J. W. Lawrence, Jr., C. W. Holbrook, Howard Lorenz, J. M. Herndon, L. G. Allen and L. C. Walker.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Another of the sons of Abbott Kinney is to be led to the altar. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilson of Venice announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lois Eleanor Wilson, to Sherwood Kinney, the second son of the Doge. The wedding will be solemnized Wednesday, February 26. She will be entertained extensively during the next few weeks. Miss Wilson was maid of honor at the wedding of Innes Kinney and Miss Margaret Hawk three months ago.

Mayor Holbrook will let down the bars to revelers New Year's eve, and has given out that the confetti battle which will begin at midnight may last until morning. Of course rowdyism will be checked, but joy will reign unrestrained. Five thousand bags are being filled with confetti to be used by the committee to start the battle.

SANTA MONICA BRIEFS.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 26.—As a result of the explosion of a pot of coffee, Mrs. W. J. Winebreener, who resides at No. 1417 Eighth street may lose her eyesight. Mrs. Winebreener was near the stove when the pot, in which the steam had been confined, exploded, the liquid badly burning her face and hands. She is under the care of a physician.

Members of Co. E, Seventh Regiment, the Elks marching Club, and other organizations will be represented in the entry of Santa Monica in the Pasadena rose tournament. Already eight or ten auto owners have agreed to decorate and enter their equipages.

An interesting wedding was solemnized last evening, when Miss Edna Leverenz became the bride of W. E. Miller. The ceremony was read at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rogers, Lake and Hill street. Rev. George Skafte of the Lake Street Methodist church officiated. The couple will make their home in San Diego.

REDONDO BEACH NOTES.

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 26.—The restriction which permitted property on the ocean front to be used for residence purposes, only has been removed from the property known as the El Be apartments, at No. 1 Beach Row, so that it may be used for business purposes and concessions. This restriction, which was a clause of the original deeds of the Redondo Improvement Company, has been removed by that company for this property, at the request of Mrs. L. Bertelson, the lessee, who claimed the large roller coaster being erected fifty feet away, would be a detriment to her rooming-house owing to the noise. Mrs. Bertelson will have the property remodeled with store rooms. She will also rent office rooms on the second floor. The change will be made abut the first of the year. Through this concession of the company it is considered that instead of a detriment to the property, the value will be greatly enhanced by the roller coaster and other amusements.

G. S. Thatcher has resigned his position as assistant cashier of the First National Bank, to take effect January 1. He will be succeeded by C. E. Perkins of San Bernardino. Thatcher will take the position of cashier of the new First Bank of Hermosa Beach to be opened the middle of next month.

A large commercial hotel, for which their is great need here, will be erected at the corner of Pacific avenue and Diamond street by L. J. Baumbach within a short time. The property, which extends from Pacific avenue through to Commercial street, has been purchased by Baumbach from the Redondo Improvement Company for $25,000. A four-story brick building will be erected for the hotel.

Precautionary.

FLOOD PREVENTION IS CONSIDERED AT COVINA.

THE movement for flood prevention launched at the recent business men's luncheon at the Westminster Hotel has taken root in the San Gabriel Valley. One of the men who attended the luncheon was E. P. Warner of Covina. Warner arranged for a conference of business men of Covina with George H. Maxwell. Maxwell went to Covina yesterday afternoon and explained to this conference the application of the Newlands River regulation bill to the flood water problems of the San Gabriel River, and the way in which the bill could be still further made applicable to that section by some slight additional provisions. At the conference there were present among others, E. P. Warner, who acted as chairman of the conference; W. P. Watts, F. W. Gail, J. H. Simpson, J. R. Elliott, Dan Reichard, D. F. Thorpe, W. B. Thorne, B. Miller, J. H. Coolman, J. L. Matthews, A. M. Seeley, W. Q. Custer, A. M. Pence, H. S. Rogers and H. L. Marshall.

A preliminary committee consisting of J. R. Elliott, Dan Reichard and B. F. Thorpe, was appointed to form a larger active committee of organization to co-operate with the Arizona and California River Regulation Commission of Los Angeles, and with the National Reclamation Association.

Mr. Maxwell was accompanied to Covina by his assistant, J. L. Keelyn, who will take up the work locally in co-operation with the above committee, during the absence of Maxwell, who leaves for New Orleans on Saturday. One point which was strongly brought out by Mr. Maxwell was that the Newlands bill now provides for the acquisition of lands near existing national forest reserves and adding them to the reserves—a provision that was inserted in the bill particularly with a view to meeting the needs of Southern California for the acquisition of such lands and their reforestration, as is so necessary in places in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Another point made clear by Mr. Maxwell was that it is just as necessary from the standpoint of maintaining navigation, that silt should be kept out of navigable harbors as that it should be kept out of navigable rivers, and for this reason the Newlands bill may be made applicable to every stream in Southern California from which any silt-laden waters in time of floods might flow into the San Pedro Harbor. The Appalachian bill, he said, was a recognition of the wisdom of going to the source and removing the cause of silt deposits instead of confining the work of the national government to dredging out the silt after it is deposited. That the government recognizes its obligation to prevent navigable channels or harbors from being filled up with silt, Mr. Maxwell referred to the construction of the diverting canal at Stockton built to keep the silt out of the channel at Stockton, and incidentally to protect the city of Stockton from floods.

The interest shown at the conference at Covina was marked and indicates that the work of the Arizona and California river regulation is bringing good results and that it may mean a great deal more to Southern California than the development of the San Joaquin and Colorado River valleys as the result of the passage of the Newlands measure.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Riverside.

GREAT CROP OF ORANGES.

California Ships More Than Forty Thousand Carloads.

Greater Part Comes from Seven Southern Counties.

District Attorney's Home Is Looted by Burglar.

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 26.—In its annual estimate of the citrus fruit crop of Southern California the Press today places the output at 44,600 cars. This is almost identical with the output for the season of 1910-11, when 44,611 cars were shipped. Last year shipments reached 36,283 cars. Of the estimate for the coming season 40,000 cars are credited to oranges and 4600 cars to lemons.

All reports received show that there has been practically no damage from frost in any district, although nearly all have suffered some damage from wind. When the fruit is picked this may prove to be greater than indicated in the estimates. The fruit is also running to small size, and this may reduce the output. However, it seems reasonable to expect 40,000 cars from Southern California this season.

Detailed estimates by districts follow:

	Carloads.
Redlands district	5,200
Riverside district	4,600
Pomona district	4,300

RAILWAY WORKS HARDSHIPS.

Traffic on the northern of yesterday playing havoc with Southern Pacific and Santa Fe schedules between Los Angeles, Riverside, and between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning all Salt Lake trains were able to reach on account of the washouts in the Wineville section.

Passengers on the Southern Pacific transferred between Colton and Los Angeles were routed through this city over the Salt Lake tracks.

Many tourist parties from Los Angeles and others bound for Riverside to spend the Christmas holiday, gave up the journey when reaching Ontario, and those who braved the storm and came to grief in many instances.

Among the parties comprised Rev. Bishop of the Bishops schools and his wife, and Miss Bessie Bishop. In the Bishops automobile, in which they reached Collins ranch, the car became stalled in the sand and soon had whipped off the vestige of varnish from the car by the strong wind. The windshield was ruined by the flying sand, and rendered it to a semblance of ground glass.

Mrs. Bentram, who is in poor health, was run down and injured by a passing auto while attempting to cross to Ontario, while the party was taken on to Riverside. They arrived on a Salt Lake train, and was in a serious condition last night. All the members of the party are resting easily today.

HOLDS WOMAN BOUND OVER.

Mrs. Burnett, charged with the murder of the late Acting Chief of Police R. Baird, was bound over to the Superior Court without bonds at the conclusion of the preliminary examination this morning before Justice Reed. There were no new witnesses, the only witnesses being Mrs. Burnett and Officer Wilson, who appeared before the grand jury. No witnesses were called for the defense. Senator Works asked one question on the latter's behalf, this relating to what Mrs. Burnett had in his pockets at the time of the tragedy.

The office of Chief has not yet been filled, which has prevented Mayor Hewitt from filling his office the past week, while several names have been considered for the vacancy in the police department, no selection being made.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY ROBBED.

The home of Dist.-Atty. Lyman was entered some time last night by burglars making way with a number of gold chains, nugget rings, gold fobs, etc. When the members of the family returned at a late hour to their home, they found that entrance had been effected through forcing a screen door at the rear. Front and side doors were open, showing the precautions taken by the thieves to make a quick getaway.

LOW TEMPERATURE ALARMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The coldest weather of the season prevails over the upper San Bernardino Valley tonight and growers who have smudging outfits are making a stubborn fight to save their crops. Since 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the mercury touched 64, there has been a steady drop and at 10 o'clock it had reached 34. A normal drop will mean about 24 degrees at the coldest hour of the morning, which is between 6 and 7.

Last night was the coldest to date this season, the mercury touching 29. Smudging was resorted to by those prepared. No damage resulted, but the indications are that it will be colder than last night. Apparently nothing but a good breeze springing up can save the district from a "scorching" tonight.

Oranges at this season can stand a temperature of 24 degrees for a couple of hours, but there is always great danger when it gets that cold.

Owing to the fact that Redlands escaped great damage from last year's freeze, few of the growers here are prepared to combat frost. The district shippd more fruit last season than ever before.

SANTA CLAUS DID HIS DUTY.

Needy at Redlands Have Reason for Rejoicing Over the Generosity of the Prosperous Ones.

REDLANDS, Dec. 26.—Santa Claus was good to the poor of Redlands this Christmas, the Associated Charities, Salvation Army and various Sunday-schools and private parties making an especial effort to see that none was neglected. "A gift for every needy home in the city" was the slogan of the charities organization, and they are confident that they succeeded. One of the practical benevolences of this society is the retention of a trained nurse who gives her time to the sick who are unable to otherwise have such attention. The Salvation Army distributed a large number of baskets filled with edibles and other articles.

A more or less daring burglar, probably an amateur, entered the home of Burt Knights last evening while the family was absent, and carried away half a box of fine Havana cigars. The house was ransacked, but nothing else of value was missed.

A horse belonging to C. H. Songer, hitched to a light delivery wagon, slipped on the car rail at State and Orange streets yesterday, and turned somersault before it could be quieted.

HIGHLAND.

HIGHLAND, Dec. 26.—The entire stock of jewelry carried by William L. Reynolds, who runs a repair shop and jewelry store at Highland, was carried off by robbers early Christmas night, the loss being estimated at $500 or more. About thirty watches beside cases, chains and other articles were taken. The theft was committed by prying open a window. Suspicion falls on two strangers who were seen about the town with a suit case. Sheriff Ralphs is making a hunt for the thieves. Reynolds is in the habit of taking his little stock home nights, but had left it in the little shop until after dinner. The robbery was discovered when he and wife went to gather up the stock and take it home for the night.

HIGH WINDS AT OXNARD.

OXNARD, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The worst wind gale in Oxnard's history commenced blowing at an early hour today and only died with the coming of night. Telegraph poles were blown over. At times the wind reached a velocity of fifty miles an hour. In the exposed country sections much damage was threatened for some time.

Small White Bean Causes Death of an Infant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward Unger of Los Angeles, better known as "Balloon Red," was today dismissed by Justice Pittman from the charge of perjury in swearing that Vera McCune, was 18 years of age, in order that he might marry her. The action was taken at the request of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McCune of Ocean Park, who have become convinced that Unger is not a bad fellow and will make their daughter a good husband, and they will no longer oppose their living together as man and wife.

BEAN CAUSES DEATH.

A small white bean was the cause of the death of the 21 months' old baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Wagner. The child was playing in the yard when she was taken with a violent coughing fit. She was carried to the house by the mother, but died before the physician arrived. A post mortem examination revealed a small white bean in the air passage of the throat as the cause of death. How it got there is a mystery.

SANDSTORM.

The sandstorm which swept over the Guasti-Wineville section of the county last night was one of the worst in many years. Sand in great drifts was piled over the railroad tracks and regular train service was not established on the Southern Pacific until well toward noon. The Salt Lake was also badly delayed in getting its train schedule into operation. Sand was also badly drifted on the country roads in the section most seriously affected. While the wind was the worst in the grape-growing section, it was severe all over this section. Oranges sustained some damage. The wind is still blowing today, but with greatly-abated energy.

MEXICAN WOUNDED.

A. Garcia lies at the County Hospital mortally wounded through the neck from a bullet wound sustained at a little Mexican celebration at the home of M. Chavez last night. The latter is in jail on suspicion. Garcia, after being wounded, wandered some distance from the house and was found beside the road. Two empty cartridges were found on the floor at the house, but no gun nor anyone who could be induced to divulge any information regarding the affair.

MOTORISTS DUCKED.

An auto last night from Banning, mistook the road at Arrowhead avenue and First street, plunging the occupants of the machine into the four feet of water in Warm Creek. One of the men was ill, being on the way to Pomona, they said. Neither would divulge his name, even to the police. The machine was not badly damaged.

BELATED HONESTY.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 26.—Last September when Barnum and Bailey's circus was here, one of its grand stands collapsed and a number of spectators were injured. Among them was Mrs. Cora B. Cavins, who came out of the catastrophe not only severely bruised, but also missing a necklace of gold beads and a bracelet. Attempts to locate the jewelry failed. Today a local newspaper received a letter from Bridgeport, Conn., the winter quarters of the circus, stating that if a reward would be sent to Hammer Roberts of No. 5 Bank street, Bridgeport, the necklace would be returned. Mrs. Cavins had offered no reward. The letter will be sent to a representative of the circus, who has written that he is coming to Santa Ana to settle with claimants for damages by reason of the collapse of the grand stand.

War Tools.

MAKING GREAT NAVAL GUNS.

WASHINGTON HAS ONLY FOUNDRY OF ITS KIND.

Uncle Sam Makes Thirteen Different Kinds of Guns That Range in Length from Five to Nearly Sixty Feet and Gives Employment to Thirty-six Hundred Men.

[Washington Star:] Tucked away in one corner of Washington is a great factory. The existence of such a place is not in itself unusual, but in this instance the factory is not only large, but is the only one of its kind in the United States. This is the gun foundry at the Washington navy yard. Here Uncle Sam makes practically all the guns which are used on his warships. Here are constructed all those implements of war which help so largely to make the American navy a big, strong fighting factor.

Thirteen different kinds of guns are manufactured, which include about sixty-five styles. These range from the smallest, the one-pounder, to the mammoth, the fourteen-inch gun. In length they range from five to nearly sixty feet, while in weight they run from 300 pounds to eighty odd tons, unmounted. Mounted, their weight is almost double.

In the large workshop, 1000 feet long, filled with brawny men laboring over massive guns in all stages of completion, some bending over to file away a tiny imperfection, others glowing from the heat of the giant furnaces in which the guns are shrunk, one is filled only with the realization that here is being made, with hand as well as brain, that part of the navy's equipment without which it would be but a mockery.

ANNUAL OUTPUT.

An average annual output at the gun foundry is about 200 guns. While all the 3600 men are not employed with the actual construction of the guns, cartridge cases and gun carriages also being made at the yard, the majority are. Two hundred guns as against about 2000 men seem a small proportion. And yet it takes a week, or seven eight-hour shifts, merely to bore one of the fourteen-inch guns; it takes three days to heat a gun sufficiently to insert the inside liner, and then it must be inserted in two minutes without touching, or the entire work has to be done over again. It takes 120 hours, or fifteen working days, to rifle a gun; and allowing for taking its regular order in the routine of work, it takes from three to six months to make a single gun, according to the size.

Of the twenty-odd buildings which comprise that part of the navy yard actually concerned with the manufacture of guns and other ordnances the most important is the main gun shop. Almost a quarter of a mile long, this building is the one in which the actual work of making the guns is done. Several important operations are connected with the manufacture of a gun, besides innumerable minor ones. Practically all of the rough forgings are bought from outside establishments. Consequently the first step in construction at the yard is the process known as "turning." The rough forgings are taken and "turned" to within one ten-thousandth of an inch of the proper size and length for the guns they will eventually be a part of. Next comes the boring, or the process by which the hole in each gun is cut to the proper size. Third is the shrinking process. All the guns are made up of several parts, each part being shorter than its predecessor over which it fits. In order to put the guns together the first section, which is the longest, is slipped through the next section while it is at almost a cherry-red heat, the principle on which this is done being merely that of heat expanding metals.

SHRINKING METAL.

When the two pieces have been put together they become practically one after cooling. This method is used for the reason that by making a gun of several parts, thus put together, a much stronger gun results than if made of a single piece or cast. This process of building up a gun is known as shrinking, and is continued until the several necessary pieces have been put together. The gun is then again "turned" and bored, in order to do away with any imperfections which might have occurred during the shrinking. The next process is termed rifling. A projectile shot from a cannon in the same manner in which it might be thrown by hand would tarvel but a short distance. Its carrying power consists in the rapidity with which it is revolving at the same tme it travels forward. "Rifling" consists in so grooving the bore of the gun that the shell is turned round and round as it leaves the cannon.

During the time which has elapsed before a gun has reached the rifling stage innumerable minor operations have been gone through for the purpose of insuring absolute accuracy in all its parts. When fully completed the gun is sent to Indian Head, the naval proving ground, and there tested in every way possible. If found satisfactory it is returned to the navy yard and is there gauged and otherwise gone over to see that it has not been injured in the process of proving. It is then ready to be shipped to whatever point is to be its final destination.

The largest gun manufactured at the navy yard is of fourteen-inch caliber. A gun of this size is over fifty-three feet long, and weighs when completed more than eighty tons unmounted and 140 tons mounted. The projectile used weighs about 1200 pounds, while the maximum charge of smokeless powder weighs about 600 pounds. The muzzle velocity of the projectile is about 2800 feet a second, while the maximum pressure in the powder chamber is eighteen to twenty-one tons per square inch. The maximum range is about thirteen miles, while the fighting range is from 6000 to 10,000 yards, at which distance the projectile will penetrate approximately eighteen inches of steel, depending, of course, upon its quality and the class of shell used.

In making the guns the most important point is accuracy. An imperfection hardly perceptible to the eye might mean a serious accident when the gun was fired at Indian head or on shipboard. For that reason all measurements must be exact to the smallest fraction of an inch.

NICKEL STEEL.

Guns are made of what is called nickel steel, which is purchased in open market. Owing to fluctuations in price, however, it is difficult to estimate the cost of material for a single gun. The number of pieces which comprise a gun vary according to the size, a twelve-inch gun, for example, being made of nine pieces, exclusive of the breech mechanism.

In manufacturing ordnance a large proportion of the castings are made in the foundry. In one year these amounted to 2,227,987 pounds, of which total the largest single metal ingredient was bronze, 1,284,596 pounds being used. All told, fourteen different metals were used in the various classes of castings made. In addition to this a total of 590,521 pounds of bronze turnings and scrap bronze were used. These had a value of 8 cents a pound, making the whole worth more than $46,000, this amount being saved to the government, as new material did not have to be purchased. In the same way 75,000 pounds of other metal scrap and turnings were used, which resulted in a similar saving. Besides castings a great many "drop forgings" are made at the yard, the number in one year being 75,220. The forgings produced at the forge shop amounted to 1,398,128 pounds.

YEARLY COST.

The value of a single year's work at the navy yard amounts to approximately $6,000,000, that including both material and labor. Of that amount about half is spent for material and more than one-third for labor. In addition to manufacturing guns, gunmounts, cartridge cases and other ornance are made at the yard.

Almost equally as important as the gunshop is the cartridge case shop. Here are manufactured the brass cartridge cases for minor caliber guns from the one-pounder to the six-inch. For the smaller cases electric presses are used, and for the larger ones hydraulic presses. These cases are made from brass slabs which are cast in a small foundry near the shop. When first received at the cartridge case shop these slabs are rolled, trimmed and "annealed," a heating process which prevents them from becoming too brittle to handle. After cooling the slabs are scraped in order to detect any imperfections, following which they are rolled about nine times to obtain the proper thickness. When the right thickness has been obtained discs are cut out, their size depending upon the size of the cartridge case to be made. The process of actually constructing the cases then begins, and consists of placing this flat disc under 100 or more tons pressure and forcing it into a cup shape. After each such operation the disc is annealed in order to prevent cracking. About twenty operations are necessary before a six-inch cartridge case has reached the proper length. After several "drawings," that being the term applied to the lengthening process, the case is taken to a machine which dents the head in. The case is then put through a series of operations which complete it, among these being stamping the initial of the commandant, those of the inspector and the year and place of construction on each case, thus identifying it for all time.

GAUGING CASES.

Once constructed, the cases are by no means ready for shipment, as the most important part of the work yet remains. This is gauging them for their accuracy. A cartridge case must be exact, otherwise when a gun is fired on shipboard a disastrous explosion may be caused. For this reason several tests are made before the cases leave the shop. These are made by the use of various gauges. Each gauge is composed of two parts, one which must fit the corresponding part of the case, while the other must be too large. The usual difference in the two parts of the gauge is about 5-1000 of an inch, that being the only margin allowed. In testing the primer plug no margin is allowed whatever, as that has to be exact to the minutest fraction of an inch. Each case is tested in about five to ten ways, according to its size. Ten different sized cases are made, while the annual output is from 15,000 to 20,000, according to the demand.

At the gun carriage shop are manufactured the gun mounts for the navy, the two styles used being the turret mounts and pedestal mounts. The seven-inch is the largest pedestal mount, the 8, 10, 12, 13 and 14 being turret mounts. For example, a pedestal mount for a six-inch fifty-caliber gun consists of a heavy steel pedestal, the upper part of which acts as a pivot for the top carriage, the latter being fitted with training gear, etc., and free to move around the pivot. The mount is also provided with a shield and two platforms for the gun pointers to stand on.

TURRET MOUNTS.

The twelve-inch and other large guns are mounted in pairs in turrets, working independently, except for the training. Turrets are made of heavy armor, securely bolted to a steel frame, with large holes in front, through which the guns project. The gun platform is formed of four heavy steel girders bolted to the inside of the turret, and to these are bolted the gun mounts proper. The mount itself is made in two principal parts, the bottom, which is bolted to the girders, and the slide, in which the gun rests. These mounts complete weigh about 100 tons.

In an average year the output of mounts may be small, if complete mounts are counted only, when as a matter of fact thousands of parts may have been made and shipped. Much of the work done at the navy yard is repair work or manufacturing the less important parts. In this way the actual work done is enormous, whereas a list of complete articles made might be small.

In the secondary mount shop are manufactured the fittings for the secondary battery guns, which consist of the one, three and six-pounder, the one-pounder automatic, and the one, three and six-pounder semi-automatic guns. These guns are thus designated on account of the weight of the projectile used, which is one, three and six pounds, respectively. A rapid-fire gun is one that uses fixed ammunition, and is loaded and fired by hand, about twenty-five discharges a minute being possible. A semi-automatic gun is one which is loaded by hand, while the gun automatically extracts the empty cartridge. About thirty discharges a minute are possible with this style. The automatic gun is self-loading and continues to fire as long as the finger is held on the trigger, about fifty shots a minute being fired.

The navy yard also has a pattern shop, where the various patterns used in the foundry for casting steel, iron, bronze, etc., are made. Ammunition boxes, sight boxes, etc., are also made. A tool shop, gunners' workshop, storehouse and miscellaneous shop are also included in the navy yard factory.

GROWTH OF THE YARD.

Benjamin Stoddert, first Secretary of the Navy, is responsible for the establishment of the Washington navy yard, as it was he who urged Congress to appropriate $1,000,000 for building six large men-of-war. Six cities were named, in each of which was to be a yard where one ship was to be built, and Washington was among these. Forty acres of land were purchased, and B. H. Latrobe, architect of the Capitol and other buildings, prepared the plans. This was in 1800. Up to 1806 three gunboats were built, costing $13,000 each. In the following six years ten gunboats were constructed, but at the end of this time, 1812, came the great blow and disaster at the navy yard. The British came, and troops were landed. The Secretary of the Navy, fearing the yard would fall into their hands, ordered the building burned, which was done at a loss of more than $400,000. After being rebuilt the navy yard flourished, although it was not until 1825 that the Secretary of the Navy, William C. Whitney, issued the order abolishing several of the departments there, and turned it over to the ordance department for the purpose of manufacturing naval guns, mounts, etc., since which time that has been the principal work done.

PRESIENT'S APPOINTMENTS.

About Eight Thousand Federal Officers Which Mr. Wilson May Use for Hungary Political Suppression.

[Dallas News:] For Democratic people who are interested just now in Federal office statistics, it may be timely to state that there are at this writing, 9546 government positions whose occupants are appointed by the President, subject to confirmation by the Senate. They are removable by the same authority that uses the appointing power. But of these Presidential offices fully 80 per cent., or 7953, are in the postal service—postmasters, one for each town, in which the postal receipts are over $1000 a year.

Of positions to which appointments may be made by the President without the advice and consent of the Senate, there are 993, of which 316 are in the department of justice, and scattered all over the country. The situation is importantly different from what it was at the beginning of the last Cleveland administration. Then places within the gift of the successful party were far more numerous. In all of the executive departments in Washington, there were chiefs of divisions appointed by the Cabinet officers, all of which are now in the classified civil service.

The number of employees in Washington protected by the civil service, according to the latest compilation, was 27,063, distributed in the several departments as follows:

State, 173; Treasury, 4997; War, 1085; Navy, 1080; Interior, 4549; Insane Hospital, 705; miscellaneous, 103; Justice, 241; Agriculture, 2708; Commerce and Labor, 1803; Interstate Commerce Commission, 155; Civil Service Commission, 175; Smithsonian Institution, 445; State, War and Navy buildings, 143; Isthmian Canal, 130; Government Printing Office, 2823.

There are besides these 4751 jobs not in the classified service, but nearly all of them are laborers' positions and held by residents at small pay. Of course, there are "excepted and non-competitive" positions, but these for the most part are personal appointive positions, such as private secretaries from the President down to Cabinet bureau chiefs, who are not disturbed in picking men of their personal preference. In short, besides the postmasterships and the personal appointments of a confidential nature, there will be just about one job that pays a decent living for one person in every eight thousand of those who voted for Wilson.

May Prove the Thing.

ELECTRICAL HEAT HAS A BENEFICIAL EFFECT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The success attending the National Orange Company's experiments with the electric heater as an agency for the protection of citrus fruit from frost, bids fair to revolutionize the methods employed in this district for safe-guarding the orchards in this particular section.

The past few cold nights have afforded opportunity for a fair test of the efficiency of this method of raising the temperature and the results, while not tabulated, show that the oranges on the outer side of the trees are kept fully seven degrees above the fruit in the same tract not provided with the protection. The fruit on the inside of the tree, accordingly, would show a temperature ranging much higher. However, this may be, the ability to command as much as seven degrees of heat by the simple turning of an electric switch, places in the hands of the orange grower the means to keep his groves out of the danger zone.

The heaters are suspended in the center of the trees and temperature tests made with government thermometers. The practice followed was to imbed a thermometer in an orange on the outer portion of the tree, a similar thermometer in an orange about twenty feet distant, in a tree not supplied with a heater. The readings showed a variation of seven degrees. The advantages of this type of heater, lie not only in its effectiveness, but in the ability to place the heat just where it is needed, in the great economy of labor, in the freedom from the objectionable smudge smoke, and last but not least, in the possibility of applying the heat before the frost has partially done its work.

With the Goods.

ANGELENO BANDITS ARE TAKEN AT SANTA BARBARA

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Heavily armed and having in their possession loot reported to have been stolen in Saticoy a few nights ago, three alleged desperadoes were arrested here this evening by Capt. Sam Kelly and Patrolman Charles Hacking. The trio gave their names as George Darling, Thomas Mendersa and Jose Gallendo.

Locked in the City Jail, the prisoners refused to talk of their plight other than saying they are from Los Angeles. In their pockets were found thirty-one books of postage stamps and it is believed they must have robbed some small postoffice between here and Los Angeles. A dozen rings and some watch chains also were among their effects, these having been identified as articles stolen at Saticoy.

Chief of Police Ross telephoned to the Los Angeles police department asking if men answering the description of the trio are wanted there. No response has been received.

It is the opinion of the police Chief that the men intended to pull off a burglary here tonight and that they were taken in custody just in time. Though they carried a Colt and two automatic revolvers, no resistance was made by the suspects who were taken unawares by the officers.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

At a conference between city officials yesterday it was decided to ask for an issue of $12,500,000 bonds for municipal projects at a special election to be held February 11. Another conference will be held next Monday and other bond propositions discussed and urged.

Two saloon keepers of San Pedro filed applications with the secretary of the Police Commission yesterday to be allowed to move their saloons from the harbor to the Los Angeles liquor zone. Many applications have been filed for the two permits it is possible to issue under the liquor ordinance to complete the 200 saloons allowed in Los Angeles.

The special committee to secure harbor boulevard rights of way at San Pedro conferred with the Municipal Railroad Committee yesterday and will meet again today to decide upon plans and a proposition to make to the Espee and P. E.

A petition was filed yesterday asking that the building ordinance be amended so that frame buildings within the fire limits may be bettered, provided in so doing their life is not prolonged.

The wheels of justice moved with the speed of the wind in the case of Levi Ehresman, confessed murderer, yesterday. He was held to answer to the Superior Court, pleaded guilty, and was told he will be sentenced tomorrow morning.

At the City Hall.

BOND ELECTION IN FEBRUARY.

WILL ASK ISSUE OF TWELVE AND A HALF MILLIONS.

Other Projects Yet to Be Considered May Be Added to List for Submission to Electors—Further Conferences Next Monday by Department Heads and Council.

Twelve and a half millions of dollars is the amount decided upon by the Mayor, members of the City Council and heads of city departments at a conference held yesterday as proper to be asked for, through an indorsement of the proposed bond issues by the people, in order to carry forward power and water distribution projects. February 11, 1913, is to be the date of the proposed bond election, if present plans mature.

Indications point, however, to the presentation of further bond propositions that will include at least two other projects and probably four, and certain members of the City Council will work strenuously to have all of these submitted to the people at one election. A further conference between the Council, members of department heads and the Mayor will be held next Monday.

At yesterday's conference the following propositions were decided upon:

First—To ask a bond issue of $1,500,000 for the construction of a trunk line for the aqueduct water through Franklin Canyon and to the city.

Second—A bond issue of $2,500,000 for the construction of a portion of the Graham distributing system from the San Fernando reservoir, through the Verdugo Hills to Pasadena—this being only a part of the $8,500,000 needed to complete the Graham project, according to the estimates.

Third—A bond issue of $2,000,000 for the construction of a distributing system and the necessary reservoirs in the San Fernando Valley.

Fourth—A bond issue of $6,500,000 for the construction or acquirement by purchase of an electric power distributing system for the handling of the power generated on the Los Angeles aqueduct.

Other projects that will be considered at next Monday's conference are the continuation of development at the Los Angeles harbor, and the construction of the proposed municipal railroad. Each of these has supporters who believe their present needs are imperative.

In addition to this at least two other projects will be forced to the attention of the men participating in the bond-issue conference. One of these will be an issue for a City Hall, probably of $1,000,000, and a bond issue of $600,000, to pay for the recently-contracted-for State Normal School site.

The total bonding capacity of the city is $55,000,000, and of this there has already been issued bonds to the amount of $35,427,537. In the sinking fund there is $2,198,710, about half in cash and half in bonds, so that this could be used for the purchase of new bonds if they are declared legal, thus giving the city in reality the bond limit of from $20,000,000 to $21,000,000.

While the Mayor has taken a position that only those bond issues that are imperative should be submitted at this time, Councilman Whiffen, who is head of the Council's Finance Committee, and the expect financier of the Council, declares in favor of formulating all the bond propositions that are discussed and submitting them to the people at the one election. He believes that certain of them would go down to defeat, but that it is better to submit them now than to have the extra expense of a later election.

SEES LIGHT AHEAD.

HARBOR BOULEVARD PLANS.

The special committee of the Harbor Advisory Board, composed of President Woodman of the Harbor Commission, President Hubbard of the Board of Public Works, President Foulkes of the Public Utilities Commission, Special Counsel Hewitt and City Engineer Hamlin, met with the Council's Municipal Railroad Committee, Reed, Whiffen and Topham, yesterday afternoon, to discuss plans for the acquirement of rights of way for the Harbor boulevard between Fourth and Fourteenth streets, San Pedro.

Although no definite conclusion was reached it was announced after the session that good progress had been made and that the committees would confer again this afternoon at 2:30, to try to reach a basis of agreement. The particular subject on which agreement has not yet been reached is the proposed reduction of the width of the boulevard. Its original plan was for a width of 120 feet; the special committee of the Harbor Advisory Board has a plan that would reduce this to 102 feet, while the plans of the Municipal Railroad Committee would cut it still further, until it would be only sixty feet wide in certain sections.

The purpose is to adopt a plan that will eliminate the question of damages to the Espee and Pacific Electric to the greatest possible extent. When this basis is reached, the city officials will be in a position to make their direct proposition to the railroad companies, and unless an agreement can be reached, there, the condemnation suits now in court will be modified so as to correspond to the changes adopted, and the suits may have to be carried through to trial.

They'd Like to Transfer.

When the Police Commission meets today it will have before it the applications of two saloon keepers of San Pedro, for permission to remove their saloons from that liquor zone to the Los Angeles liquor zone. This is in accord with the petition of the Harbor Dry Zone League, and the announcement of the commission at its last session that it would consider such applications. The commission has agreed, however, that it will take no action on filling the vacant places in the 200 saloons allowed Los Angeles, until after the opening of the new year, and the Mayor stated yesterday that the San Pedro applicants would be investigated. There are many other applications for the two possible permits, and more are to be filed.

Would Build Tramway.

The Hammond Lumber Company made a new application to the City Council yesterday for a permit to erect and operate an electric, overhead, double-track tramway across Fourth street on Terminal Island, for the purpose of handling lumber.

Seek Betterments for Buildings.

A petition filed with the City Clerk yesterday asks for the amendment of the building ordinances so that permits may be issued for changes in frame buildings now existing within the fire limits, which will not tend to lengthen the life of the buildings, but would better the sanitary conditions for the employees therein.

Piers Are Renewed.

The Board of Public Works accepted yesterday, the work of the Mercereau Bridge and Construction Company, in the renewal of the channel piers of the First-street viaduct. These had become weakened by the extensive excavation of gravel and sand, and the work was undertaken as a safeguard against destruction by the winter floods. The board also recommended that the chain gang be set to work to build embankments of cobble-stone at the end piers of the Avenue Twenty Arroyo Seco bridge.

Bid Was Prohibitive.

Only one bid was submitted to the Board of Public Works for the furnishing of reinforcing steel for concrete work on the San Francisquito to Canyon Power-house No. 1, and this was rejected yesterday on the ground that it was prohibitive on account of proposed deliveries. The board will at once readvertise for new bids.

City Hall Brevities.

J. G. Whitaker of No. 3712 Griffin avenue, filed with the City Clerk yesterday a protest against the proposed opening and widening of Griffin avenue from Avenue 28 to the northerly city limits, stating that he has 1200 feet of frontage on the avenue, and that recently he was compelled to pay a $5000 assessment thereon for street work, while the property is to be subjected to assessments for the East Side library site, the Broadway tunnel and the Arroyo Seco parkway.

A new petition to the City Council was filed yesterday from merchants on Main and Spring streets and Broadway, asking for an ordinance prohibiting the employment of "cappers" at auction houses or the solicitation of trade on the streets or from doorways. It is largely signed.

A petition asking that Second Avenue be opened to vehicle traffic was referred by the Streets and Boulevards Committee of the Council yesterday to the City Engineer for checking the frontage represented.

The Streets and Boulevards Committee of the Council recommended yesterday the granting of a petition for the opening and widening of Hoover street from Ninth street to a point 105 feet south of San Marino street. On the petition is represented a majority of the 5000 feet of frontage in the proposed assessment district.

The map of the assessment district for the proposed paving of East Eighth street from Main street to the river was approved by the Streets and Boulevards Committee yesterday. The assessment falls entirely upon the street frontage and the intersections.

The difficulties over dust in the Nichols Canyon road are to be solved by action agreed upon yesterday. The owners of the stone quarries, from which arises the heavy traffic, will furnish free of cost and spread upon the street the necessary gravel and crushed rock, and the city will oil the street.

President Woodman of the Harbor Commission, and President Hubbard of the Board of Public Works, in company with the City Engineer and harbor officials, inspected the Wilmington water frontage yesterday, and decided to recommend to the Harbor Advisory Board that dredging on the Wilmington channel and the fill of the lands lying north of the railroad tracks and along Canal street be undertaken as soon as possible.

The Harbor Commission decided yesterday to grant as a temporary location for the house of the Los Angeles Motor Boat Club a section of inner harbor frontage in the Wilmington basin, west of Canal street. The Legislation Committee of the City Council decided to send back to the Council without recommendation, yesterday, the applications for street railway franchises on West Vernon avenue and Avenue 64; while it recommended the granting of a franchise for a road to cross Griffin avenue and connect with the Los Angeles railway in Highland Park. The other franchises were recommended for twenty-one-year tenures by the Board of Public Utilities. Councilman Reed gave notice that he would object to the issuance of any but indeterminate franchises for the proposed lines.

HAS THE HABIT.

For the second time in three days R. D. Mussey was fined in Justice Chambers's court yesterday when he was ordered to pay $35 on a charge of riding his motorcycle while drunk. The arrest was made last Tuesday, two hours after he was fined $30 for speeding. Immediately upon leaving court on that occasion he left his machine standing in front of the Central Police Station while he went down the street and drowned his sorrows.

MOVIE ACTORS PAY.

Elario Pino and William Eagle Eye, two Indian employees of a moving picture company, arrested Wednesday for fighting at Eighteenth and Alessandro streets, were found guilty in Justice Chambers's court yesterday afternoon and were fined $15 each. They paid.

At the Courthouse.

SPEED O' WIND IN THIS TRIAL.

PRELIMINARY, PLEA, SENTENCE IN TWO DAYS' TIME.

Examination at Pomona in Morning, Race to This City in Fast Automobile, Filing of Information and Admission of Guilt in Rapid Order.

Levi Ehresman, confessed slayer of Jack H. Nicholson near San Dimas the night of the 9th inst., pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree in Department Ten yesterday afternoon and will be sentenced by Judge Willis tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Although charged with murder in the first degree, Deputy District Attorney Alexander accepted the plea. Ehresman was represented by Attorney W. L. Hamlin of Pomona, and was in the custody of Constable F. O. Slanker, who made the arrest.

Ehresman, chunky and undersized, attired in a long overcoat and holding his cap in hand, stood as though dazed while making his plea. That the fear of capital punishment was in his mind was evidenced when he whispered to Hamlin after he pleaded:

"They can only give me life now, can't they?"

His face cleared when his plea of murder in the second degree was accepted, but clouded as the court said he would pronounce sentence within forty-two hours. A battery of photographers found Ehresman a complaisant subject, but his mind was not on the present. He appeared to be fighting out some question, relapsing into brooding thought when not questioned by his counsel.

While awaiting the arrival of Judge Willis the prisoner sat with his head in his hand, showing no interest in his surroundings and apparently oblivious to the report when a flashlight was taken.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the preliminary examination was begun at Pomona, with Deputy District Attorney Joos appearing for the State. At 11:55 o'clock the defendant had been held to answer in the Superior Court. At 12:05 o'clock he was bundled into a county automobile, driven by William Orr of the District Attorney's force, with Joos, Hamlin and Constable Slanker.

At 1 o'clock the party arrived at the Hall of Records. It is likely that close questioning would elicit the information that some speed laws were shattered, but it was county business that called. No one stopped for lunch. Joos prepared the information and filed it at 2 o'clock. An hour later Ehresman had entered his plea before Judge Willis. The county will be saved an expensive trial and there is no danger that Ehresman will get off with a verdict of manslaughter, such as a jury might have brought in. The penalty for murder in the second degree is a sentence of from ten years to life in the penitentiary.

WIDOW'S SUIT.

NAMES MANY DEFENDANTS.

A suit transferred from San Francisco to collect judgment for $20,000 found against the Pacific Sugar Company at Corcoran was filed in this county yesterday and names 553 defendants. The plaintiff is Annie L. Leffert, widow of William Leo Leffert, master mechanic employed by the company, who was killed July 15, 1908, by the explosion of a machine.

Since the judgment was given it is alleged that the Pacific Sugar Company has transferred its assets to the Southwestern Sugar Company, which is operating the Corcoran plant. Mrs. Leffert is suing to collect the amount of the judgment from the stockholders.

NEW TRIAL DENIED.

COURT FIXES RESPONSIBILITY.

In denying the motion for a new trial in the damage action brought by Mathias Schmidlin against the Alta Planing Mill Company and others, in which judgment was given against the painter who had the contract for Pantages Theater, the court held the responsibility is that of the contractor and not of the owner.

A non-suit was granted in the trial in favor of the Alta Planing Mill Company. Schmidlin asked for a new trial against Alexander Pantages, owner of the building, and the planing mill company. The plaintiff contended the latter company was liable in its capacity as employer and because it had not furnished him with a safe place to work. The evidence showed that Schmidlin was standing in an alley when a bucket of paint fell from a scaffold painters were adjusting, striking him on the head.

MUTE RELICS.

COINS SAVE MAN'S LIFE.

Two bent half dollars, a purse and a bullet flattened into the shape of an old shoe are the mute evidences of a crime alleged to have been committed by Pedro Senchez. The relics, held as evidence in the criminal department of the Superior Court, on the second floor of the Courthouse, are considered among the most marvelous of the heterogenous collection for the reason that the purse containing the half dollars was not penetrated, neither does it show an abrasion indicating that the bullet struck it. The coins were minted in 1905 and 1908.

Senchez's alleged victim was Joseph Hilts, who avers he was held up and shot at. Senches was bound over to the Superior Court yesterday by Recorder O'Donnell of Vernon.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

WIDOW'S WILL. Teresa Casal Sanchez, who died on the 19th inst., left an estate of $40,000. The petition for the probate of the will was filed yesterday by Thomas L. Dubuque, and shows cash on hand, promissory notes and real estate comprise the property left by Mrs. Sanchez, who was the widow of Antonio Sanchez. The residence is bequeathed to Luisa Sanchez, a daughter; the residue of the property is divided between Luisa and her sister, Teresa Sanchez de Maurico.

NEW TRIAL DENIED. Judge Wilbur denied the motion for a new trial yesterday in the suit of A. B. Spencer against L. S. Barnes, which grew out of an option on mining claims in Riverside county. The court gave judgment for Spencer for $69,000, holding the partnership arrangement between the men is in force and that Spencer is entitled to share in a division of the profits resulting from the sale of the mining claims to E. H. Harriman. These claims comprise the famous Iron Chief Mining Company, and sold for more than $1,000,000. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court.

TRIAL SET. The trial of William Arens, charged with manslaughter growing out of the death of Margaret Mathewson, who was caught under a taxicab when the latter overturned while returning from a trip to Vernon, was set by Judge McCormick for February 17. Arens pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was driving the taxi when the accident occurred.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Seventeen Warrants Issued for Grocers and Others for Violation of Pure Food Law.

On complaint of Frank Oakley, inspector for the State Pure Food Commission, seventeen warrants charging violation of the pure food laws were issued by the City Prosecutor yesterday, all returnable in Judge Chambers's court. Most of the complaints are against grocers. They are as follows:

W. A. Glasscock, adulterated cocoa; J. R. Newberry, adulterated molasses; John Moroat, mislabeled eggs; M. Nazarion, mislabeled eggs; F. K. Nuya-Kawa, adulterated ice cream; A. B. McDonald, mislabeled mineral water; Albert Cohn, adulterated coffee; John Joseph, adulterated coffee; P. Sentich, adulterated whisky; A. Shapiro, adulterated whisky; K. Watanabe, adulterated grape juice; E. Dionne, adulterated vinegar; J. B. Ingram, mislabeled oyster cocktail; G. Truffo and D. Truffo, mislabeled eggs; Y. Y. Perez, adulterated coffee; F. F. Gunn, adulterated coffee; Ray O'Brien, mislabeled eggs.

Christmas Cheer.

Christmas brought the usual holiday grist of drunks to the Central Police Station. To the stroke of midnight Wednesday the record for the day was 148. Of these, 132 were released by the Sunrise Court yesterday. The remainder appeared before Police Judge Chambers and were either fined or jailed, the sentences ranging from five days to thirty, and the fines amounting to an equal number of dollars in most cases. The ordinary daily average of arrests on this charge is sixty-five to seventy.

Sixty beggars arrested Christmas Day were sent to jail for thirty days by Judge Chambers yesterday.

Flag Insulters Arraigned.

Mike Mott and George Ziomicih, two Austrians arrested Wednesday for having trampled an American flag and engaged in a fight with persons who sought to interfere, were arraigned before Judge Chambers yesterday, and entered pleas of not guilty. They will be tried next Monday afternoon.

Puck in Disguise.

Arrested on complaint of Miss Ione Rose, who charged him with having pinched her, P. J. McKenzie of Boyle Heights was sentenced yesterday by Judge Chambers to ninety days in jail.

Both the girl and her mother, Mrs. C. F. Rose, testified they were looking in a show window on Main street, near Fourth, when McKenzie, a stranger to them, pinched the girl on the hip.

THE RECORD CHRISTMAS.

Tree Thirty Feet High and Carrying a Thousand Presents at Athletic Club Tonight.

A Christmas tree more than thirty feet in height was hauled by block and tackle to the gymnasium of the Los Angeles Athletic Club building yesterday and a thousand presents were tied to its spreading branches. The forest giant has been elaborately decorated and the members and guests of the club will have a tremendous Christmas party tonight.

The evening's cheer begins with a big dinner at 7 o'clock, which will be enjoyed by 300 members and 100 guests. At 8:30 o'clock Alfred Allen will stage a playlet called "The Real Q," with Henry Daley and Norwood Howard as the Mansfield and Boothe of the performance. Half an hour later Hobart Bosworth and the members of his company will stage "The Critic." At 10 o'clock the monks' processional arranged by George Towle will require the entire balcony of the gymnasium. The monks will chant Christmas carols and as they include sixteen members of the Ellis Club and fourteen other good voices the music is certain to be excellent.

These festivities have been arranged by Ed Bergstrom, Norwood Howard and Lou Guernsey. The committee raised $1500 for the production of the two plays. As the club has a membership of 3000 tonight's celebration will be immense literally as well as figuratively.

SMALL VICTIM OF CROWD.

Little Boy Is Run Over by Auto When He Turns Back With Mother to Find His Sister.

A large touring car driven by Ralph H. Holmes, president of the Holmes Music Company, ran over 6-year-old Leonard Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hines, No. 825 West Avenue 50, yesterday afternoon at Fifth and Broadway. One front wheel passed over the body just below the breast bone. Holmes hurried the child to the Receiving Hospital, where he was attended by Drs. Kidder and Webber. They believe the internal injuries will not prove fatal.

The boy was accompanied by his mother. She turned back to look for her little daughter, lost in the crowd, and the lad turned to follow her when he was struck. Holmes says his car was moving slowly. Traffic Officer Van Norman says the machine moved forward on the signal.

BAD TEETH AND AN EDUCATION.

FREE DENTAL CLINIC FOR POOR CHILDREN IN DANGER.

Request for More and Better Facilities Causes Debate in School Board—Female Member Strongly Opposes—Torrance Makes Liberal Offer for School for New City.

The bone of contention in the School Department—the Health Department—was the cause of a warm debate at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education. A dental clinic, with one dentist and an attendant, is now conducted at the Castelar-street school in a building belonging to the school department but standing on private ground. An appeal was made for more permanent quarters, an increase in the pay of the attendant and for the services of another dentist. The privilege was also asked of giving an entertainment to aid in defraying the expenses of the clinic, and soliciting the moral support of the board.

Mrs. Craig quickly opposed the whole proposition on the grounds that it was work outside the province of the Board of Education and because money was needed for other things. "It seems to me we are going into the hospital business," she said, "and we should confine ourselves to educational matters."

"What are we going to do about that playground proposition?" asked Scott.

"Oh, no," continued Scott, "not while you are putting great gymnasiums in all the High Schools. We've got enough money in one of these big gymnasiums to furnish free clinics for all the school districts in the city."

"I think," persisted Mrs. Craig, "that when people are complaining of high taxes we should have them understand that we are acting strictly within our educational sphere, and not go outside doing work that does not belong to us. I question our right to have anything to do with an entertainment for the purpose indicated."

The services of the clinic are given free to the children of the poor, upon the theory that no child with defective teeth can be properly developed in the schools.

Col. Steadman entered the debate by saying: "If we have the right, we can do no better than spend some of the money on these poor little children who have defective teeth, and who will get attention in this way or not at all. I do believe, however, that we should see more attention given to the rudiments of education. I got a letter from a High School graduate the other day that was a disgrace. I know you don't like to hear that, Mr. Francis, but if I am right there is something wrong in the High Schools."

"That was too many," laughingly returned the superintendent.

The matter was finally handed over to the tender mercies of the Finance Committee.

The owners of the Torrance townsite, where a new city is rapidly being built in the southern part of the school district, made several propositions to the Board of Education for the erection of a school building. They offered a full city block and land free and a donation of $5000 if a permanent building is erected at once; or, to erect the building on plans furnished by the board if they would agree to buy it within two years; or, to donate a smaller site if temporary school buildings were put on it at once. The finance and building committees were asked to take up the subject and report at the next meeting.

MUST PAY FOR STOCK.

Supreme Court Rules Packers Must Also Settle for the Accrued Dividends.

The Supreme Court has reversed the judgment of the Superior Court of this county in favor of the defendant in the suit of O. A. and B. L. Vickery against Simon Maier and John T. Jones, involving the sale of sixty shares of the Maier Packing Company. The court finds for the plaintiffs in all essentials.

It appears that in 1905 the plaintiff subscribed for the stock, paying $30,000; that the shares were issued February 20, 1906, and they still held them. On the day the stock was taken an agreement was made by which it appeared that Maier and Jones were desirous of securing the stock back again; that the Vickreys were to give them the first refusal in case they cared to sell, and Jones were to pay 6 per cent. from the date of payment of the last dividend.

No dividends have been declared on the stock since July 2, 1906, and the demand was made by the Vickreys that Maier and Jones, by virtue of the agreement referred to, pay the dividends in arrears to them, and in addition the purchase price of the sixty shares of stock. This was made of the defendants as asked was refused, and judgment was asked for the aggregate amount due under the contract, the purchase price of the stock and accruing dividends. The answer filed by the defendants denied the allegation, the statute of limitations, and further claim that the action was based on the theory that for the re-purchase of the stock the statutory period of limitation of the Supreme Court had run against Jones and Jones.
